IN MEMORIAM.

HALL—In ever-loving memory of Margaret Ann Hall, who died at 29 Herbert avenue, Merrion, on 18th October, 1930. "Until the day break."

HAMILTON—In cherished memory of my dearly-beloved husband, James (Jim), called Home on October 18th, 1927. Sadly missed.

When we asunder part
It gives us inward pain,
But we shall still be joined in heart,
And hope to meet again.

JOHNSTON—In loving memory of my father, Samuel Bozman Johnston, who died on 16th October, 1922; also my mother, Janet, who died on 18th October, 1906. "Severed only till He come."

DUBLIN CIRCUIT (CRIMINAL) COURT

LIFE IMPRISONMENT AND FLOGGING.

JUDGE'S WARNING TO BANK RAIDERS.

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

Sentencing Thomas F. Ryan and James Jones to three years' penal servitude each in connection with the attempted robbery at the Inchicore branch of the Hibernian Bank on September 16th, Judge Shannon remarked that each of the prisoners had pleaded guilty to a number of charges of a serious character. The first was that of assaulting two officials of the bank with intent to rob the premises. The maximum penalty which the law provided for such an offence was imprisonment for life, in addition to being flogged.

That was a matter which the prisoners should bear in mind in years to come, and it may be of interest also to other people in possession of firearms who may have such intentions as the accused men had.

For having firearms with intent to endanger life they could be sentenced to twenty years' penal servitude, but, having taken into account their plea of guilty and the fact that both were young men without a previous conviction, he must show the prisoners and others that their offences would receive punishment.

On the first count of attempting to rob the Hibernian Bank each of the prisoners would be sentenced to three years' penal servitude. On the count of conspiring to rob the bank they would receive six months' imprisonment, which would run concurrently with the previous sentence. Jones had pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiring to steal a motor car, and for that he would receive a sentence of six months' imprisonment, to run concurrently with the others. On the charges of being in possession of arms and ammunition without a certificate each of them would receive three years' penal servitude, to run concurrently with the imprisonment already imposed.

Mr. M. Maguire, K.C., and Mr. J. A. McCarthy (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) appeared for the prosecution.

ST. STEPHEN'S DAY ACCIDENT.

IMPRISONMENT FOR NEGLIGENT DRIVING.

William Moran, 3 South Richmond street, Dublin, pleaded not guilty to charges of causing bodily harm to Peter Kane, of Ballyedmonduff, Sandyford, Co. Dublin, by the furious and negligent driving of a motor car.

Mr. P. Lynch, K.C. (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor) prosecuted, and Mr. L. T. McCarthy, solicitor, defended.

Peter Kane said that on December 26th, 1931, between 6 and 7 o'clock, he was on the way home when he was knocked down by a motor car. He did not see or hear the car before it struck him. The car did not stop, and the next thing he remembered was being in the Meath Hospital.

Cross-examined by Mr. McCarthy, he said that he remained in Murphy's licensed premises in Stepaside for four hours and had only five or six bottles of stout. He was quite sober.

Sergeant J. Hanley, Dundrum, said that on the evening of 26th December the accused man was perfectly sober.

The prisoner, in evidence, said that on the 26th December last he left Dublin in his motor car with his wife, his baby daughter, his brother and a Mr. McNally, and they went to Mrs. O'Grady's, in Glencullen, at about 6 p.m. They returned to Dublin, passing through Dundrum, where there was an accident. He picked up two friends and returned to Glencullen and went to Fox's, a public-house. They came home about 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning. When he passed Glencullen, about 6 o'clock, he had no recollection of having collided with anybody. If any man was injured on the road it was not due to his car or driving.

Judge Shannon said that it was unfortunate that the Guards did not test the car to see if the brakes and lights were efficient.

The jury, after an absence of an hour and twenty-five minutes, found the prisoner not guilty on two out of three counts, but found him guilty of wilfully negligent driving.

Judge Shannon imposed a sentence of nine months' imprisonment.

The Court adjourned until this morning.

HIRE-PURCHASE FURNITURE.

Annie O'Brien, of 34 Leinster avenue, pleaded guilty to a charge of fraudulently converting to her own use furniture to the value of £118 2s. 6d., the property of Maurice Stein, while in her possession as bailee.

Judge Shannon, in binding her to the peace for two years, remarked that it was an extraordinary thing that a woman, who said that she was a fruit, vegetable and fish dealer, should get credit for furniture so unsuited to her for such an amount.

ZIG-ZAGGING MOTORIST FINED.

At Howth District Court yesterday, Charles Keoghan, Gardiner street, Dublin, was fined £5 for reckless driving at Howth.

Guard Lyons said that he saw the car zig-zagging and stopped it.

Sergeant Nolan said that the defendant was a respectable man, and he was not very drunk.

The Frobation Act was applied on that charge.

Mr. J. P. Murnane (instructed by Jordan and Co.) appeared for the defendant.

Thousands of ladies keep a box of Martin's Pills in the house. Those who use them recommend them; hence their enormous sale. Price 5s. Sold by all Chemists and Stores; or post free from proprietors, Martin, Chemist, Southampton. —(Advt.)

DUBLIN CIRCUIT COURT.

DUN LAOGHAIRE'S HOTELS.

LICENCE APPLICATION.

(BEFORE JUDGE DAVITT.)

Tourist and transport experts gave evidence of the need for a second large fully-licensed hotel in Dun Laoghaire, in view of the increasing number of visitors, when an application was heard from Mrs. Mary Coldwell for a new licence for Ross's Hotel, Dun Laoghaire.

The application was opposed by the Licensed Grocers' and Vintners' Protection Association, who were represented by Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., and Mr. Patrick Cunniam (instructed by Mr. P. F. O'Reilly), and by the Civic Guards, for whom Mr. T. Clarke appeared. The application was made by Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C. (instructed by Mr. C. B. W. Boyle).

Mr. Maguire said that the application for a new licence was first before the Courts in 1926, when it was refused by Mr. Justice Dromgoole. The matter was brought before the High Court and that refusal was set aside, but the case was not again brought forward until now. In the meantime great improvements and additions had been made to Ross's Hotel, and there was a more enlightened outlook in respect of the administration of the licensing regulations. There was a growing recognition of the need of having hotels properly equipped, in every way to meet the very important tourist traffic. In the present case, Mrs. Coldwell had no intention of setting up an ordinary bar if the licence were granted. Her intention was to use the licence mainly for the reasonable accommodation of her guests, and the granting of it would not mean any addition to the ordinary drinking facilities provided in public-houses in Dun Laoghaire. There was only one large hotel in Dun Laoghaire with a full licence, and there was a distinct need for a second. In Bray, Greystones, Dalkey, Howth and other places with much smaller populations the hotel licences were more numerous.

In reply to Judge Davitt, Mr. Rice, K.C., said that he appeared to oppose on behalf of "a parishioner."

Evidence in support of the application was given by Mr. James Doyle, manager of the hotels department of the Great Southern Railways; Mr. William Giles, a tourist official; Mr. John W. Manning, manager of Jury's Hotel, Dublin; Mr. Robert Kidney, secretary of the Hotels and Restaurant and Catering Trades' Association; Mr. J. M. Irwin, Irish traffic manager of the London, Midland and Scottish Railway Company; Mr. J. P. O'Brien, secretary of the Irish Tourist Association; Sir Thomas Robinson, Mr. Paul Besson, president of the Hotel, Restaurant and Catering Trades' Association, and managing director of the Royal Hibernian Hotel, Dublin, and the Salthill Hotel, Monkstown; and other witnesses.

Inspector Gilbride, of the Civic Guards, and Mr. John Walters, a local licensee, gave evidence that, in their opinion, there was sufficient licensed accommodation to meet the requirements of the district.

Judgment was reserved.

A CIRCUIT COURT DECREE.

POINT IN ROSCOMMON APPEAL.

(BEFORE THE CHIEF JUSTICE, MR. JUSTICE FITZGIBBON AND MR. JUSTICE MURNAGHAN)

An appeal was brought on behalf of Patrick Hunt, of Milltown, Castleplunkett, County Roscommon, the defendant in a civil bill brought by the National Bank, from the refusal of the High Court to grant a conditional order for certiorari to quash a decree given by County Court Judge Wakely against Mr. Hunt for £65 5s. 3d.

Mr. Wood, K.C., and Mr. Barra O Briain (instructed by Mr. Michael J. C. Keane) appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Hogan (instructed by Messrs. Maurice Staunton and Son) for the National Bank.

The civil bill, said Mr. Wood, was issued against Patrick Hunt as personal representative of his deceased father, who was also named Patrick. The decree made by the Circuit Judge, on its face, showed that Patrick Hunt in the title was sued as personal representative of Patrick Hunt, deceased, and the grounds of appeal really were that the Circuit Judge had omitted to direct the Sheriff to take in execution the goods of Patrick Hunt, deceased; that the decree was a judgment against the appellant personally, and that the order was made without jurisdiction, and was bad on its face.

A considerable part of the argument was directed to the question whether certiorari could be obtained against a decree of the Circuit Court, and on the conclusion of the hearing the Court reserved judgment.

HOWTH 'BUS DRIVER CHARGED.

MANSLAUGHTER OF TWO PASSENGERS.

A 'bus driver, Thomas Ryan, of Church road, Howth, was charged at Howth District Court yesterday with the manslaughter of Annie Hopkins, 15 Seaview terrace, Howth, and Bernard McArdle, North Strand, at Howth on the morning of July 23rd. The hearing was adjourned for a month.

The police case is that near Howth Demesne the defendant's 'bus struck into a lorry, from which some scaffolding poles were protruding, one of which was forced through the door of the 'bus, striking Miss Hopkins and Mr. McArdle and also the conductor. The two passengers died of multiple injuries.

BANKS' MORTGAGES.

PUBLICAN "WORKING FOR NOTHING."

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

In a mortgage suit of the Munster and Leinster Bank v. Shevlin,

Mr. Fitzsimons (instructed by Messrs. Phelan and Co.) applied that a mortgage in the hands of the plaintiffs amounting to £4,128 for principal and interest was well charged on the licensed premises in Main street, Carrickmacross, the property of John J. Shevlin.

Counsel explained that the premises were put up for sale in October last, but no offer was made. Subsequently Bernard Shevlin, Coolnamoney, Carrickmacross, made a private offer of £1,250 for the premises. The plaintiffs were willing to accept this offer, as they were of the opinion that no more could be got for the premises. The application was for an order that the mortgage was well charged and that the defendant should be ordered to hand over possession of the premises at once.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that Shevlin had addressed a letter to the Court asking for leniency and stating that he had taken over the property when times were good. Owing to the troubles and to the drop in everything during the last twelve years, he had lost everything, and was working every year for nothing. Considering that the bank was now prepared to write down the mortgage from £4,000 to £1,200, which it was prepared to accept from an outside source, he thought he should be given the benefit of the offer. He was prepared to take the premises at this new value and would pay the bank in weekly or monthly instalments as ordered. Although he had no loose cash, he was paying his debts, notwithstanding that his other creditors rushed him when the bank sued him.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that all he could do was to make the order asked for. He could, of course, put on a stay, but he did not think this would be any use, the debt was such a huge one. He accordingly made the order sought.

MONAGHAN PREMISES.

Mr. Marnan (instructed by Mr. John Tweedy) applied for a similar order in the mortgage suit of the Provincial Bank v. J. W. Treanor, Monaghan, the property, as in the previous case, being licensed premises in the occupation of the defendant, and, in addition, house property occupied by a number of weekly tenants. The amount due on foot of the mortgage was £2,824 principal and £34 interest.

There was no appearance on behalf of the defendant.

Mr. Justice Johnston ordered that the mortgage was well charged on the property and directed that the property should be sold and that a receiver should be appointed pending the sale.

A TIPPERARY JUDGMENT.

In a suit of Bagots, Hutton and Kinahan, Ltd., v. Daniel J. Ryan, on the application of Mr. Joseph McCarthy, Mr. Justice Johnston made an order that a judgment for £153 obtained by the plaintiffs against the defendant was well charged on the defendant's premises at Main street and Bridge street, Tipperary.

MADE THREE WILLS.

CLARE FARMER'S ESTATE FOR WIDOW.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE SULLIVAN AND MR. JUSTICE O'BYRNE.)

The Court dismissed an appeal which was brought on behalf of Patrick Conroy, of Cross, Kilkeady, Tubber, County Clare, a minor, suing by Margaret Conroy, his mother, from an order of Circuit Court Judge McElligott, admitting to probate the will of James Forde, late of Ballalinglish, Tubber, dated 22nd July, 1930.

The respondent in the appeal was Margaret Forde, widow of the testator.

It was stated that the testator had made three wills—one on the 26th June, 1930; one on the 22nd July, 1930, and another later on the same day. The last will had been condemned, and Mr. J. McM. Lynch, solicitor, had given evidence in the Circuit Court that the earlier will of the 22nd July was torn by him in the presence of the testator because he was vexed with the deceased man for having given him instructions for it, and then, when it was executed, given him instructions for a totally different will. It was the torn will which was admitted to probate. In it the testator left everything to his wife.

Mr. Michael Comyn, K.C., and Mr. Hogan (instructed by Mr. J. MacNamara) appeared for the appellant; and Mr. Binchy, K.C., and Mr. Cullinan (instructed by Messrs. Kerin and Hickman) for the respondent.

PRIMATE BOULTER'S BOUNTY.

JUDGMENT NEXT MONDAY.

The case of the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland against the Rev. H. C. Cave, Malahide, and others was in the list to be mentioned.

This was an appeal on behalf of the Rev. J. R. Colthurst, one of the defendants, representing poor parishes, and principally was from so much of a judgment of the High Court as declared that the sum of £19,056 10s., representing the balance of a fund which originally came from the bounty of Archbishop Boulter, a former Primate of All Ireland, was applicable to such purposes as the Representative Church Body, under the direction of the General Synod, should at any time, or from time to time, think fit, and that this sum was not subject to the trusts affecting the Boulter Trust.

The Court had directed that notice should be served on the Commissioners for Charitable Donations and Bequests, and Mr. Jellett, K.C., who, with Mr. Poole (instructed by Messrs. Darley, Orpen and Synnott), appeared for the Rev. H. C. Cave and others, now stated that notice had been served on the Commissioners, and the Commissioners had written stating that they had decided not to make any representations in the case, but to leave the matter to the discretion of the Court.

The Chief Justice said that that being so the Court was now in a position to dispose of the matter finally, and would give judgment on Monday next.

A LEGACY OF £200.

CONSTRUCTION OF TIPPERARY MAN'S WILL.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

In a probate suit of Kelly v. McCurtin,

Mr. John Esmonde (instructed by Mr. St. James B. England) applied on behalf of the plaintiff, Denis Kelly, Culleen, Tipperary, to have construed that part of the will of his uncle, D. Kelly, Culleen, which stated, among other pecuniary legacies, "and £200 to Denis Kelly, my executor." Counsel explained that Denis Kelly did not act as executor, and in the will, which was a long one, the plaintiff was referred to three times differently as "my executor," "my nephew," and "the said" Denis Kelly. The defendant, Mrs. McCurtin, the executrix, was a sister of the plaintiff, and she had also received a legacy under her uncle's will.

Mr. Binchy, K.C., with whom was Mr. James Maguire (instructed by Messrs. Francis F. Darcy), for the defendant, Mrs. Nora McCurtin, said that they were quite willing to pay the legacy if the judge held that it was a bequest to the plaintiff as nephew.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that there was sufficient in the will to suggest to him that the legacy of £200 was left to Denis Kelly because his uncle had a special regard for him, and not because he was named as executor of the will. He construed the will accordingly.

DRUMCONDRA HOSPITAL.

The monthly meeting of the Committee of Drumcondra Hospital was held on the 12th October, when the following attended:—Miss M. Poë, in the chair; Councillor M. O'Sullivan, Dr. E. M. Fannin, Messrs. W. J. Arnold, E. L. Cleugh, A. Strain and J. E. Robinson (Hon. Registrar). Apologies for unavoidable absence were received from the Rev. T. J. Graham, C.C.; Mrs. B. F. Eustace and Mr. J. F. Eustace. Mrs. H. M. Eustace and Councillor M. O'Sullivan were appointed Visitors for the ensuing month.

The following contributions were gratefully acknowledged:—Alex. E. Carroll, Esq., £5, and gifts of fruit, vegetables and flowers from the Harvest Thanksgiving Services of St. Augustine's Church, Methodist Church, Sutton; Scots Church, and Abbey Church.

In connection with the erection of the new quarters for the Resident Medical Officer and re-furnishing of staff living and bedrooms, the best thanks of the committee are due to Mrs. H. M. Eustace, Mrs. B. F. Eustace, Miss Poë, Miss Montgomery and Mr. A. Strain for their kind contributions of furniture, etc. It was also noted that an invalid chair had been provided out of the bequest of £10 made to the hospital by the late Mrs. A. Robinson, of 1 Botanic road.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

CASE OF EXCISE OFFICER.

MISSING OLD AGE PENSION BOOKS.

(BEFORE MR. LITTLE.)

SEUMAS O'BOYLE (24), described as a Customs and Excise officer, was charged on remand with forging and uttering certain documents and thereby obtaining large sums of money. Mr. D. O'Donovan (Chief State Solicitor's Department) prosecuted, while Mr. Joseph O'Connor, K.C. (instructed by Mr. L. Trant McCarthy) defended.

Mr. O'Connor entered a plea of not guilty for the defendant, who, he said, not realising the importance of the issue, had pleaded guilty.

Mr. O'Donovan objected to the acceptance of that plea.

Mr. Little said that it had come to the point whether the plea of guilty appearing on the deposition should be open to such an application.

Mr. O'Connor said that he did not ask for any interference with the deposition. In view of the present plea he assumed that no prosecuting counsel would make use of such a deposition.

Detective-Sergeant Doddy then deposed to a deposition which he had already made, to the effect that when a charge was read over to the defendant O'Boyle made a statement that he would reserve his defence.

The witness went on to say that, in pursuance of the inquiries in connection with the case, he called at Amiens street and found that there was no such address there, as set out on a certain document.

MISSING BOOKS.

Mr. Anthony O'Loughlin, Surveyor of Customs and Excise, said that he was concerned to a great extent with old age pensions work. He was handed a book in which the name of John Drew, 125 Amiens street, appeared, and he gave it as his opinion that the writing on the orders was that of the defendant. The writing on another set of orders was also, in his view, that of the defendant. The defendant had been in the Talbot street district for some time acting on his instructions.

The witness gave detailed evidence as to the procedure adopted with pensions books from the time when they were issued from the stores, and explained the duties of officers, such as the defendant. The pensions officer would issue the book to an old age pensioner, and there was provision made for the officer to appoint an agent on behalf of an old age pensioner who was temporarily ill or permanently incapacitated. There had been a pensioner in the area named, John Drew, who had been receiving 8s., but that was cancelled for a time by the Revenue Commissioners. In the book which formed portion of the present charge the amount supposed to have been paid to John Drew was set out as 10s.

The witness proceeded to state that when stock was taken 42 books at the 10s. rate were missing. After that discovery the defendant did not resume duty. The witness then made investigations respecting the John Drew case, and found that there was no such number as that given on the order form. Pursuing his inquiries he found that books—all of 10s. rate—were in stations where they should not be. Towards the end of August the defendant called at the witness's office and left an attaché case, which was found to contain 27 pension order books, some of which had been dealt with irregularly.

Later, in a press, twelve other books which had been irregularly dealt with were found, and still later eight books were discovered. The total amount involved so far was £139 7s. 0d., but there were still to be accounted for six pension order books.

To Mr. O'Connor—The defendant came to the district in July last, and was a reasonably capable officer.

ORDERS CASHED.

Mrs. Ellen Cronin, an old-age pensions officer attached to "B" station, said that she remembered John Drew, whose pension was suspended on 22nd of February last. After that it would have been irregular to issue a book to him.

Miss B. K. Mulqueen, a pensions officer attached to "E" station, gave evidence respecting a pension book, in which she said certain writing was not hers.

John Drew, Avondale avenue, examined, denied that he had signed for twelve pension orders (produced). He never authorised anyone to collect pension money for him.

Miss Mary Griffin, a post office assistant, deposed to the cashing of certain pensions orders (produced) by a person whom she believed to be the defendant.

An assistant in the Thomas Street Post Office gave evidence of the cashing of fifteen pension orders by a person whom she now recognised as the accused man.

DOCTORS' EVIDENCE.

Similar evidence was given by a number of other witnesses, after which Mr. O'Connor, K.C., for the defence, intimated that he would examine a number of doctors.

Dr. Scrivener, Seapoint, said that on October 6 last he examined the defendant and found him in a nervous condition and making illusory statements. His mental condition was such that he should be under medical supervision.

The witness then told the Court that an uncle of the defendant had explained to him that O'Boyle as a boy had been in Belfast during the troubles of 1921, and was walking home from school on one occasion when a companion was shot dead. He also lived in London during the air raids. All this would have a great effect on the boy's nerves.

Dr. Fannin, Sutton, said that the defendant suffered from lapses of memory and was not alive to the moral or ethical aspect of what he had done. He was obsessed with things that had happened him earlier in life.

Dr. Donelan, Resident Medical Superintendent, Grangegorman Mental Hospital, said that the accused man gave an incoherent account of his doings. He suffered from certain obsessions, which often led to extraordinary and inexplicable acts.

The case was returned for trial to the Circuit Court.

UNEMPLOYED MAN IN TROUBLE.

Patrick Doyle, Harold's Cross road, was remanded until Thursday, charged with stealing from the hands of Mrs. Elizabeth O'Mahoney, 20 Harold's Cross road, a handbag and contents, value 6s. 3½d. There was a second charge of stealing a handbag and contents, value 14s., from Mrs. Margaret O'Shaughnessy, Upper Leeson street.

In a statement the defendant said that he took the bags because he was out of work, and had lost his unemployment benefit backing horses. He also said that he did not want to go home to his mother without something.

CLUB FINED.

A fine of £5 was imposed on the New Era Club, Great Denmark street, for allowing drink to be consumed on the premises at 10.15 p.m. on the 15th September last. A summons for supplying the drink was dismissed.

The Hon. Secretary of the club said that the steward in charge had instructions to obey the licensing laws.

The steward said that the men had been supplied with the drink before nine o'clock that evening, and from then until an inspector called he had not seen the men again.

Mr. Bergin, solicitor, said that the club, which was opened fourteen years ago, had a first-class record.

AFFAIRS OF A DUBLIN COMPANY.

WINDING-UP ORDER MADE.

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

In the matter of the Companies Act and F. T. Clarke, Ltd., Duke street, Dublin,

Mr. Reardon, K.C. (instructed by Messrs. Roger Greene and Sons), applied on behalf of the Philco Radio and Television Corporation, London, for an order winding up Messrs Clarke, Ltd., this company being, it was stated, indebted to the applicants in the sum of £1,886 for goods supplied, and for which sum they had obtained judgment. There was no appearance for Messrs. Clarke, Ltd.

Mr. Justice Johnston made the order sought, and appointed Mr. Robert Stewart official liquidator.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS.

Birkenhead—No improvement in Cattle, Lambs 6d. per lb. London—Cattle prices lower. Hull—Trade dull and prices easy. Manchester—Pigs lower. Merklands Wharf—Sales good and prices steady. Rubber dull. Wheat steady. Tin and Copper dearer.

CATTLE.

LONDON (Metropolitan).—A moderate entry of fat beasts encountered slow support, and prices were occasionally 2d. to 4d. per stone lower. Devons 5/- to 5/2, Herefords 4/4 to 4/6, and shorthorns 4/2 to 4/6. Sheep supplies were slightly larger than the corresponding market day last week. Trade continued dull, but sellers were reluctant to grant further concessions. Wethers 4/- to 5/-, ewes 2/- to 2/8, while lambs ranged from 5/- to 5/4, as to quality, all per stone of 8lb. to sink the offal. Total supplies—128 beasts, 1,203 sheep and lambs.

BIRKENHEAD—There was no improvement in the trade for cattle, late rates governing most transactions. Choice small heifers made up to 6¾d., handy-weight bullocks 6d., strong and secondary classes 5¼d. to 5¾d., cows and bulls around 4d. The supply of lambs continued equal to the demand. A few choice lots made up to 6½d., but the general run of prices was 6d. per lb.—all prices sinking the offal. On offer—865 Irish cattle and 470 lambs.

HULL—Trade very quiet, with prices barely maintained. Best beef 5/- to 5/4, secondary quality 4/- to 6/-, cows, young 4/-, older to 3/6 per stone; sheep, small fat 8d. to 9d., larger 5d., lambs 9d. to 10d. per lb. Pigs, best porkers 7/-, bacon to 5/6, sows 4/3 to 4/6 per stone.

WAKEFIELD—Best English cattle 7½d. to 8d. per lb., secondary quality 7d., fat cows and bulls 4d. to 5½d., Irish 7½d., small hogg sheep 8½d. per lb.; medium 8d., large 7d., ewes 4d. to 5d., tups 4d., lambs 9d. to 10d. Cattle, 205; sheep, 777.

MERKLANDS—1,033 fat Irish bullocks and 88 bulls offered. Large number sold privately of fair average quality. Top quality animals averaged 37/-, secondary from 32/-, rougher sorts from 27/- per live cwt.; bulls from 20/- to 25/-. Arrivals (1,033) included 459 from Dublin, 102 from Cork, 81 from Sligo, 145 from Limerick, 62 from Waterford, 373 from Northern Ireland.

MANCHESTER PIG—Irish shipments to this country, week ended October 8th, totalled 2,549, against 240 the previous week and 11,780 the corresponding period last year. Spot supply and demand fairly good. Cutters fairly steady, but other descriptions lower on week. Lean cutters 10/-, choice sizeable baconers 9/-, sows 6/6 per score, dead weight.

BIRMINGHAM PIG—Moderate supply, and trade on fair lines, with values fairly steady, although sows were slightly easier on the week. Bacons 9/-, cutters 9/- to 9/6, and sows 6/6 per score, dead weight.

DONNELLY, DUBLIN.

GRAIN.

FLOATING GRAIN CARGOES (BALTIC).—WHEAT Cargoes—A quiet demand continues to prevail in the floating and forward section, and without new feature overseas cables fail to lend support, and buyers' small requirements are covered by afloat and near-at-hand quantities. Part cargo 2,000 tons New South Wales shipping/shipped per Elviric sold at 26/9 over the week-end bulk basis. Yesterday No. 2 Northern Manitoba Atlantic shipment afloat (also October shipment) sellers 26/-, New South Wales October shipment 27/-, South Australian October shipment 27/-. Australian all ports January-February new crop 26/-, Rosafe 64lb. new crop January-February 25/6. Parcels held for 1½d. to 3d. per quarter advance, chiefly on lower Canadian exchanges, but demand slow to improve. Gal. Fox. November-December 18/6 per quarter of 480lb. c.i.f. terms. Maize meal steady, but demand quiet. Hominy chop met with moderate attention at about recent level of prices. BARLEY—Parcels rather dearer, especially for Canadian grades. No. 3 Canadian Western Atlantic shipment October shipment sellers 18/1½, November 18/4½. Persian October-November shipment 17/-, Russian October shipment 16/6 per quarter of 400lb. c.i.f. terms. Californian superior quality October-November shipment sellers 21/3. Australian December-January new crop 26/- to 28/- as to quality per quarter of 448lb. c.i.f. terms. OATS quiet and easier for Plates, but Canadians steady. Plate October sellers 14/6, November-December 13/6, December-January 13/1½, January-February new 13/1½. No. 2 Canadian Western Atlantic shipment October 18/-, No. 3 ditto 17/-, No. 1 Canadian feed 16/7½, No. 2 ditto 16/4½, mixed Canadian Atlantic shipment 11/-, Danubian September-October 14/6 per 320lb.

MARK LANE CORN.—There was a full attendance of buyers at the week's opening market, and a moderate business transpired at generally steady rates. WHEAT firmer. No. 1 Northern Manitoba ex ship 28/3 to 29/6, No. 2 do. 27/9 to 28/6, No. 3 do. 27/6, No. 4 Manitoba 27/-; Australian 28/3; German 24/6 to 25/9; Russian 26/6 per 496lb.; English new dry samples 24/- to 25/6, out-of-condition lots 20/- to 23/- f.o.r. per quarter of 504lb. FLOUR quiet. London straight run 25/- per sack for country deliveries, and 24/- London area. Country straights 19/- to 20/- ex store. Of imported, Manitoba patents 23/6 to 25/6; Australian 20/6 to 21/6 ex store per 280lb., excluding quota payment of 2/3 per sack. MAIZE maintained. Plate landed 20/3, ex ship 19/3, October-November 19/3, November-December 19/6, December-January 20/-, January-February 20/7½ per 480lb.; yellow maize meal £6 f.o.r. London; yellow African ex ship to arrive £4 18/6 per ton. BARLEY slow, but Canadian dearer on exchange movements. Plate landed 21/6, No. 3 Canadian Western ex ship 18/6, landed 19/-; Australian f.a.q. landed 26/6; Russian landed 19/-, ex ship 18/-; Danubian ex ship 18/- per 400lb.; English feed new 22/- to 24/-, malting 30/- to 45/- per quarter of 448lb. RYE—English 24/- f.o.r. per 504lb. MILLERS' WHEATFEED steady. Broad digestive bran 6/4½, middlings 6/6, ground oats 8/1½ ex mill per cwt.

LIVERPOOL.—The decline in Chicago was counteracted by depreciation in the Montreal exchange rates, and forward deliveries of WHEAT here gradually improved from the outset, until a fair advance had been established. Later on prices receded on sellers offering freely, while late Argentine cable was also discouraging, causing distant positions to finish at a fair decline from Saturday. October exceptionally the turn dearer. C.i.f. parcels wheat Western Australian afloat sold at 26/9, No. 2 Manitoba October quoted 26/4½, and Rosario-Santa Fe (64lb.) January-February 25/- per quarter. C.i.f. parcels River Plate maize arrived sold at 17/6, due 17/7½ per quarter. WHEAT on the spot quietly steady. MAIZE—Spot parcels steady at 4/1 per cental for River Plate. FLOUR quiet at late rates. Graded wheat futures opened unchanged, then improved ¼d. to ¾d. per cental, but afterwards receded, finishing slightly over the worst point, with October ¼d. over, but December and March ¼d. under, Saturday. Values—October 5/3¾, December 5/3½, March 5/2½ per cental. Sales 120 loads.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON — Continental rules firmer, and with an improved demand prices in some cases show a premium on the official quotations, mainly for the cheaper descriptions. American and Canadian, with Irish, quiet at late rates. HAMS quiet and partially easier. American short cut being reduced to 62/- to 66/-, extra skinless 70/- to 78/-, and Canadian short cut 64/- to 66/- per cwt. Shoulders quiet and unaltered. LARD on the spot partially 6d. dearer; American refined now held at 46/6 to 48/6 per cwt., with a moderate business reported. CHEESE steady and in moderate demand at late rates. CHARGE OF FOWL STEALING.

When Nicholas McLoughlin, Howth, and Charles Lynch, Raheny, were charged, at Howth District Court, with stealing eight hens last May from Miss O'Brien, Nashville terrace, Howth, District Justice Reddin said that he had never seen two men who looked more guilty; but the State had not produced sufficient evidence to convict, and he dismissed the charges against the defendants, and advised them not to appear in court again.

KILLED BY DUBLIN 'BUS.

An inquest was opened and adjourned yesterday at the Mater Hospital, Dublin, on Mrs. Sarah Colgan (41), of Mountjoy place, Dublin, who died on Friday last after being knocked down by a 'bus. Medical evidence was given by Dr. J. Glass, house surgeon, and the adjournment was granted on the request of Mr. Burne, solicitor, who represented the driver and the owners of the 'bus.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

DUBLIN UNCERTAIN.

BANK STOCK AND GUINNESS WEAK.

There were two weak spots in Dublin Stock Market yesterday, and they were both more or less attributable to the failure of the Anglo-Free State negotiations. Bank Stock lost no less than 21 points on heavy selling, closing at 268. Guinness units were sellers all day, and closed 3s. down at the lowest point touched, 76s. The Pref. improved to 14.

Elsewhere the market was well held. Free State Funds were firm, and Land Bonds touched 110. War Loan Assented was a fraction easier.

Corporation Stocks were not dealt in. Rails made a mixed showing, but price changes were not important.

Alliance Gas lost ⅛ at 11¼.

The Industrial section was well maintained. There was a steady demand for Chemicals Ord., which practically recovered the dividend deductions. Courtaulds, Dunlops, and Lever 7 p.c. were other firm spots. Goulding Pref. rose 3s. to 89s., and Hayes, Conyngham Debs. repeated 87s. 6d.

LONDON IRREGULAR.

ARGENTINE RAILS GOOD.

Despite the fact that the arrangement of the carry-over interfered with the smooth running of business, the volume of trading passing in the London Stock Markets as a whole yesterday was again on a good scale, with a number of individual issues singled out for special attention. Following initial strength, however, profit-taking developed and prices were marked off as a consequence, so that the list of price movements returned at the close made an irregular showing. An outstanding feature was provided by the continued active demand for the Newspaper issues, and among these further substantial appreciations were scored. Argentine Rails were another good market, while many of the home Industrials were raised to still higher levels. Elsewhere Oils were adversely affected by Paris selling, but Mines, although similarly affected, maintained a firm front, Westralians being particularly good. The Tea market, which of late has been right out of the public eye, is now enjoying a return of interest, and values yesterday were again trending steadily forward. The improvements returned were of modest dimensions, but spread throughout the market.

Active conditions again characterised the gilt-edged market, but following an initial advance profit-taking depressed values, and in several instances the final quotations were below Saturday's close. Consols 2½ per Cent. left off ⅛ down on the day at 77⅜, while Victory Bonds lost a similar fraction to 108⅝. War Loan 5 per Cent. Assented, Local Loans, Funding Loan, and the 4½ per Cent. Conversion Loan were all 1/16 below the week-end levels, while the India Stocks showed losses ranging up to ½. Consols 4 per Cent. were an exception, and at the finish they showed an advance of 3/16 to 109¼. No decided tendency made itself evident in the Foreign Government Stock market. Brazilians moved in irregular fashion, and Chinese moved narrowly. German Sevens, however, went off rather sharply, closing 1½ points lower to 83 x.d., while Peruvian Corps. were a dull market, the Ord. losing ½, the Pref. ¾, and the Debs. 3 points. Little of interest transpired among British Rails and values showed irregular movements. Among Colonial and Foreign Rails the Argentine descriptions again displayed the strength which characterised dealings on Saturday, and further appreciable gains were scored. B.A.G.S. closed 2½ points up, with B.A. Western registering a similar improvement, while Central Argentines also went better. Entre Rios Ord., "Leos" and San Paulo were other firm spots, whilst Grand Trunk 4 per Cent. Guaranteed Stock and the 4 per Cent. Perp. Debs. were one and two points firmer respectively. Can Pacs, on the other hand, were marked down to 20½, this leaving them 1 5/16 down.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET.

SHARP FALL IN GUINNESS.

New account dealings started well in the Industrial Market yesterday, but as the session progressed irregularity developed, though the tone at the close was described as moderately firm. Trading generally proved less active, no doubt, owing to the fact that the present account will be of three weeks' duration. Breweries were quietly steady, with the exception of Guinness, which suffered a set-back following less favourable developments in the Irish situation.

After a steady opening the trans-Atlantic counters lost ground, and with Wall street not disposed to give fresh support values finished around the lowest of the day. Nickels closed at 11 15/16, Brazilian Tractions at 11⅞, Hydros at 8¼, Radios at 10¼, Steels at 53¾, and Drug Incorporated at 48. Emmies dipped to 10s. on fears concerning the forthcoming report, eventually finishing with a net decline of 7½d. at 10s. 1½d.

Cables and Wireless stocks showed a firm front at the start only to sag later. The Pref. finished fractionally easier at 74¼ after 74¾.

Motors received quiet support, Fords at 24s., Humbers at 7s. 3d., Leylands at 24s. 3d., Rolls Royce at 43s. and Thomas Tilling at 56s.

More hopeful views were taken of business in the cotton trade and values hardened to a moderate extent. Patons and Baldwins attracted most attention, the price further improving 10½d. to 44s. 10½d. Bleachers had buyers at 14s. 4½d., Calico Printers at a similar level, J. and P. Coats at 46s. 1½d., Sewing Cottons at 40s. 3d. and Fine Spinners at 17s. 6d.

Courtaulds were a better market on the rayon section at 31s. 1½d., but American Celanese lost ground, being finally 1/16 easier at 2 3/16.

In the Provision group Unilever and Unilever N.V. each strengthened to 32s. 9d., and gains of a few pence were marked in Lovell and Christmas at 23s. 3d. and Tate and Lyles at 54s. International Teas, however, drooped slightly to 30s. 1½d.

A good turnover was again reported among News shares under the lead of Daily Mail Trust, which finished 2s. 6d. higher at 42s. 6d. Associated Defd. gained 2s. at 22s. 3d., with buyers also in evidence for Allieds, Mirrors and Pictorials.

Except for Guinness, which relapsed 5s. 6d. to 76s. for reasons given above, the Brewery section maintained a fairly firm front. Barclay Perkins, Courage, Ind Coope, Taylor, Walker and Watney Defd. all gained a few pence.

The Tobacco leaders opened steady, but, in the absence of fresh supporting orders, values became easier. Both "Bats" and "Imps" lost the turn at 5⅛ and 5 respectively, while Carreras "A" eventually finished at 5 15/16, after 6.

In the Miscellaneous group, Imperial Chemicals finished at 21s. 10½d. ex div., while the Defd. were finally unaltered at 5s. 9d., after being a trifle harder. The Pref., however, improved to 27s. 3d. Spillers virtually recovered their dividend deduction at 45s. 4½d., while the Defd. were marked up 7½d. to 32s. 4½d., and gains of a few pence took place in Borax Defd., British Aluminium, British Match, British Oil Cake, James Finlays, and Wall Paper Defd. Dunlops left off the turn better at 18s. 4½d. A reaction was witnessed in the Lever Prefs. and recessions of a few pence were marked in British Oxygen, London Brick, and Barry and Staines.

OIL SHARES EASIER.

Oil shares made an unpromising start for the new account. Business was on only a moderate scale, and fluctuations in the prices of the leaders and certain of the more speculative favourites were out of proportion to the actual volume of transactions. Prices opened at about the levels ruling at the close on Saturday last, but dealers proved unwilling to take the stock offered, and lowered prices against the realisations. Consequently an all-round decline occurred, with only small lines of shares changing hands. The lower prices quoted for Internationals attracted French operators, and moderate buying orders were received from Paris, causing prices of these descriptions to harden. Moreover, the reduced levels also brought in buyers locally. An all-round rally took place in the afternoon, which, although it failed to wipe out the whole of the earlier losses, left prices only slightly lower on the day.

RUBBER SHARES BETTER.

Although there was no material expansion in the volume of business passing in the Rubber share market, a distinctly firmer tendency was apparent, and this despite the easier tone prevailing in the raw material department. Rubber Trust were a good market, closing at an advance of 1s. to 14s. 3d., while Malayalam finished no less than 1s. 1½d. firmer at 8s. 7½d. Anglo-Dutch and General Ceylon were other firm spots, the former finishing 4½d. better and the latter 7½d. to the good. Others kept steady at the week-end rates, excepting Vallambrosa and Grand Central, each of which were put 3d. lower. Dull conditions characterised the commodity market. Spot and November sold from 2⅜d. to 2 11/16d. per lb., with December fetching 2 11/16d. per lb. and January to March 2 13/16d. per lb. According to expectations, London stocks of rubber were 774 tons lower, whilst Liverpool stocks were reduced by 378 tons.

LONDON MINING MARKET FIRM.

GOOD DEMAND FOR GOLD SHARES.

Recent experience has been that Mondays, and particularly the opening days of new accounts, are seldom what dealers regard as "good days," but yesterday must be counted an exception as far as Gold shares are concerned. The Kaffir department opened very firmly, a number of fresh advances taking place. The Cape was again a buyer, and certain issues were in good demand on local account. A dull tone in Paris, however, was an unsettling influence during the afternoon. The French capital was only a small seller, but this had the effect of making speculative buyers proceed cautiously, and a reaction occurred in quotations. Right at the close Paris turned a buyer of a few issues and the tone became firm, net falls being outnumbered by fresh gains. The principal item of interest in the Rhodesian section was a good demand for Cam and Motor in the late afternoon, which brought about a rise of 1/16 to 2 11/16. A cable was issued after the close of the "house" reporting some very high values on the Motor lode. Sherwood Starr also issued a satisfactory cable, but the shares did not vary. Copper was finally a shade harder at £31 16s. 3d. The Rhodesian shares attracted very little attention and quotations finished as before. A recovery in the price of the metal was responsible for a few inquiries for Tin shares, but movements on the day were few. In the West Australian list Lake View and Star met with good support. The result of the day's business was an improvement of 7½d. to 17s. 3d. On the other hand, Wiluna reacted. The volume of orders for Indians was larger than the actual amount of business transacted, as quotations quickly rose beyond the limits set by buyers. Elsewhere St. John Del Rey attracted further attention and advanced 1s. 3d. to 26s. 6d. after business up to 28s. Closing prices:—

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

ANGLO-SOUTH AMERICAN BANK.—The report of the Anglo-South American Bank, Ltd., for the year ended June 30 last states that the net profit, as shown by the profit and loss account, before providing for bad and doubtful debts, which have been dealt with in the manner explained below, amounts to £465,892. To this sum must be added £153,070 brought forward, making a total of £618,962. Out of this total the directors have applied £10,000 in payment of stamp duty on the issue of the new Preference Shares, and £450,000 as additional provision for bad and doubtful debts. The balance of £158,962 is carried forward. The general world situation has deteriorated during the past year to such an extent that the directors have deemed it necessary to transfer the amount of the reserve fund, £1,000,000, to the special reserve which was instituted last year. Moreover, the directors have decided that the whole amount of the special reserve should be applied in making provision for depreciation of investments, for all known bad debts, and for all debts which in present conditions appear to involve the possibility of loss. Owing to the general dislocation of the exchanges and the contraction of trade throughout the world, it has been extremely difficult to make accurate estimates of the amounts which may be required to provide for doubtful debts. All accounts, however, have been strictly scrutinised and provisions have been made in the light of existing conditions. A year ago the profit was £461,383 and £207,150 was brought in, making £668,533, of which £174,613 was absorbed by interim dividend on "A" and "B" shares. The final dividend brought the payment for the year up to 6 per cent.

BUENOS AYRES GREAT SOUTHERN.—Gross receipts fell from £11,348,750 in 1930-31 to £10,561,447, and, despite a further reduction in expenses, net receipts are £3,140,954, against £3,390,111. Expenses were £7,420,493, against £7,958,639 last year, and £8,782,900 in 1929-30. From the net figure is deducted £527,520 exchange loss on remittances, and £631,657 provision in respect of depreciation on currency, net floating assets, etc. A year ago the loss on remittances was £632,560, and the depreciation provision £430,892, but the latter was met from reserve. After providing for interest and Preference dividends, £431,165 goes forward, against £715,914 brought in. As already announced, there is no Ordinary dividend, against 1 per cent. last year. The report states that crop prospects for the coming harvest are at present favourable, while there has been an encouraging recovery in the price of wheat, oats and maize since last year.

CENTRAL URUGUAY NORTHERN EXTENSION RAILWAY.—Report for year states that gross earnings were £88,698 (decrease of £29,079), and working expenses £48,784 (decrease of £11,400), leaving net profit of £39,914 (decrease of £17,679). From net profit deduct debit balance from 1930-31, £9,747, debenture interest, etc., leaving debit balance to carry forward of £13,417. Last year dividend of 2½ per cent.

CENTRAL URUGUAY EASTERN EXTENSION.—Report for year states that gross earnings were £177,685 (decrease of £48,574), and working expenses £93,285 (decrease of £16,811), leaving net profit of £84,400 (decrease of £31,763). To net profit add Government guarantee, £13,918, making £98,318, and deduct debit balance from 1930-31, £4,502, debenture interest, etc., leaving balance of £2,333 to carry forward. Board regrets that results do not permit of payment of dividend on either Pref. or Ord. Shares. Last year six months' Pref. dividend was paid.

CENTRAL URUGUAY RAILWAY CO. OF MONTE VIDEO.—Gross receipts showed a sharp decline in the year to June 30, 1932, amounting to £692,505, compared with £1,191,023 in 1930-31. Working expenses were substantially reduced—from £887,778 to £504,746—but net receipts were only £187,759, against £303,245. The balance available for Debenture interest is £276,378, against £401,538, and after meeting fixed charges there is a balance of £31,300 to be carried forward. (Last year six months' dividend was paid on the Preference shares. The last Ordinary dividend was 6 per cent. in 1929-30.)

HIGHLAND DISTILLERIES.—No dividend for year to August 31 last, against 7½ per cent. in previous year. Sum of £10,000 is placed to taxation reserve, and £33,780 carried forward, against £42,289 brought in.

LARAS (SUMATRA) RUBBER.—Balance brought forward was £14,242. Deduct loss for year, including difference on exchange, £6,158, against loss of £5,597, leaving to be carried forward £8,084.

LOCKWOOD AND BRADLEY.—No Pref. dividend will be paid in respect of past financial year. It is hoped to resume payment of dividend at an early date.

METROPOLITAN HOUSING CORPORATION.—Interim dividend on Ordinary of 3 per cent., less tax. (Same.)

MOZAMBIQUE CO.—Profit of £92,897 includes £31,180 profit on the conversion of accounts, formerly kept in gold escudos, into Portuguese escudos. The conversion was necessitated by a decree introduced in June, 1931. This conversion profit has been carried to the amortisation of the account, "Banco de Beira." In 1930 the profit was £124,796. Of the net profit of £61,717, £3,086, or 5 per cent., is taken to reserve; £1,543, or 2½ per cent., is carried to the credit of the State; £17,815 is appropriated for amortisations, and the remainder, £39,273, applied to the amortisation of the debit of the "Banco de Beira."

RESERVE BANK OF SOUTH AFRICA.—Dividend for the half-year to the end of September of 3 per cent. For the year to the end of March last 6 per cent. was paid, although earlier in the bank's year the board had declared that no dividend would be paid "until the capital had been restored." When Great Britain went off the gold standard the bank's exchange loss was £1,500,000, against reserves of £1,000,000. By June last the short-fall had been made good and the 6 per cent. dividend paid. The reserve fund was left with a credit of £8,817.

SMEDLEY'S HYDROPATHIC CO.—Dividend of 1/3 per share, free of tax, for year, on the Ordinary Shares.

SCOTTISH STOCKHOLDERS' INVESTMENT TRUST.—The directors announce that they have decided not to pay the half-yearly dividend on the 5½ per cent. Cumulative Preference Stock due 1st November, 1932.

STOCKHOLDERS' INVESTMENT TRUST.—The directors announce that they have decided not to pay the half-yearly dividend on the 5 per cent. Cumulative Preference Stock due 2nd November, 1932.

TAMPLIN'S LICENSED PROPERTIES.—The outstanding 6 per Cent. Debentures, amounting to £328,280, are to be redeemed on July 1 at £102 10s. Holders are given the alternative of converting into a similar security bearing 4½ per cent. Holders who convert will receive the difference of £2 10s. in cash. Holders of the 5½ per Cent. First Mortgage "Smithers" Redeemable Debenture stock of Tamplin's are also offered an opportunity of converting into a 4½ per cent. stock, otherwise the Debentures will be paid off at £102 10s. for £100 in July. The difference of £2 10s. will be paid in cash if conversion is accepted.

TATA POWER.—For the year ended 30th June last the Tata Power Company made net profits of Rs.13,45,559, after deducting all working expenditure and again setting aside depreciation at Rs.9,00,000. This compares with Rs.10,23,734 in 1930-31. With the sum brought forward of Rs.151,939, there is a total of Rs 14,97,499. A sum of Rs.1,361 (against Rs.1,785) has been appropriated towards writing off loss on investments and Rs.77,815 towards writing off one-tenth of the total amount of brokerage, commission and expenses re loan from the Tata Hydro-Electric Power Supply Company. Reserve for special repairs receives Rs.35,000, leaving a balance of Rs.13,83,322. From this sum a dividend at 7½ per cent. per annum (subject to tax) on the Preference shares for the two years ended 30th September, 1931, has been paid. This absorbed Rs. 12,22,050, the balance of Rs.1,61,272 being carried forward.

OIL PRODUCTION.

Tocuyo Oilfields of Venezuela.—Oil produced during September—1,230 tons.

British Controlled Oilfields.—Production for the week ended October 12—Venezuela, 34,392 barrels; Trinidad, 28,273 barrels. Total—62,665 barrels.

DENNISTOWN RUBBER RECONSTRUCTION.

As the only means of obtaining further working capital, it is proposed to reconstruct the share capital of this company. The proposal is to form a new company, with the same capital as the existing company—namely, £200,000 in 2s. shares—and that shareholders in the existing company shall have the right to apply pro rata to their existing holding for shares in the new company credited as 1s. 8d. paid up. In other words, shareholders are being asked to agree to a call of 4d. per share.

SOUTHERN RAILWAYS (ENGLAND) £4,750,000 DEBENTURE ISSUE.

The Southern Railway Company announce an issue of £4,750,000 4 per cent. Redeemable Debenture stock at the price of 100 per cent. The stock will be redeemed at par on June 30, 1967, or, at the company's option, June 30 in any year from 1962 to 1966, inclusive, upon six months' previous notice being given. The issue is being made mainly to provide funds for works now under construction at Southampton Docks and expenditure on the electrification of the railway to Brighton and Worthing now in progress.

HUNGARIAN BANK RATE REDUCED.

The rate of the Hungarian National Bank has been reduced from 5 to 4½ per cent.

ANGLO-FOREIGN NEWSPAPERS.

In the Companies Court, London, yesterday, Mr. Justice Bennett heard a petition by Anglo-Foreign Newspapers, Ltd., for confirmation of a reduction of capital. Mr. H. Christie, for the petitioning company, said that the nominal capital was £3,150,000, of which £1,312,000 was issued. Of that sum £1,250,000 consisted of Ordinary shares of 5s. The balance was in Deferred shares. It was proposed to cancel the Deferred shares, write off £979,000, or 3s. 8d. per share, from the value of the Ordinary issued shares, and transfer about £110,000 from the reserve to make good a loss of £1,090,105. Of the loss, £1,058,000 was represented by depreciation of investments, which took place shortly after the incorporation of the company, and before the present Board had anything to do with the business. The business was now on a sound basis, and there was a net profit shown in the last account of £18,000. Mr. Justice Bennett sanctioned the reduction of capital.

BROKERS' COMMISSION.

London Stock Exchange Committee yesterday confirmed resolution allowing the banks 50 per cent. commission and other agents 33⅓ per cent.

THE MONEY MARKET

BIG GOLD SALE.

Although there were no Treasury bill maturities yesterday, credit remained in comfortable supply, borrowers being able to obtain all the accommodation they needed at ½ p.c.

The tendency of discounts remained easy, fine three months' bills being quoted at ⅝ p.c., while the "hot" Treasuries were offered at ⅝ p.c. The banks were buyers of Novembers and Decembers at 9/16 p.c.

Silver was unchanged for spot at 17 11/16d. per ounce, and was 1/16d. easier for forward delivery at 17⅝d. per ounce. Gold remained at 119s. 10d. per ounce fine. About £300,000 was in the market, and was taken by the unknown buyer.

Movements in the foreign exchange market yesterday were slight, the only important change being in the Canadian dollar, which improved to 3.70. Sterling on New York was unchanged at 3.44½. Francs were again finally quoted at 87¾, and the Swiss and Belgian exchanges both rose slightly. Reichmarks cheapened by 1pf. to 14.49½, and Italian lire depreciated by 1/16 lira to 67 5/16. There were no movements of importance in the Scandinavian section. Among Far Eastern currencies, Japanese yen finished without alteration at 16⅜.

KILLED AT A FUNERAL.

INQUEST ON GIRL OPENED.

An inquest was opened at Maynooth yesterday on Kathleen Treacy, aged ten years, of Convent lane, Maynooth, who was fatally injured last Saturday night by a motor car which ran into a funeral procession in the town. Her mother, who is still unaware of her death, lies in a critical condition in Naas Hospital. Ten other persons in the procession were also injured. The driver of the car is under arrest.

Edward Treacy, labourer, of Convent lane, who gave evidence of identification, said that his daughter would have been eleven years old next January.

Dr. Purcell said that in her opinion death was due to shock and hemorrhage, following a fracture at the base of the skull. There were no other injuries.

In reply to Mr. Taylor, solicitor, who appeared on behalf of the relatives, she said that the injury could have been caused by the girl being knocked down by a motor car.

At this stage Superintendent Murphy, on behalf of the Civic Guards, asked for an adjournment of the inquest, as, he said, there was a man in custody in connection with the accident.

The inquest was adjourned after expressions of sympathy had been tendered to the relatives.

The funeral took place yesterday, being attended by a large number of mourners, including many of Kathleen Treacy's schoolmates.

TWO KILLED IN ROAD CRASH.

COLLISION ON RAILWAY BRIDGE.

Alan Taylor (19), a motor cyclist, and John Connelly Lobez (17), his pillion passenger, were killed when their machine collided with a motor refuse van on a railway bridge at Swanley Junction, Kent, yesterday.

Both youths were engaged with Taylor's uncle in fruit farming, and were returning to their lodgings for lunch. Taylor, whose home was at East Peckham, Kent, was the only son of his widowed mother. Lobez was the son of a former captain of a White Star liner. His mother lives in California.

YOUTHS IN BLAZING CAR.

RESCUED BY POLICE PATROL.

A motor car, in which three Reading youths were travelling, was involved in an accident at Happyland Corner, on the outskirts of Ashton Keynes yesterday, when it fell into a waterlogged ditch and burst into flames.

One youth was picked up unconscious 30 feet away, and the other two were rescued from the blazing car by a mobile police patrol. The youths were taken to a Swindon hospital suffering from head injuries and shock.

Labourer's Fate.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
GALWAY, Monday.

"That death was due to fracture of the skull, but that there was no evidence to show how the deceased man met with his injuries," was the verdict returned by the jury at an inquest which was held by Mr. M. J. Allen, Coroner, at Galway on the body of Patrick Walsh, a native of Dungarvan, Co. Waterford, who had been employed as a builder's labourer by Mr. J. Stewart, contractor, Galway.

Walsh was found unconscious under the railway bridge near Renmore Military Barracks on October 7, and he died at the Central Hospital, Galway, on the following morning without recovering consciousness.

AUSTRALIAN WOOL SALES.

Offerings totalled 10,640 bales at the wool sales held at Brisbane yesterday. There was keen competition from all sections of buyers, and values were distinctly firm at the levels ruling at the close of the last series of wool sales at Sydney.

Imports for Hallowe'en : The Maiden City : Fewer Pedlars.
Arthur Rimbaud : The Use of Bent.

The Maiden City.

When I was in Derry the other evening, writes a correspondent, I was reminded of London for a few moments while crossing the bridge over the Foyle. The river at night was not unlike the Thames, the main difference being that the lights in Derry rose in terraces, both on the Donegal side and the "Waterside," since the modern city is built on hills. This resemblance, together with the fact that several London companies acquired land around Derry, may have prompted the Royal Charter of James I. which gave the town the right to be styled the "City of Londonderry." Derry means simply "oak," but the longer word signifies "the strong fortress by the oak-wood."

Hilly Streets.

I do not know any better test of proficiency in "hiking" than a tour on foot through Derry. As a weight-reducing exercise, a walk to the top of Shipquay street two or three times a day could hardly be surpassed. In the days of James I. Derry was the principal town of the North, but it was primarily intended as a fortress, and could never, in an industrial age, have attained to the importance which was afterwards acquired by Belfast. Nevertheless, the traveller who does not mind a good deal of climbing to see the sights of Derry will find himself amply repaid by the kindliness which he will meet with in every corner of a city that has suffered more, perhaps, than any other in Ireland from the political and economic changes of the last decade.

Hallowe'en Imports.

During a visit to the docks a few days ago I observed large consignments of hazelnuts, walnuts, coconuts, Brazil nuts and monkey nuts passing through the Customs without any difficulty. Fortunately for children and others, these nuts are still free from taxation. I also noticed numerous cases of apples, pears, oranges and Spanish grapes awaiting clearance. These refreshing fruits are duty-free goods, and there is usually no delay in obtaining delivery. I was told that the importations of currants from Greece and raisins from Smyrna have been just as heavy as in former years. The economic depression is evidently not going to keep us from enjoying our Hallowe'en apples, nuts and barm bracks.

A Western Tailor.

Not long ago I had occasion to visit a small tailor's establishment in a remote Western town, and found the old-time atmosphere of the place very pleasing in these days of modernism. The double doors were barred from within, and I knocked to gain admittance. The doors were opened to me, and the reason for the barring made clear. One found oneself in the shop, and the autumn wind, blowing strongly, chased any loose patterns lying about, and rattled those hanging in sheaves on the walls. The shop was not more than nine feet square. Completely filling up one side, a third of the whole space, was the traditional tailor's bench, or table. On this sat, cross-legged, two assistants, stitching busily, and each wearing that emblem of femininity, a thimble. The bench was of wood, and struck me as being very uncomfortable, as no cushions were used, but presumably they were used to it. The rest of the shop was taken up with a machine, the cutting-out table, and a rack for finished and partly-finished work, a minimum space being left in the centre of the floor as a fitting-room. The tailor himself, a venerable old man with long grey beard, jotted down measurements in figures only he could read; but he evidently knew his business thoroughly, and I was surprised, not only at the amount of work passing through his hands, but at the excellence with which it was done. I saw several coats ready to go out, and they were both well cut and well finished. Another point that interested me was to see the assistants, when pressing small pieces of work, use, not an ironing table, but a board placed across their knees.

Another Camera Man.

At a busy hour in the afternoon, when the Dublin street was crowded and the worries of life seemed to lie heavily upon many of the passers, I saw one of those episodes that do so much to brighten the dullest day. On the edge of the pavement two men were standing waiting for an opportunity to cross the road with a great roll of brown oilcloth that towered above their heads as they stood there. It may have been the sight of the moving cameraman on the other side of the street that put the grand idea into the head of one of those men, but while I waited for my tram I saw an expression of almost incredulous delight spread over his face. Immediately he nudged his companion, and then bent forward with one eye close to the roll of linoleum, while his right hand turned busily an imaginary handle. Being behind the scenes, as it were, I could enjoy the little drama to the full, and in my heart I applauded the shabby man for his sense of fun. The people who approached wore the self-conscious look that has become so familiar in Dublin since the advent of those cameras, but their expressions, when they saw the roll of linoleum and the face of the operator, were too funny for words.

The Use of Bent.

I heard great sympathy expressed recently with an old country woman who had been had up for pulling bent (the coarse grass which grows on sand-dunes). She took it, I was told, for bedding for animals, and my informant was greatly incensed at what he termed the injustice of restraining an old woman—one of the poorest—from taking away anything so valueless. But he is quite wrong. Bent has very definite uses. It holds the sand together, making barriers against the wind, and thus forming firm ground where before were only shifting sand-hills. In some parts, where the sand is continually blown inland, houses on the seashore are becoming obliterated. Horn Head, in Donegal, is, I believe, a case in point, and in some places bent is actually being planted in an endeavour to keep the sand in check.

Rimbaud.

I am interested to see that a new translation of some selections from the work of Arthur Rimbaud has appeared, or is about to appear shortly. Rimbaud, who lived about the middle of last century, was an extraordinary person. The early part of his life was notable for his friendship with Paul Verlaine, which, from the material point of view, was rather an unfortunate thing all round for Verlaine. Subsequently Rimbaud became infatuated with the East, Near and Far, and led a strange, roving life throughout the Aegean, Africa and Asia. Eventually he came back to Marseilles to die. I do not profess to understand his poetry—or what I have seen of it—but the central idea of his life apparently was to become completely free of "professional" poetry and the poetic cliques and to find his expression among the simplest forms of human effort. How complex elemental things are the average person will find when he comes to tackle Rimbaud's poems.

Fewer Pedlars.

Owing to the economic depression, I am told, very few pedlars are doing business in rural areas. Many of the Oriental gentlemen who formerly toured the country with suitcases filled with goods which, they alleged, they brought all the way from the East, have apparently given up both hiking and hawking. Bad trade and tariffs also have had an adverse effect on the optimistic and very eloquent persons who sold encyclopædias, books of knowledge, sets of novels by famous authors, and various other literary works. The only people who appear to be doing a prosperous trade are the secondhand clothes dealers and the people who sell junk by the instalment system. After a few months on the road these enterprising folks enlarge their premises and buy motor cars

THE SWANEE CULT.

SCOTT AND WHALEY AT THE THEATRE ROYAL.

Scott and Whaley, who head this week's bill at the Theatre Royal, are comedians in the direct line of descent from our old friends the nigger minstrels. True, the banjo has gone the way of "penny-farthing" bicycles and ladies' tresses, and it has taken those eccentric dress suits which used to be the uniform of the minstrel troupe along with it; but, otherwise, Scott and Whaley have done no more than rationalise the coloured comedian industry so that a job which used to be done by eight or ten men may now be done by two. And what a complete entertainment the pair provide—Scott with his suave and elegant showmanship, and Whaley ludicrous in his lugubrity. It is sheer nonsense, of course, but who can resist a roar of laughter when the pathetic "Pussyfoot" assures his partner that, although he is crippled with corns, he will do nothing for his feet because they have done nothing for him. We may be behind the times, but, coming down to details, we prefer the spirited strumming of Whaley on the piano to the more sophisticated sobbing of saxophones which is practised by the modern upholders of the Swanee cult.

The programme contains some other notable "turns." Renee and Godfrey are dancers who pirouette with an energy which becomes almost exhausting merely to watch, though it does not interfere with the male partner's control of the violin which he is playing, and the Ridior Trio contribute a charming musical performance; while Neil McKay, who is several kinds of a sailor, to judge from his mixed uniform, has the three attributes of the orthodox comedian—ability to tell a story, sing a song, and perform physical eccentricities. The Magyar Troupe of acrobats have reduced the human body to a missile which may be thrown, catapulted and caught; Lillian Gunns would brighten up a thunder cloud; the Alvarez Brothers are really clever both as humorists and gymnasts, and the Kenealy Sisters are a lively curtain-raiser.

AN ANTIDOTE TO DEPRESSION.

JIMMY O'DEA'S COMPANY AT THE OLYMPIA.

Jimmy O'Dea and his hardy travelling companion, Mrs. Mulligan, are back in Dublin once more. The phrase "back again" means much to Dublin people who appreciate humorous interpretation of life among the not well-to-do. Jimmy O'Dea on this visit to the Olympia Theatre, Dublin, in a new edition of "Now Laugh," has retained all his old vigour and gathered more speed. The show goes with a quickness that is refreshing. The scenes change from the atmosphere of bananas and beer to the sentimental touch of the lonely policeman finding a child with no home. Not all done by Jimmy, of course, but by an energetic group of entertainers

The artists who aided O'Dea when he was "cutting his niche" are with him now—artists such as Noel Purcell, Tom Dunn, Harry O'Donovan, Connie Ryan, and others, and they extract the utmost fun out of their material. The show is an antidote to depression

The Revenue Services Transferred Officers' Association was formed at a largely attended meeting held in Wynn's Hotel, Dublin, yesterday.

FOR NEW SEASON.

DUBLIN OPERATIC SOCIETY'S PLANS.

At the fifth annual general meeting of the Dublin Operatic Society, held in the Academy of Music, Westland row, the following officers were elected for the ensuing season:—

President, Judge Davitt; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Hugh Kennedy, Madame Viani, Mr. James Dingle, Mr. Dermod O'Brien, P.R.H.A.; Dr. Walter Starkie, F.T.C.D.; Sir William Taylor, K.B.E., C.B., F.R.C.S.I.; Mr. David Telford, F.C.A.; Chairman, Mr. T. S. C. Dagg; Hon. Secretary, Mr. C. G. Slater, 9 Johnston's Court, Dublin; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. E. J. Davidson, 63 Pembroke road, Dublin; Committee, Madame Viani, Miss C. MacMenamin, Dr. Gerard Brown, Mr. P. J. Ferns, Mr. A. Kearney.

A letter was read from Count McCormack stating that he would be delighted to be the Patron of the Society, and praising the Society's performance of "Carmen," which he attended at the Gaiety Theatre last season. The announcement was received with applause.

Maestro Viani announced that the operas to be produced next season would be "La Tosca," by Puccini, and "The Bohemian Girl," by Balfe. Rehearsals are to begin this evening in the Academy.

BRONZE AGE BONES.

DREDGED FROM RIVER BED.

At a recent meeting of the Thames Conservancy Board in London, presided over by Lord Desborough, it was reported that a well-preserved human skull and other bones had been discovered in the bed of the river during dredging operations below Hampton Court Bridge, at a depth of 15 feet below ground level.

Professor G. Elliot Smith, of University College, had reported that, in his opinion, the skull and a leg bone were those of a man about 25 years old, of the late Bronze Age, and were about 2,500 years old.

A letter from the Secretary of the London and Middlesex Archæological Society stated that the council of that society had considered a list of articles of antiquarian interest dredged from the river from time to time, and, while they were sure that such finds would be safely preserved by the Conservators, the council of the society felt that the relics should be deposited at the museums within the county in which they were found. They asked that relics found in Middlesex might be sent to Brentford Museum.

Lord Desborough said the Board had decided that it would be more satisfactory if all the relics were kept together in the possession of the Board, although they might loan them to museums from time to time. The Board might in time have a library at their own offices large enough to enable the relics to be exhibited there.

It was decided to reply to the London and Middlesex Archæological Society indicating the Board's decision as stated by Lord Desborough.

A singular accident occurred on the L.M.S. railway at Mansfield, Notts., yesterday, when a light engine was forced into a dwelling house. A long train of coaches was being shunted into a siding when it struck a light engine, forcing it over a buffer stop through a stone wall and then into the side of a house, badly damaging the building and smashing the furniture in the living room. No one was injured.

CIVIL SERVICE SALARIES.

POSITION IN THE FREE STATE.

APPEAL TO DUBLIN ROTARY CLUB.

MR. T. J. HUGHES, Secretary to the Civil Service Federation, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club in Clery's Restaurant yesterday, his subject being "Civil Servants' Pay." The Rev. Dr. Hanna, President, occupied the chair.

There were, said Mr. Hughes, 23,000 civil servants in the Free State, and half that number were employed in the Post Office. The responsibility for the number of civil servants depended primarily upon the number of State services which the country through its Government wished to have. This country had one of the most highly developed civil services in the world, and had State services on a scale similar to that in Great Britain. The total cost of the Saorstat Civil Service, including industrial staffs, was nearly £4,000,000.

If the pay of civil servants were increased as the wages of workers in the building trade, bakery, printing, etc., had been increased as compared with pre-war rates, Civil Service employés, he said, would have an increase on basic pay of 150 per cent. As it was, those civil servants whose pay on a pre-war basis did not exceed 35s. per week were granted 65 per cent. increase; officers with basic pay of £200 per year were given only 45 per cent., while basic pay of £400 a year brought only 34 per cent. increase; and so on, the compensations for the decreased purchasing power of money dwindling as the basic salaries increased.

BONUS "CUTS."

Although, as he had said, the cost of the Civil Service was in the neighbourhood of £4,000,000, a great part of that sum was of no more concern to the taxpayer than the cost of the wages and salaries of the employés in any business concern. The Post Office accounted for over one-third of the total cost of the Civil Service, and, as there was now no deficit on the working of the Post Office, the salaries of Post Office officials were no charge upon the taxpayer.

Very big savings had been effected in recent years in the cost of the Civil Service as regards pay to servants, the most important factor being the operation of the bonus system. If, as anticipated, there was to be a further fall of twenty-sixtieths next January from the amount of bonus payable when the bonus agreement was made in 1920, the saving over a year would amount to about £160,000.

Some idea of the savings effected with the Civil Service since the cost of living was at its peak in 1921 might be guaged when it was remembered that the rate of bonus then payable had fallen by 60 per cent. It had been officially admitted that under the bonus system civil servants had made a greater contribution to national economy than any other section of the community.

SUPPORT ASKED.

The purchasing power of all civil servants' salaries in excess of 35s. a week, on a pre-war basis, was to-day below that in 1914. Having regard to reduced pay, increased responsibilities and additional hours of duty, the standard pay for work in the Saorstat Civil Service had fallen considerably below British Civil Service standards. In view of that fact it was regrettable that the question of imposing additional reductions should be raised in advance of the official inquiries that were being set on foot.

About 65 per cent. of the civil servants received only £3 per week or less, nearly 80 per cent. not more than £4 a week, and over 90 per cent. not more than £400 a year. About 5 per cent. receive more than £500 a year; and officers with over £1,000 a year were a fraction of one per cent.

"Civil servants," said Mr. Hughes, in conclusion, "feel entitled to ask Rotarians for sympathy and support in carrying out their important work for the State, which requires the best that can be given, particularly in the higher offices. Rotary's high ideals of service are not let down in the Civil Service, which is true to historic traditions of efficiency, probity and impartiality, not excelled in any other State service in the world."

Mr. T. R. Sparks said that civil servants had had a great advantage over other employés, inasmuch as that they had constant employment, and a pension when they retired.

Mr. E. Keith Eason said that pay and pension should be taken into account. There was, he added, far too much recording as compared with production and sales. Business was handicapped by undue recording.

The President thanked Mr. Hughes for his informative talk.

RECITAL AT GATE THEATRE.

There was a large audience in the Gate Theatre, Dublin, last night, when a recital was given by Miss Aingelda Grattan Esmonde (soprano), Miss Gwendoline Parke (pianoforte), and Miss Mary Murphy (violoncello). Miss Murphy, who has toured in England and Scotland, and has an increasing reputation as a soloist and chamber musician, was making her first appearance in Dublin.

The greater part of last night's programme was provided by Miss Grattan Esmonde, a former pupil of Dr. Arnold Smith, London, who sang a group of eight songs by Brahms, Hugo Wolf, Richard Strauss, H. Duparc, Debussy, Armstrong Gibbs, and Parry, in addition to a hitherto unpublished song, "Le Sphinx" (by the Marchioness MacSwiney of Mashanaglass), and an encore number. Miss Grattan Esmonde's singing of her first two numbers, "In Waldeseinsamkeit" and "Botschaft," both Brahms' items, was marred by a show of considerable vocal effort, but her voice revealed itself in all its range and beauty of tone and colour in her rendering of later numbers, notably Strauss' delicate "Standchen," the impressionistic Debussy lay "Aquarelles," and "To one who passed whistling through the night" (C. A Gibbs).

Miss Gwendoline Parke, who has been heard on a Dublin concert platform as an accompanist to Miss Grattan Esmonde, last night confirmed previous good opinions of her style of piano-playing. A former pupil of the Royal College of Music, London, she possesses a sound technique, a beautiful tone, and excellent musicianship. Her playing of Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 12," the concluding item on the programme, was a fine piece of interpretation.

Miss Mary Murphy, who played Grieg's Sonata in A Minor with Miss Parke, and Pablo Casals' arrangement of Gabriel Fame's "Apres un Reve" and Saint-Saens' "Allegro Appassionato" as solo items, gave each piece with remarkable ease.

PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT

TO ATTEND ROYAL WEDDING AT COBURG.

Prince Arthur of Connaught and his sister, Lady Patricia Ramsay, left Liverpool street, London, at 8.30 last night on the Hook of Holland boat train on the way to attend the Royal wedding at Coburg on Thursday, when Princess Sybille of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha will marry Prince Gustave Adolphe of Sweden.

Prince Arthur and Lady Patricia are uncle and aunt of Prince Gustave, who is a son of the late Princess Margaret of Connaught, who married the Crown Prince of Sweden.

THE LATE MR. J. D. BRYAN.

An extraordinary general meeting of the College Historical Society was held yesterday, at which a vote of sympathy was passed in silence to the family of the late Mr. J. Donogh Bryan, ex-Scholar, Mod., B.A., LL.B., triple medalist and ex-Auditor of the Society, and barrister-at-law.

Two Hungarians, made prisoners during the Great War, have returned to their country after eighteen years' absence by walking the greater part of one thousand miles from Siberia.

A FILM OF THE WEEK.

"KAMERADSCHAFT" AT THE GRAFTON.

"Kameradschaft," which is being shown at the Grafton Cinema, is not an entertainment in the ordinary sense; it is a serious piece of anti-war propaganda, consciously undertaken. The story is a very simple one. A French mine goes on fire, and German miners from just across the border come and help in the rescue work. That is all, but it is in the treatment of the story that Pabst shows himself the great artist, and he has produced a film that stands head and shoulders above the romances and thrills of Hollywood.

If the picture has a fault at all, it may be that it leans too much towards the side of sentiment. Many of the best German films do this, just as many of the best French productions show a kind of hardness, almost of cynicism, in their treatment. But that is a thought which only occurs to one afterwards; while the film is being shown one can do nothing but allow the producer to play on the feelings as he will.

This quality of gripping the attention inflexibly from start to finish is, perhaps, the outstanding feature in "Kameradschaft." It is hardly an exaggeration to say that one lives every moment of the accident, from the time when the flames come roaring into the mine until the last survivor is taken out.

The reason, I think, is the producer's extraordinary knowledge of human nature, and his power of showing how people really act under the stress of great emotion. The hysterical laughter of the old man when he discovers his boy at last, and that terrible, frenzied crowd of women outside the mine gates are touches of real genius.

COMRADESHIP.

But Pabst never forgets what he sets out to do, even in the excitement and suspense of the accident, and he never allows us to forget, either. He shows us the comradeship of man breaking down the barriers of race; but he shows us, also, that those barriers are not easily to be broken. The German rescue party, even when their designs are made known, are still at first greeted with suspicion, and the men whom they rescue draw back instinctively from the "Boche."

This moral is implicit in the film throughout, but only on one occasion does the producer press it home. One of the trapped French miners has been trying for hours to attract attention by knocking on the piping with his spanner. When one of the German party finally appears in his gas mask his fevered imagination converts the rescuer into a German soldier with rifle and helmet; the tapping of his own spanner changes into the rattle of machine-guns, and he struggles with him until he is overpowered.

The picture is a plea for the breaking down of racial barriers, but it is significant that Pabst ends on a note of hopelessness. During the accident a small party of the Germans discovers a forgotten shaft which connects their mine with the French one, and they make their way through this, smashing down the gateway which marks the frontier. After the rescues we are shown the finishing touches being put on the reconstructed grille, with coldly formal French and German officials attesting that everything is now in order again. The last thing on which our eyes rest, as the picture fades out, is that iron barrier between the two countries.

NEW PLAY AT ABBEY THEATRE.

"THE MATING OF SHAN McGHIE.

Shan McGhie	W. O'Gorman.
Rosa McGhie	Dorothy Clement.
Anne McGhie	Ann Clery.
Laurence Bain	Gerard Kelly.

Judging by Mr. Stafford's use of dialogue, one must suppose that he has not lived in this country for many years, or else that he has not mingled much with the "plain people." "Bedad and indeed," "begorrah" and "the saints protect us" are only a few of the stage-Irishisms which fill his play, while frequent references are made to "colleens," 'mavourneens" and the like. To write a peasant drama without knowing the right idiom of the people is to invite disaster.

Mr. Stafford's plot is a good, even a strong, one. It is the case of a man who has wronged a woman and is anxious to find her and make amends. When he does find her, it is as a newly-wedded bride in his own family. But the plot is not worked out efficiently. It starts off with a wild coincidence, and there does not seem to be enough real motive for the actions which the various characters take.

The beginning of the second act, where the bridegroom discovers his wife's past relations with Larry Bain, is the best part of the play. Here the characters seem to come to life for a while, and to speak and act in a natural manner. Again, when Anne prepares to sacrifice herself to save the reputation of the erring bride there is another flash of life. But, on the whole, the drama is far below the Abbey's standard.

Miss Dorothy Clement gave about the best performance of the evening, and Miss Ann Clery, though rather wooden at first, improved greatly as the play went on. Mr. W. O'Gorman had a difficult task as Shan McGhie, and perhaps it was not his fault that he did not carry conviction. The rest of the cast were quite adequate.

MOTOR SHOW.

IRISH MOTOR TRADERS AT OLYMPIA.

The attendance at the Motor Show, Olympia, London, yesterday was 16,992, as against 16,923 on the corresponding day last year.

The following Free State motor traders are visiting the show:—Messrs. R. W. Archer (R. W. Archer and Co.); J. J. Reddy (Express Auto Co.); R. D. Cox (R. D. Cox); J. G. McEntagart and H. P. McEntagart (McEntagart Bros., Ltd.); P. J. Tracy, R. B. Brown, R. Ruttle (P. J. Tracy, Ltd.); S. T. Robinson (S. T. Robinson, Ltd.); G. T. Elsey (Autocars Ireland, Ltd.); L. J. Lemass, F. G. Hyder (Smithfield Motor Co., Ltd.); K. King (R. E. Grady, Ltd.); F. Armstrong, A. F. Nolan, G. A. Robinson (Lincoln and Nolan, Ltd.); G. A. Brittain (G. A. Brittain, Ltd.); F. M. Summerfield (F. M. Summerfield, Ltd.); A. J. Doyle (Doyle's Motors, Ltd.); E. W. Booth, R. W. Vereker; James R. Cross, Fred Cross, Gale (Cross's Garage, Ltd., Cork); D. C. MacLachlan (The Club Garage, Cork).

The following are present from Northern Ireland:—Messrs. W. H. Alexander, H. H. Allen, W. H. Adams, J. Agnew, Harry Ferguson, Victor Ferguson, E. Graham, John Hanna, C. P. Haddow, A. Hamilton, Jasper Johnston, J. Nixon, S. McKee, J. W. Shepperd, H. F. Shepperd, G. Stevenson, J. M. Thompson, C. Wilkinson, C. B. Hurst, E. Graham.

FORD CAR SHOW.

DISPLAY AT THE WHITE CITY.

A "one-make" motor show, opened yesterday at the White City, Shepherd's Bush, London, constitutes ample proof of the vitality of the enterprises of Mr. Henry Ford

There is on view a full variety of Ford touring cars, including the new light model, the medium power (with two alternative engine sizes), and that conspicuous performer, the V-8.

In addition, there are the latest Lincoln models of the 12-cylinder type, together with a wide range of utility vehicles from the lightest delivery van to the agricultural tractor.

BUTCHERS SELL MILK.

RETALIATION IN MEAT WAR.

Because farmers in the Kenfig Hill district of Glamorganshire have been selling meat direct to the public the butchers are retaliating by selling milk.

A leading firm of butchers distributed milk, for which they found a ready sale at Pyle and Kenfig Hill at 1d. per quart cheaper than the dealers.

The butchers state that if the farmers do not cease to sell meat milk will be sold in Kenfig Hill after next Monday at 2d. a quart cheaper than the dealers.

CLOTHES AND THE MAN.

FANCY WEAVES THAT SPARKLE.

HINTS AND TINTS FOR AUTUMN.

(By TREFOIL.)

MOST good tailors have laid in a stock of weaves which may be classed as checks, but are better described as fancy weaves that sparkle.

The colour schemes of these new fabrics are simple: just a ground colour on the dull and sober side, with grey inwoven for the pattern and brightened up with a little silk to give a twisted effect.

In check designs, properly so called, the new range of worsted Glenurquharts comes along this season in a set of charming but subdued colourings. In other worsteds there are all-over check patterns, or fabrics with closely spaced stripes. In the newer sports suitings the fawn, drab, or grey ground is relieved with suggestions of bright tints in the over-checking.

JACKET SUITS.

A feature of the current double-breasted jacket is the tendency to fit very snugly over the hips, so that there is a refined but obviously curved line of a somewhat feminine character all the way from the waist. The bottom of the front crease of the trouser points very slightly forward. This general curvature is balanced by an insistence upon sundry available horizontal lines, so that the lapels, the tops of the pockets, and the pairs of buttons are all parallel. Side pockets, with these and other double-breasted jackets, are flapped.

In the North business men are favouring for informal wear the single-breasted jacket, with double-breasted lapels, but there are a good many single-breasted lapels to be seen. Two buttons, rather than three, are decidedly in the majority. Most Lancashire and Yorkshire merchants, or their juniors, who wish to be mistaken for their employers, wear worsted, and the favourite colour is navy blue. One sees a few black coats worn with striped trousers. This is the style for men who sit on councils and committees, meeting Government officials, and who are not actively engaged on affairs of manufacturing or merchandising. With either style the bowler hat is generally worn. Soft felts are for juniors or for out-of-business hours, and they are invariably either grey or brown.

"CRIBS" FOR HARD WEARER.

If you have any reason to anticipate that a suit for general wear will be subjected to unusual hazards to the extent of needing repair, tell your tailor about your expectation, and he will take care of the "cribs"—that is to say, of the larger pieces of cloth left over from the cutter's shears. Then, if any accident happens, say, from irremovable spots of motor grease, a new piece can be put in by means of that clever manipulation which the tailor calls invisible stitching, done, not by hand, but by a special kind of machine. Apart from such an event it is always wise to let your own tailor care for your clothes in the matter of minor repairs.

FOR WEDDINGS.

Weddings with full ceremonial nowadays are so relatively rare that an invited guest is often in doubt as to what is correct. In these days of progressive informality the wise guest telephones to the best man for a hint, just as one asks the King's equerry when "commanded," or otherwise, to attend at Buckingham Palace.

In general, at a wedding the guest should wear a black morning coat (a dark grey is permissible), with single or double-breasted lapels. It is optional for the waistcoat to match the coat, but grey, fawn, cream, and sometimes white waistcoats are worn, especially when there is a formal reception. The trousers may be of the traditional stripe, or of some very quite dark check. It is essential to have plain ends, not turned up, because a wedding is always an indoor affair. If spats are worn they should tone with the waistcoat. The black silk topper is customary, but in bright weather a grey topper is not out of place.

At informal weddings a short, black jacket may be worn. A plain white shirt is usual, either with a stiff or a soft front, but the cuffs must be stiff. A black and silver tie completes the ensemble.

IMPROVED RAINCOAT.

An improved raincoat is being put on the market, especially suitable for motor cyclists or for those who demand all-weather protection. It is fashioned of cotton gabardine, self-lined, with Prussian collar, wind tabs and slit pockets.

The man who "takes down" his own car, and many owner-drivers are skilled amateur mechanics, needs an overall, and he can now have a garment which is British-made of extra strong fabric, dyed in permanent colour, with reinforced seams, and generous yet graceful lines. There is a special type of overall with capacious outside pockets, and the straps over the shoulders are fitted with a new kind of buckle guaranteed not to slip on the tapes.

SPOTTED MUFFLERS.

With the current vogue for lighter-than-heavy-weight suitings for the coming winter, the muffler will be almost indispensable. The lead given by the Prince of Wales last year in the matter of spotted designs is likely to be generally adopted, and the outfitting trade, I hear, has put in ample stocks. The spot patterns are especially suitable for the fabric known as printed cashmere, but one can have knitted scarves with striped effects in club colours. Mufflers are either square or oblong. The squares are 36 inches each way, and the orthodox oblong measures 18 inches by 54. For evening wear the scarf should be cream or white, with a modest fringe. You can wear a black muffler with a dinner jacket.

AUTUMNAL HOSIERY.

Autumn hosiery naturally follows the same trend as one's suit. Patterns are distinct, mainly with two definite colours, in the main blue, brown or grey. Dark or black socks are being shown with a kind of spotted effect, and some have plain grounds with a rather broad clock of geometrical design.

Pyjama suits in artificial silk are tending to drive out other fabrics, with the exception of poplin. The artificial silks are more colourful, but the poplins have, or seem to have, a more acceptable lustre. The patterning on pyjama suits is less conspicuous than formerly.

STARTED A GOLD RUSH.

DISCOVERER OF REEF AT COOLGARDIE DEAD.

The discovery of a gold reef which has produced more than a hundred million pounds worth of gold is recalled by the death in Sydney of William Ford, who in 1892 came upon the Coolgardie goldfields and started one of the greatest gold rushes in history.

Ford was a poor prospector when he made his lucky strike. Accompanied by a chance acquaintance, Arthur Bayley, he started from Perth in April, 1892, on an expedition. After fruitless wanderings they headed their trail for Southern Cross, where they laid in supplies sufficient to last them for seven or eight weeks.

One night, footsore and despondent, they arrived at a native well at Coolgardie. They camped, ate their meagre supper, and turned in. Ford was early astir, and had not gone far before he picked up a gold nugget weighing a quarter of an ounce. Before dinner time he and Bayley had found more than twenty ounces. During the next three or four weeks they secured over two hundred ounces, and then, their provisions running low, they were obliged to return to Southern Cross.

They said nothing about their discovery, but hurried back to Coolgardie, where, on the first Sunday after their return, they struck the reef.

The same evening they extracted from the cap of the reef over five hundred ounces of gold, and early next day they pegged out a prospecting area. Bayley made his way back to Southern Cross with 554 ounces of gold, which he showed to the authorities. The field was declared open, and Bayley left again for Coolgardie, accompanied by a coach, teams of horses and a host of horsemen. The news of the find spread rapidly, and resulted in the historic rush to the area.

Bayley died twelve months later, but Ford had since lived in retirement.

ON THE WIRELESS

THE CHILD MIND.

EVERY year the science of psychology is becoming more closely allied to that of education. Teachers and examiners are realising to a greater extent how important a knowledge of the pupils' minds is to them in their work. In the teaching and examining of the younger children the importance of this knowledge is greatest; for children are easily influenced by environment, and habits formed in childhood often have a very strong influence on later life. The formation of children's habits and the nature of them will be treated in the talk, "Instinct and Habit"—the fourth of the "How the Mind Works in the Child" series—in the National programme at 8.30 to-night.

A good programme has been arranged for the specially augmented Dublin Station Orchestra, which will broadcast to-night at 8.0, 9.0 and 10 o'clock, under the direction of Mr. Vincent O'Brien. The programme includes Haydn's "Symphony No. 14," two Norwegian melodies by Grieg, and Rachmaninoff's "Elegie."

Another symphony by Haydn is included in the Philharmonic Concert conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham, which the North Regional Station will relay at 7.45 to-night from Liverpool.

TEACHERS' GRIEVANCES.

BURDEN OF THE IRISH REVIVAL.

At a largely-attended meeting of the County Wexford Irish National Teachers' Organisation, held in Enniscorthy, resolutions were passed protesting against the "star-chamber committee at present inquiring into teachers' salaries and pensions"; calling for a revision of the school programme, which is so overloaded that only a short time can be given to the various subjects; and stating that the present inspection system is a failure, as the inspectors have not the time to give the teacher the help needed with the revolutionary change in the programme.

Mr. D. Kelleher, Dublin, representative on the C.E.C., said that during the past year the energies of the I.N.T.O. were in the main devoted to combating the threatened action of the Government to cut the teachers' salaries. Criticising the present system of inspection, he said the system was established as a result of the committee which the late Minister for Education set up. The teachers had every reason to be disappointed with it. They had expected a marked growth of friendly co-operation between the inspectors and the teachers. This did not materialise, however, and the inspection system remains to-day what it had always been, a controlling agency.

The question of the school programme was closely bound up with the system of inspection. The function of the primary school should be to give a general education, and anything like specialisation should be the work of post-primary schools. Owing to the programme being overloaded they could not give due attention to fundamentals.

STRAIN OF IRISH TEACHING.

The burden of the Irish revival had fallen almost entirely on the national teachers. The future of the language depended on the schools. The strain of the Irish teaching had begun to tell, and the amount of illness due to overwork was increasing at an alarming rate. The teachers should get practical recognition of their work in the form of a reasonable programme and non-interference with their present privileges. In the work that teachers had to face little or no help was received from the Department of Education. A high standard was expected in Irish and other subjects, but nothing was forthcoming in the way of suggestions re methods of teaching Irish.

The setting up of the Commission inquiring into salaries and pensions was, he said, regarded by the teachers as a feeble and futile attempt to avoid the political odium which must necessarily follow the enforcement of the "cuts." He hoped the Government would refrain from economising in education, which was the first of the social services.

Alderman R. Corish, T.D., said that the Labour Party was standing four square with the teachers. He was at a loss to understand the mentality of the Government that suggested another cut in the teachers' salaries. Immediately economy was mentioned in this country the teachers were the first people thought of in Government circles. If the teachers did not voice their feelings the Government would cut their salaries now, and there would be another cut in twelve months' time. He pledged himself to his constituents in the recent elections to be against decreases of salary, and if the Labour Party took any other action, he would seriously consider what step he would take after that. The Labour Party had certain powers at the moment, and he believed that one of the things they should use their powers for was to secure the teachers' salaries from being cut.

In putting a vote of thanks to the speakers, the Chairman (Mr. Doyle, N.T., Cushinstown) criticised the C.E.C. of the I.N.T.O. for neglecting to put into force the resolutions passed every year at the Congress.

Mr. Kelleher, in reply, explained that the energies of the C.E.C. were at present engaged on the salary question, and when that was settled they would deal with the other matters.

KENYA DOUBLE MURDER CHARGE.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NAIROBI, Monday.

Mr. W. R. Ross, now charged with murdering his fiancée, Miss Stevenson, as well as her friend, Miss Keppie, was brought up on remand to-day.

No evidence was given, and Ross was again remanded until October 25th.

HUGUENOT CEMETERIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The following item of information is offered as a matter of interest relevant to the suggestion by Mr. MacArthur to have the dates of foundation inscribed at or near the sites of the various Dublin Huguenot burial places. In March, 1710, William Domvile leased to Captain Peter Vigneau, Captain Peter Laval, Peter Bere and Janssen de Tubeuf ground extending sixty-six feet along the south side of Peter street. In December, 1712, these gentlemen transferred their interest in the property to the minister and elders of the United French Churches in Peter street and Lucy lane. The term was for ninety-nine years at the rent of a peppercorn for the first one and a half years and £8 5s. thereafter.

This ground constituted the Peter street burial ground. Lucy lane was situate in the neighbourhood of the present Four Courts.—Yours, etc.,

MARSH'S LIBRARY.

MANY ADDITIONS AND IMPROVEMENTS.

The two hundred and twenty-second annual visitation of Marsh's Library was held at the Library yesterday. The Governors and Guardians present were:—The Archbishop of Dublin (in the chair), the Dean of Christ Church and the Dean of St. Patrick's. Apologies for non-attendance were received from the Primate and from the Provost of Trinity College.

The annual accounts were presented by the Librarian and passed.

It was reported that a catalogue of books in the Library (printed before A.D. 1801) relating to, or printed in, Ireland has been compiled by the Librarian, and a bound copy of the typescript placed for reference in the reading room. A card index of the books and pamphlets relating to the Jesuits (many of the early seventeenth century) has been prepared by the Assistant Librarian. The manuscript Z 3-5-21, containing pieces of Elizabethan poetry, has been photographed for the use of an American scholar, who is engaged on a new edition of the poems of Henry Constable. The Constable sonnets in this MS. are alluded to in one of the published volumes of Professor Dowden's correspondence. The large MS. Memoirs by A. Tessereau, relating to the French Reformed Church in the seventeenth century, are being studied by a competent French scholar as material for a publication or article.

The new books purchased include E. R. McC. Dix's "Printing in Dublin Prior to 1601," Harold Williams's "Dean Swift's Library," B. H. Streeter's "The Chained Library," Keating's "Three Shafts of Death," ed. O. Bergin, and Sir B. Fletcher's "History of Architecture"; and among older books, R. Boyle's "Reason and Religion" (1675), Confucius's Morals (1691), Memoirs of Lord Charlemont (1810), and Henry Bradshaw's "Hibernensis Canoris" (1893), and "Half-century of Notes" (1886). A number of books has been presented by the London Literature Committee of the Society of Friends, and donations have been made also by Dom Hugh Connolly, the Rev. G. F. Hamilton, Canon Jourdan, Mr. R. McDonnell, Dr. W. J. Maguire, Miss A. F. Man, Mr. A. C. Simpson, Mr. H. Sirr, Canon David Wilson and Miss E. J. Warren. Canon Jourdan's gifts included a typescript copy of the Catalogue of Sir James Ware's MSS., printed in Dublin in 1648, printed copies of which are extremely rare.

MECHANISM OF THE WHEEL.

"The Mechanism of the Wheel in Road Transport" was the subject of a lantern lecture by Mr. P. Cormack, M.Sc., F.R.C.Sc.I., before the Engineering and Scientific Association of Ireland, in the Architects' Hall, 8 Merrion square, Dublin, last night.

The lecturer explained with the aid of diagrams the setting of farm-cart wheels and of axles, the steering of one and two-wheel vehicles, and of motor cars; the causes of wheel wobble, the reason for coning locomotive wheels, and a variety of other matters arising out of his subject.

Mr. D. Mellon, President of the Association, occupied the chair.

A POPULAR OFFICIAL.

A very enjoyable smoking concert was held in Jury's Hotel, Dublin, last Saturday evening in connection with a presentation to Mr. Maurice Casey on the occasion of his retirement after more than 43 years' service in the Dublin Telegraph Department.

Mr. J. J. McCann, Controller of Telegraphs, presided at the presentation, and spoke of Mr. Casey's popularity and of the high esteem in which he was held by his colleagues.

The following were among those who contributed to the concert which followed:—Messrs. J. Carroll, R. Byrne, W. Garland, R. M. Delaney, Jas. McLoughlin, F. Armstrong, J. Lenihan, P. McMahon, F. Quinn, M. Casey, J. Brady, J. Davy and L. Harty.

Mystery of a Fatal Motoring Accident.

County Tipperary Priest Accused of Manslaughter.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LIMERICK, Monday.

IN the Limerick City Courthouse this morning District Justice Flood resumed the hearing of the charge of manslaughter preferred against the Rev. Michael Gunning, C.C., Toomevara, County Tipperary, in respect of the death of Cornelius McNamara (19), railway porter, at Rivers, Annacotty, County Limerick. McNamara was knocked down by a motor car on the night of September 14. The Rev. Father Gunning also was charged with causing grievous bodily harm on the same occasion to Matthew Rainsford, labourer.

Mr. K. J. Liston, barrister-at-law (instructed by Mr. J. J. Power, State Solicitor), prosecuted; and Mr. T. A. Finlay, K.C., and Mr. C. S. Casey, barrister-at-law (instructed by Mr. S. McCurtin, solicitor, Nenagh), defended.

Patrick Byrnes, labourer, Sallymount, Castleconnell, stated that on the night of September 14, at 10 o'clock, he went to Annacotty Bridge, where he met William McDonagh. They went for a walk as far as Castletroy, on the Limerick side, and returned slowly. At a point he saw a car coming along, travelling on the left-hand side, with two good headlights. He next heard what he thought was the back-firing of a motor and shouting. At that time the car had passed him. It appeared to be a blue-coloured Ford car. Witness went back to the place from where the shouting came, and found Ramsford on the road.

COUNSEL'S OBJECTION.

When Mr. Liston asked the witness if there were lamps on the mudguards Mr. Finlay objected, as the question was a leading one.

The Justice disallowed the question.

The witness stated that after he heard the noise of back-firing a car came along with only one light. At William street Barrack he was shown a car, but could not say if it was like that which passed him on the road.

In reply to Mr. Finlay, witness said that the car in question appeared to be a Ford by the make. When he went to William street Barrack to look at the car there were others also there for the same purpose.

William McDonagh, a labourer, living at Killonan, who was with the last witness on the night in question, gave similar evidence.

Michael Tucker, a motor mechanic, living at Annacotty, deposed to being at Annacotty on the night of September 14. He was standing at the cross at 10.40 o'clock, and after some time he heard noise from the Limerick direction, as if a motor car had come into collision with something. He subsequently saw a Ford saloon car coming from the direction, and he went and noticed its left front head and wing lamps were not lighting. The corresponding lamps on the right side were lighting, and the car was travelling on the left side of the road. When the car passed him it was going at a speed of forty-five miles per hour. The driver did not lift his leg off the accelerator after passing witness.

Mr. Finlay—Did you see his leg?—No, but I knew by the noise of the engine that the driver's leg was on the accelerator.

A BLUE SALOON CAR.

Mr. Liston—What kind of car was it?—A blue saloon car.

Did you look after the car when it passed you?—Yes.

Did you observe anything?—I thought to get the number of the car. I got the two first figures—"18."

Can you say if there were any other figures on the plate?—Yes.

Could you say if the figures "18" were in the middle or end of the plate?—They were at the commencement.

Answering further questions the witness said that the car had a red light at the rear. When Michael Supples came up to him the witness went to the creamery to 'phone the Guards, but he did not do so, as the manager was not at home. He was shown a car at William street barracks last Wednesday, and it resembled very much the Ford car that passed him on the night of September 14.

Mr. Finlay—Were you standing on the road or on the footpath?—On the footpath.

Were you speaking to anybody?—Yes; to Edward McDonagh and William Keane.

What distance was the car from you when you first saw it?—About seventy-five yards.

If anybody was determined to get the number of this car he had only to step out into the road?—If I wanted to get the number I could have got the whole of it.

Then you did not want to get the number?—No; I did not know then that an accident had occurred.

The first information you had of an accident that night was when you met Michael Supple?—Yes.

Did you swear here in your direct examination that you thought to get the number of the car?—I did not swear that I thought to get the number.

Mr. Finlay asked to have the witness's direct examination read over.

Then you did swear, Mr. Tucker, that you thought to get the number of the car?

The Witness—Yes; because at the speed it was travelling I was afraid that there might be a collision round the corner.

Do you suggest that is the reason for trying to get the number of the car? Answer that question.

I won't answer it.

You did not see any other figures on the identification plate except 18?—No.

Edward McDonagh, farmer, Annacotty, gave evidence to the effect that, while in conversation with Keane and Tucker on the night in question, two cars passed from the direction of Limerick, but he did not notice what make they were. The second carried bright lights.

William Keane, labourer, stated that, while in conversation with the two last witnesses at the cross, he only saw one car passing, and that was a small car coming from the direction of Limerick.

Mr. Finlay—Was anything said or done by Michael Tucker to attract your attention to any other car that night?—No.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE.

Dr. J. McPolin, County Medical Officer of Health, Castletroy, deposed to having attended the deceased man, Cornelius McNamara, and Matthew Rainsford on the Limerick-Dublin road at 11.30 on the night of September 14. McNamara was dead, and an examination showed that he had a broken neck. Rainsford was lying on McNamara's left. He was hysterical, and obviously not in full possession of his senses. The ambulance had arrived at this time, and he was removed to the county infirmary.

Mr. Liston—Was the injury to McNamara consistent with being struck with a motor car?—Yes.

Patrick Quilty, blacksmith, Lisnagry, stated that, while on Annacotty Bridge on the night in question with the witness, Ryan, he saw an Austin car pass in the direction of Dublin, and a few minutes later what looked like a Ford car passed in the same direction.

Did you notice anything after the second car passed?—Yes; the letters FI 18.

Were there any other numbers besides 18?—I did not notice.

The witness added that when he heard of the accident he went to the scene. The car shown him in William Street Barrack last Wednesday resembled that bearing the letters FI 18.

The witness was cross-examined by Mr. Finlay to test his knowledge of the engine noise of different makes of motor cars.

AN AUSTIN CAR.

Tell me who first told you that an Austin car was on the road that night?—I heard it at the scene of the accident.

Who did you hear say it?—Michael Tucker.

Did you hear Michael Tucker say that the second car was a Ford?—It resembled a Ford.

Did you want to get the number of this car?—Well, not particularly; but I generally look at the numbers of cars.

Was there anything to prevent you getting the full numbers on this car, because you went into the road to see it after passing?—I could not get them.

Did you get the numbers on the Austin? No.

Did any car pass into Limerick that night? Yes.

Did you get the number of that?—I saw the letters "E.I.", but not the number.

James Curran, Annacotty, deposed to finding on the road near Annacotty on the morning of September 15 portion of a motor horn, which was perfectly clean. He picked it up on the left-hand side of the road, and handed it to a Guard immediately after finding it.

Patrick Hogan, Annacotty, gave evidence of seeing a car pass him coming from the direction of Limerick. It had one light, and stopped a hundred yards above his house. A man got out for a second, and then drove away in the direction of Newport.

William Ryan, farmer, Drominboy, stated that while standing on the Newport road at 10.20 (old time) on the night of September 14 a dark blue Ford car passed, carrying one headlight. That car was like the one shown him in William Street Barrack.

To Mr. Finlay—He would not know a Ford from any other car.

Similar evidence was given by Patrick Ryan, farmer, of Drominboy. He could not say if the car that passed him on the night of September 14 while he was speaking to the last witness was like the one he saw in William Street Barrack last Wednesday.

A TELEPHONE MESSAGE.

Guard W. Kelleher, John street, Limerick, deposed to receiving a telephone message of the accident at 11.35 on the night in question from Mr. McMahon, garage proprietor, Castletroy.

Sergeant Hegarty, Castleconnell, stated that on the night of September 14 he was on patrol duty on the Limerick-Dublin road with Guard McHugh, and did not recollect any car passing after 11.30 p.m. His station was apprised of the accident at midnight, and he went to the scene. There was nothing to indicate on the road the skid or track of a motor car, but some distance from where McNamara's body was lying witness picked up broken glass, and handed it to Guard McHugh. The piece of glass (produced) contained the word "Ford," and on another piece were the words "Olit headlamp." Part of the letter "P" was missing.

Did you examine other pieces?—Yes; in one was the number 1604935—J.

Continuing, the witness said that he saw a Ford saloon car in Castleconnell on September 16 bearing the number "F.I. 1883." It was a dark blue colour. The left front mudguard was bent, the left front lamp was slightly bent back, and glass was missing from the lamp. The cover of the radiator was slightly bent, and there was a dent on the left side of the bonnet. The left portion of the bumper also was bent back.

The further hearing of the case was adjourned until October 24.

The Purchase of Heifers.

Support for Government Schemes.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

LONGFORD, Monday.

"Although I do not agree with many of the things the Government is doing, I think this is a splendid provision for poor farmers," said Mr. Robert Belton, County Councillor, at the meeting of the Longford County Committee of Agriculture, when the scheme for the purchase of heifers on loans was being considered. Four centres—two in North Longford and two in South Longford—for sales in connection with the scheme were fixed, and two local auctioneers were appointed salesmen.

Mr. Clancy, agricultural instructor, explained that one of the main objects was to keep the good milking strains of heifers in the country and to give the poorer farmers a chance of buying them. Hitherto, when in competition with cross-Channel buyers at the fairs, and having to pay down the money, they had not this chance.

The terms of the loans having been explained, Mr. Belton said that a poor farmer could have a fine young heifer for £3 or £4 down.

Mr. Walsh—There is no scheme that will help the farmers as much as this. It is a great thing for a poor farmer to be able to bring a good young cow to his door for such a small amount of money.

The wheat-growing scheme also was approved, Mr. Clancy stating that arrangements had been made for the importation of the best quality grain at a price which, with the bounty, would be very reasonable, in addition to the seed wheat for sale in this country. The idea underlying the scheme was that the large tracts of land at present devoted to grazing would eventually come under the plough for food production.

Co-Option.—Mr. Patrick McGrath, Killen, Coalisland, was yesterday co-opted a member of Tyrone County Council.

Galway Housing Tenders.

Question of Trades Union Wages.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

GALWAY, Monday.

THE housing problem in Galway was discussed at a special meeting of the Urban Council which was held to-day, when tenders were considered for the erection of thirty-three additional houses at The Claddagh. The tender of Messrs. McNally, building contractor, Galway, at £10,225, being the lowest, was accepted. The tender of Mr. Walter O'Flaherty for the erection of twelve houses at Bohermore for the sum of £4,337 also was accepted.

Mr. Kelly urged that wooden sashes should be used in the houses. These could be made locally, whereas steel sashes would be imported.

Mr. Binns, Borough Surveyor, said that the tiles would be made locally. This would ensure the employment of a big number of men.

Mr. Jackson—Is the Government satisfied that the tiles should be made locally?

Mr. T. C. McDonogh said that the Killaloe slates were far superior to any tiles that might be used.

It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Borough Surveyor.

Mr. Kelly (Labour) called attention to the fact that trades union rates of wages were not being paid under the Claddagh housing scheme. He would like to inform the Council that the Ministry had laid it down specifically that, unless trades union wages—namely, £2 10s. a week—were paid to labourers, the scheme could be held up, and the Government would refuse a grant.

Mr. T. McDonogh—We have nothing to say in that matter.

Mr. Kelly—I can inform you that trades union rates of wages must be paid, or there will be no grant.

It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Borough Surveyor.

Found Dead in Bed.—At the inquest which was held at Passage West yesterday on the body of Mrs. Georgina Phippa, who was found dead in bed with a pair of silk stockings tied around her neck, a verdict was returned "that the cause of death was partly asphyxia and partly syncope, due to pressure on the great blood vessels of the neck, caused by constriction by binding her neck with silk stockings while temporarily insane."

Prison for Cattle Stealing.

Connaught Ranger's Plea.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

CASHEL, Monday.

AT Cashel District Court Joseph Naughton and James Murricane were charged with the larceny of five head of cattle, value for £50, the property of Mr. Daniel Hanly, Ballynattin, Clerihan, Clonmel.

Superintendent Reynolds, who prosecuted, described how Sergeant McNicholas became suspicious of the accused men, and having interrogated them at Cashel Fair, they admitted driving the cattle off Mr. Hanly's farm, midway between Clonmel and Cashel. In statements the accused men said that they were out of work, and they decided to steal cattle in order to obtain sufficient money to take them to England. Murricane stated that he was almost in a state of starvation, and people advised him not to be hungry as long as there was anything to be got in the country. It was hunger that drove him to steal the cattle. He joined the trawler section of the British Navy on November 15, 1917, and was discharged on March 4, 1919, with character "very good." He joined the Connaught Rangers on May 24, 1919, at Galway. He was one of a number of that regiment who mutinied in India, for which he was sentenced to three years' penal servitude. Having served nine months, he was released with his other comrades. Returning to Ireland, he enlisted in the Free State Army in 1922, and served as a corporal for eight years, being discharged on April 1, 1930. As a result of his part in the Connaught Rangers mutiny, he stated, he was refused a character from the British Army authorities.

Justice McCarthy said that he would have to take a serious view of these offences. He sentenced the accused men to two months' imprisonment, and ordered the cattle to be restored to the owner.

In Aid of the Poor.

Successful Armagh Sale.

ARMAGH, Monday.

A successful jumble sale, in aid of the poor of the city, was held in Armagh Parochial Hall, under the combined auspices of the Ladies' of Charity and the St. Vincent de Paul Societies.

The sale, which was declared open by the Very Rev. Michael M'Guone, Adm., Armagh, was well attended, and the stalls, consisting of clothing, footwear, fruit and vegetables, hardware, grocery and minerals, were largely patronised, and a good sum was realised by the sale.

The sale closed with an enjoyable Cinderella dance.

Cyclists and Summons.

Thrown on the Roadway.

ATHLONE, Monday.

Envelopes containing the summonses served on the defendants, together with an offensive note, all of which he had received through the post, were handed in by a Civic Guard at Athlone Court to-day during the hearing of cases in which he summoned John Connolly, Tubberclair, and Hugh Connolly, Glasson, in respect of unlighted bicycles.

John Connolly was called, but refused to be sworn. Mr. Kenny, the District Justice, asked him what he had done with the summons, and he replied he had left it where he got it—on the road.

Hugh Connolly was also asked what he had done with the summons, and, replying in Irish, said that he threw it on the road.

A fine of £1 was imposed in each case.

The Visit of the Prince of Wales.

Tyrone's Resolution of Welcome.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

OMAGH, Monday.

AT the meeting of the Tyrone County Council to-day, Colonel R. J. Howard, J.P., said that the members of the Council did not always agree, and it would not be well if they did, but he was sure they would be unanimous in offering a welcome to the Prince of Wales when he came to Northern Ireland next month. By his dignified conduct, courtesy, and consideration for all creeds and classes the Prince had made himself the most outstanding personality in the British Empire, and it would be contrary to the traditions of Northern hospitality if they failed to give him a real Irish welcome.

Mr. Rowley Elliott, M.P., proposed the following resolution:—"We, the members of the County Council of the historic County of Tyrone, desire to place on record our gratification at the coming visit of the Prince of Wales in November. We welcome the opportunity it will afford us again to show our undying loyalty to the Crown and Constitution, and personally to the Price as the heir to the great British Empire, of which we are all so proud to belong."

Mr. John Johnston seconded the motion.

Mr. Thomas Greer, J.P., supported the resolution, but said that he agreed with the Earl of Belmore, when he wished the Prince was coming over for a better purpose.

The motion was passed, and copies were ordered to be forwarded to the Prime Minister and Sir Dawson Bates.

Tyrone Council and Queen's University.

Protest Against a Pamphlet.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

OMAGH, Monday.

AT Tyrone County Council meeting to-day, an application was received from Queen's University for a contribution from the funds of the Council. The Council had previously contributed ½d. in the £, which amounted to about £450.

Mr. Thomas Greer, J.P., moved that the County Council decline to give a grant, and said that last winter a "show" was organised in connection with the University, and, in connection with same, a pamphlet was published which might have emanated from Russia, where the people did not believe in Christianity. It was disgraceful for a city like Belfast, which prided itself on its Christianity. It was low, vulgar and blasphemous, and any person who had a spark of Christianity should object to a grant to the University. He moved the resolution as a protest.

Colonel R. J. Howard, J.P. (Chairman)—Were the University authorities aware of the publication of the pamphlet?

Mr. S. C. Colhoun seconded Mr. Greer's proposition.

Mr. John Glasgow, J.P., said that at the risk of being termed unChristian, he would move that the usual grant be given. He had already impressed upon Mr. Greer the view that the University authorities had no knowledge of the publication of the pamphlet, and they could not be responsible for it.

Mr. R. D. Greaves seconded.

Mr. Greer said that the previous year a similar pamphlet was issued, and before such a publication was broadcast in Northern Ireland it should have been censored. If the University authorities claimed no responsibility for the publication, why did they withdraw it? If they were going to educate the young men of Northern Ireland in this way the sooner they went to Russia the better.

Mr. R. D. Greaves—I have two sons at Queen's University and they are just as loyal as Mr. Greer is.

Mr. Glasgow's amendment was passed by eight votes to six.

McCann, Lurgan, a resolution was passed expressing regret at the death of Brother James Donnelly, J.P., who was a life-long Hibernian, and for a good number of years county president; and expressing to his widow and family heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement.

Question of Sanitation.—Writing to the Clare Board of Health the Free State Department of the Local Government Board stated that according to a report made by Dr. Holmes, Medical Officer, Killaloe, he was of opinion that the probable source of infection of a recent diphtheria case had been a defective sewer in New street and an insanitary closet in the Boys' National School at Killaloe. The Department wanted to know had the Board taken any steps to remedy the defects mentioned. The Secretary said that the usual notices had been served by the Board, but that the manager of the school had not done anything as far as connecting the school with the sewerage system was concerned. Mr. Healy proposed, and Mr. Crowe seconded, that steps be taken to ensure the connection of the school with the sewerage system. An order was then made that proceedings be taken against the manager of the school.

Tyrone Anglers' Success.—The closing week of the angling season on North Tyrone rivers is providing good sport for fishermen, and around Newtownstewart the catches are averaging two or three salmon per rod a day.

Publicans Fined.—At the Arklow District Court yesterday, Patrick O'Connell, Main street, Arklow, was fined £2 10s. and had his licence endorsed when charged with a breach of the Licensing Act. A fine of £3 was imposed on Edward Finn, Redcross, on a similar charge.

Leitrim Education Appointments.—County Leitrim Vocational Education Committee has appointed Mr. Francis John Parkinson, of 85 Ulsterville avenue, Belfast, as manual instructor. The Committee decided to leave the appointment of a chief executive officer to the Free State Local Appointments Commission, and fixed the salary at £200 per annum, increasing by £5 yearly to £250 plus cost of living bonus.

Tyrone Surveyor.—At Tyrone County Council meeting yesterday the pending retirement of Mr. J. W. Leebody, County Surveyor, next January, was reported. Several members expressed the hope that the Council might be able to retain the services of Mr. Leebody for a further period. The Council appointed a committee to confer with Mr. Leebody on the matter.

More Employment.—Employment is being already given in Ennis in connection with the manufacture of whiting and kindred products from large deposits of calcium carbonate which exist near the town. A number of men are this week engaged at quarrying work and structural alterations to a local mill, in which machinery will be installed during the week-end. Application has been made by Mr. Sean O'Grady, T.D., to the Free State Minister for Industry and Commerce to permit the importation of the machinery free of duty.

Unlicensed Boars.—At Ennis District Court Michael Flanagan, Durra, Spancilhill, was fined 22s. 6d. for keeping two unlicensed boars. It appeared from the evidence that the defendant, who pleaded guilty, had received several notices from the Free State Department of Agriculture in regard to the boars, which they had refused to licence, but the defendant had not paid any attention to the notices until recently, when he had destroyed the boars. District Justice Gleeson remarked that the defendant had been very obstinate, but people like him must be made understand that the statute had not been passed for amusement.

Twopence Income Tax.—At the meeting of the Longford County Board of Health, Mr. T. Carter said that in the area that was formerly the Ballymahon Rural District, the owners of the lands taken for cottage plots, instead of being paid a bulk sum, were paid yearly rents. These rents were now paid through the Land Commission, and income tax was deducted at the source, with the result that on every small payment there was deduction. He instanced the case of one poor woman who received a paying order for eighteenpence, with twopence deducted for income tax. A resolution was passed asking the Land Commission to make the payments in full.

Louth Housing Scheme.—More than one thousand applications have been received by the Louth Board of Health for the erection of labourers' cottages in the county. To consider the proposals a special meeting of the Board of Health was held yesterday. Mr. William Woods said that he knew that many of the applicants were under the impression that they would get houses at the same price as the original cottages—1s. 4d. a week, including rates—and if they were asked to pay even 2s. 6d. a week many of the applications would not have been sent in. The Board decided to have plans made for the erection of thirty-five houses on plots already secured and on which building had been held up since before the war.

The Dead Meat Trade

Galway Councillor's Views.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

GALWAY, Monday.

THE export to England of dressed mutton and the use of the local abattoir by a County Galway company were discussed at a special meeting of the Galway Urban Council which was held to-day.

The Borough Surveyor said that the improvements in the abattoir to facilitate the company for the proposed export trade would cost £387 If the company developed the trade and arranged for the export of dead beef the expenses of improving or extending the abattoir would run into nearly £3,000.

The Chairman (Mr Young) said that the Council had no guarantee that the company would last, and it was a moot point whether it was good business to pledge the rates for the project

Mr. T. C. McDonogh said that the dead meat industry was tried in Drogheda and was a failure. They had no fat cattle in Galway.

The Chairman—It is proposed to deal with sheep in the first instance.

Mr. McDonogh—If these men want to start a company why not do so on their own? There are plenty of vacant sites for an abattoir in Galway.

Mr. Jackson—I am out to help any local enterprise, but I am not in favour of spending money if the enterprise is not going to be a success.

Mr. Lee—You are not going to lose.

Mr. Cooke—It is a private company.

Mr. Failer—I do not think that we should spend money by way of private speculation.

Mr Kelly—It is not a private company. The sales of the produce will be controlled by the Government.

It was decided to get into touch with the directors of the proposed company before taking any action in regard to the extension of the abattoir.

Wanted in the Free State.

Belfast Recorder's Comment.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Monday.

Imposing terms of six months' imprisonment on two respectably dressed youths, William Wakefield and Frank Louis, both stated to be Dublin men, who pleaded guilty to breaking and entering a lock-up shop and stealing a gold pendant, together with 1s. 4d., belonging to the Belfast Corporation, the Recorder said that the sentences would not be effective if the prisoners left Northern Ireland to-day.

"I am informed that you are wanted by the Free State authorities for offences there," said his honour in addressing the two prisoners. "We want to facilitate those authorities in dealing with their criminals, and the sentence of six months' imprisonment with hard labour now passed upon you will be suspended.

House Hunger In Donegal.

Families Living in Barns.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

BALLYBOFEY, Monday.

At the meeting of the Donegal County Board of Health, which was held at Stranorlar to-day, deputations from Fahan, Burt, Inch, Castlefin, Newtown-Cunningham, Lifford, St. Johnston and Raphoe appeared before the Board to stress the necessity of erecting cottages.

James Gavigan, Burt, said that the conditions in his area were very bad, and numbers had to live in condemned houses, while others were living in outhouses. He knew cases where families were living in barns in this area. There were over a dozen families with no housing accommodation, and in one labourer's cottage there were three families. In another case there were eleven persons living in one house, and in bad weather it was necessary to get a boat to reach the house, and the residents had to live upstairs.

The deputationists were assured that everything would be done to speed up a scheme for the erection of 500 houses, for which there were 1,500 applicants.

Newspapers Seized.

Masked Men "Hold-Up" Two Little Girls.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

NEWCASTLE WEST, Monday.

A parcel of newspapers consigned to Mr. John Lyons, Castlemahon, which were being taken along a country road from the 'bus by two little girls, were seized this morning by two masked men. Civic Guards and a detective visited the district, and in the evening two young men, S. O'Regan and Michael Cussen, were arrested and brought to Newcastle-West Barracks, where they were charged before Mr. P. Murphy, Peace Commissioner, with the robbery of the papers.

Superintendent Martin, who prosecuted, opposed the granting of bail, and the accused men were remanded in custody to the District Court to be held on Friday.

In Convalescence to make a quick recovery take SANATOGEN

SO often and so thoroughly has Sanatogen, the tonic food, been tested that its beneficial action is recognised as a certainty. Over 24,000 physicians have stated in writing the marvellous results they have obtained with Sanatogen as a nerve and body strengthening food.

Sanatogen increases the appetite and multiplies the number of red blood corpuscles. It is so easily digested that the weakest stomach can absorb it, and being a food and not a drug, it cannot interfere with the medical treatment you are being given.

Thousands of people "have rounded that dangerous corner of half-health" with the aid of Sanatogen. You, too, will recover much more quickly directly you start taking Sanatogen, So start to-day! With Sanatogen you will literally drink in new vitality.

"The starved nerves take up Sanatogen as the parched earth drinks in water." Dr. C. L. Wheeler.

SANATOGEN IS OBTAINABLE AT ALL CHEMISTS FROM 2/3 PER TIN.

Missing Man Dead in Quarry.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

DUNDALK, Monday.

This afternoon the body of Patrick McGreevy (50), Flurrybridge, a townland on the Louth-Armagh border, was found in a disused quarry at Carrickarnon, and within half a mile of his home. McGreevy, who was a married man, had been missing from his home since last Tuesday.

This afternoon Mr. Rooney, of Carrickarron, while searching for a lost dog, looked into the quarry and found the body. The man was fully clothed, except for his hat, which was found a short distance from him. The deceased man was unemployed for some time. Before coming to the district he had been employed in Belfast in the bookmaking business.

An inquest will be held. It is stated that death was due to heart failure.

Derry Unemployed.

DERRY, Monday.

Another meeting of the Derry unemployed was held to-day on the quayside. Mr. T. Donnelly said that the deputation to the Guardians was only the thin end of the wedge. The unemployed would not be content until they drove the wedge home to the hilt.

Later a section of the meeting, headed by banners, marched through the main streets of the city.

A crowd of women and children, accompanied by a melodeon player, marched to the Workhouse with ten young men, who demanded and were granted admission to the house.

Donegal Workers' Strike.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

STRABANE, Monday.

Exciting scenes were witnessed at Ballybofey to-day when the local branch of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union declared a strike, objection being taken to the employment of men stated to be non-union workers, rates of pay, and the employment of men from the Six Counties, where local labour was available. Donegal County Council roadmen in the area also have struck work in sympathy. The works affected were four new houses to replace ones that were destroyed by fire last January, and the erection of a new local branch of the Bank of Ireland. The contractors for the houses are:—Messrs. J. J. Robinson, Strabane, and for the bank premises Messrs. Colhoun, Derry.

The present rates of pay are 7d. per hour for labourers, and 1s. 5d. for tradesmen. The union demands 1s. 1½d. per hour for labourers and 1s. 7d. for tradesmen.

Fishing Boat Rescued.

ARKLOW, Monday.

Last night while engaged at herring fishing, an Arklow fishing boat got into difficulties between Arklow and Wicklow, and drifted in a heavy gale. The other boats had returned to port when a distress signal was observed. One of the boats immediately put out again, but it failed to reveal the whereabouts of the distressed vessel, and put back to shore

The lifeboat was launched, and after several hours' searching discovered the boat mid-way between Wicklow and Arklow, from where she was towed into Arklow.

Pilfering of Slot Machines.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

STRABANE, Monday.

At a special Court here to-day George Hannigan, of Eden terrace, Strabane, was charged, before Mr. William McDevitt, with the larceny of five packets of cigarettes and a packet of chocolate valued at sixpence from a slot machine at Strabane Railway Station. Constable Morton, Strabane, said that he was hidden on Strabane Railway Station yesterday after he had inspected the slot machine and saw that the cash till was empty. Packets of chocolates and cigarettes were marked, and when witness was hiding the accused entered the station, went to the machine, placed something in the slot and drew out some packets. Witness came out of hiding and challenged Hannigan, and when searched the constable found five of the marked packets of cigarettes and one marked packet of chocolate in his pocket. Forty caps of mineral water bottles, flattened out and made to fit the slot, were also found on the accused. These flattened out caps had the same effect as if coins had been inserted in the machine. When the slot machine was opened one cap was found in the chocolate till and eight in the cigarette till.

When arrested and charged, Hannigan said: "This is the first time. I found the caps in a field. I know the fellow that does it."

He was remanded in custody to Strabane Petty Sessions.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 18, 1932.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

There were stormy scenes when the Belfast Corporation met to discuss the recent riots.—(Page 7.)

The two young men who held up the Hibernian Bank at Inchicore received sentences at the Dublin Circuit (Criminal) Court totalling three years' penal servitude.—(Page 2.)

A meeting of Clontarf ratepayers last night adopted a resolution protesting against the exclusion of Clontarf unemployed from employment on the building of the new sea wall.—(Page 8.)

Pensions, allowances and gratuities for members of the I.R.A., Cumann na mBan and other organisations are provided for in the new bill introduced in the Dail by Mr. Frank Aiken, Free State Minister for Defence.—(Page 7.)

Arrangements have been made for the importation, free of the duties imposed by the Emergency Imposition of Duties (No. 1) Order, 1932, of all parts of bicycles and tricycles which at importation do not constitute a complete assembly.—(Page 7.)

At a meeting of unemployed men in Dublin last night it was proposed to march in procession through the city to-morrow, and to send a message to the Dail asking a Minister to receive a deputation. A deputation of workless men in Kilkenny was received by the County Council yesterday. The men demanded either work or maintenance, and more than one speaker threatened action if relief was not forthcoming.—(Page 7.)

Mr. de Valera and his ministerial colleagues returned from London to Dublin yesterday. The President will make a statement on the London negotiations in the Dail to-morrow.—(Page 7.)

At Limerick yesterday District Justice Flood resumed the hearing of the charge of manslaughter preferred against the Rev. Michael Gunning, C.C., Toomevara, County Tipperary, in connection with the death of Cornelius McNamara (19), railway porter, at Annacotty. McNamara was knocked down by a motor car.—(Page 5.)

GREAT BRITAIN.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, the British Prime Minister, was entertained at luncheon in London yesterday by the National Labour Committee.—(Page 8.)

ABROAD.

Troops had to be called to quell a serious mutiny in Portsmouth Penitentiary, Ontario.—(Page 8.)

Britain is endeavouring to persuade Germany to accept Geneva as the venue of the proposed Four-Power Conference.—(Page 7.)

SPORTING.

At Wolverhampton yesterday Promptitude won the Wyfold Handicap.—(Page 10.)

Bective Rangers played the second match of their English tour at Leicester yesterday, and were beaten by 26 points to nil.—(Page 11.)

The British Empire heavy-weight champion, Larry Gains, suffered a defeat on points from the German, Walter Neusel, at Paris last night.—(Page 11.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stock Markets had an irregular appearance, owing to profit-taking, but there were many strong spots.—(Page 3.)

Loan and discount rates were unchanged. £300,000 in gold was taken by the unknown buyer at 119/10 per oz.—(Page 3.)

The Polish Corridor.

Preparations for next month's general elections in Germany are well in hand. The many parties are marshalling their forces against polling day, and the Nazis will make a vigorous effort to secure an independent majority. Herr Hitler had the ball at his feet a few months ago, but his refusal to accept the Vice-Chancellorship of the Reich caused profound disappointment among a large section of his followers, whereas the astute conduct of the Imperial Chancellor, Herr von Papen, has created an excellent impression. The Hitlerites will be likely to lose a certain amount of ground to the orthodox Nationalists; there will be the usual dog-fight between Socialists and Communists, but in the long run the situation will be found to be little different from the situation to-day. Nevertheless, there is a growing movement towards a more aggressive Nationalism, and it is to be found in all ranks of German society. Fourteen years after the Armistice the German people are beginning to recover from their war experiences, and, like most convalescents, are chafing under the restraint that has been imposed on them. Party politics in the Reich never were more embittered than they are to-day, but a greater common measure of patriotism among the parties is asserting itself. They may fight among themselves, but they are united against the outside world; and, above all, they are united against the Poles.

Most of the present discontents in Germany may be attributed to the eastern question. Just as for forty years after Sédan the eyes of France were fixed on her lost Provinces of Alsace-Lorraine, so the eyes of renascent Germany are fixed to-day on her eastern frontiers. The long account with France for the moment is closed. Most sensible Germans realise that Bismarck's annexation of Alsace and Lorraine was a blunder. At Locarno, for better or for worse, the late Gustav Stresemann consented to guarantee the existing position in the West; and, although some of the fire-brands would like to march on Strassburg in the morning, the German people, as a whole, is inclined to ratify his verdict. No German, however, will accept the eastern position as final. At Locarno strong efforts were made to persuade Dr. Stresemann to include the Polish frontiers in his guarantee; but he refused resolutely to commit himself. No German Government that made the slightest concession in respect of Poland would remain in office for twenty-four hours; for the corridor solution, with the consequent isolation of East Prussia, the cradle of Junkerdom, is felt to be grossly unjust. However Germans may differ on other points, they are at one in this respect. The Polish corridor is a festering sore. So long as it remains there can be no real peace in Europe.

President Wilson, in his effort to give practical effect to his Fourteen Points, over-stepped the mark in North-Eastern Europe. Bismarck's blunder was repeated with a vengeance; for territories that historically, economically and ethnographically were German were handed over to the new Polish Republic. The corridor was bad enough, but the Upper Silesian decision was an even worse matter. Towns such as Kattowitz, which voted almost ninety per cent. German in the plebiscite, were awarded to the Poles. A frontier was drawn which pleased nobody, and all hope of a rapprochement between Germans and Poles was destroyed. German policy, to a very large extent, is governed by eastern conditions. So long as France supports Poland nothing can be done, because France enjoys a military hegemony in Europe. If, however, Germany could induce France to stand aside, a very different position would arise; for no other Power has much sympathy with the Poles. At the moment, of course, there seems to be no chance of a Franco-German understanding; but in international politics nothing is fixed. To-day's friend may be to-morrow's enemy, and, if Germany could offer an adequate inducement to the French, they would cheerfully leave Poland in the lurch. A solution of some kind must be found; for, if it is not found, there will be a war between Germany and Poland. That is the outstanding certainty of European politics to-day.

Officials of the League.

Yesterday M. Joseph Avenol was appointed Secretary-General of the League of Nations, in succession to Sir Eric Drummond. There is no doubt that the new Secretary-General will fulfil his duties to the satisfaction of everybody: he has been Deputy Secretary-General for nine years, and must be thoroughly familiar with the routine. Nevertheless, it is an open secret that the question of a successor to Sir Eric Drummond has urged a larger question—that of League appointments generally—into a not wholly favourable limelight. In the first place, there are too many high offices. As well as the Secretary-General there have been hitherto a Deputy Secretary-General and no fewer than three Under-Secretaries. The Times observes that the Secretariat could be administered adequately by the Secretary-General and his Deputy, and that the continuance of three highly-paid offices, with little work attached to them, is dictated not by the needs of an international civil service, but by the exigencies of national amour propre. Every Great Power expects to be represented among the high officials. This year, however, the smaller Powers demanded that a post should be allotted to them, and gained the Deputy Secretary-Generalship. Thus Italy was left without a post, and the League's solution of the difficulty was to create a second Deputy Secretary-Generalship, with comfortable emoluments. The situation thereby has become almost humorous. Another anomaly to which M. Avenol's appointment has called attention is the preponderance of Frenchmen in the higher offices. French nationals now occupy the Secretary-Generalship, the Directorate of Information and the Directorate of Communications and Transit, and this fact has caused a certain amount of disquiet in certain nations—particularly in Germany. At present the League is considering a new principle—that no more than two of the higher posts shall be held by persons of the same nationality. The French demand that this principle shall not apply to the present contracts; the Germans hold that it must be put into operation at once. Whether the dispute has been resolved is not yet known, but there is little likelihood that Germany will gain her point; for France's hold upon the League of Nations is too secure. Geneva is being converted with speed into a bureau of the Quai d'Orsay.

Better Public-Houses.

Mr. Thomas Skurray, a vice-president of the Brewers' Society, is a practical idealist. In the monthly Bulletin of the Fellowship of Freedom and Reform he unfolds his views on the improved public-house. They are so idyllic—yet so plausible—that they may convert even the sternest advocate of prohibition. Mr. Skurray deprecates the present tendency to combine eating with drinking in the public-houses; and here his unselfish concern is for the sanctity of the home. "The home," he says, "is the proper place for the man to have his supper with his family. Very cheap and attractive meals elsewhere might lead him into habits which would be the reverse of domestic." A man will safeguard his domesticity if he reserves the public-house for beer and friendly intercourse. Moreover, the reformed public-house of the future will offer no terrors to good wives. Mr. Skurray bases high hopes on that change of social habits which is manifest in all classes of the people. A new conception of the licensed house is being evolved in Great Britain, and is bringing already a new type of licensee. "The old figure of 'mine host' is returning in a slimmer and more attractive form." Drunkenness has ceased to be a national vice, and the management of an improved public-house will become congenial to young married couples. In another generation permitted hours for the sale of intoxicants may cease to be necessary, and it is probable that many of the present regulations will be revised or withdrawn. "A licensed house," Mr. Skurray concludes, with an infectious enthusiasm, "will stand high in the esteem of the people, and the publican . . . will hold up his head as a member of an indispensable and honourable profession." Since man never will cease to be a gregarious and a drinking animal, this is a cheerful prediction; and, indeed, there are numerous signs of reform in England. Unhappily, a walk through the back-streets of Dublin or through any Irish village will convince us that spring comes slowly up this way. Public-house drinking remains, on the whole, a squalid affair in Ireland.

Pig Products.

The British Government's promises to help the domestic farmer are beginning to take shape. A scheme has been formulated whereby the British bacon industry will be reorganised and expanded at the expense of foreign exporters. It is the result of six months' researches by the Pig Commission, which was constituted under the Agricultural Marketing Act. The scheme falls into two parts. In the first place, it provides a new system of marketing that will ensure to the British breeder a price for his pigs, based upon their quality and upon the cost of production. In the second place, it recommends a gradual restriction of imports of bacon, ham, pork and other pig products from foreign countries. The Dominions, at the same time, will be granted gradually expanding quotas. In process of time, if the scheme works properly, Britain's entire demand for pig products will be satisfied by her own farmers and by the Dominions. It is hoped that a large share of her needs will be provided by the domestic farmers, whose market for the first few years will be secured by the limitation of foreign imports. Canada and New Zealand cannot supply all the deficiency; for, by the Ottawa agreements, they are permitted to export to England only up to a certain quota. Apparently, therefore, before the British farmer gets into his stride, Britain must take imports from foreign countries—but those countries will be working at a distinct disadvantage. If the Free State had played her cards well, she would be sending her pig products to England on the same terms which Canada and New Zealand will enjoy—if not, indeed, on more favourable terms. How far the facts will fall short of this possibility only time will tell.

TO-DAY IN THE COMMONS.

MR. THOMAS AND THE NEGOTIATIONS.

CHANCELLOR'S OTTAWA STATEMENT.

IN the House of Commons to-day, says the Press Association Lobby Correspondent, a statement will be made by Mr. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions, on the failure of the Irish negotiations, and a start will be made with the legislative business arising out of the Ottawa agreements.

Mr. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, will make the Ottawa statement in Committee of Ways and Means, and will explain the financial resolutions which must be passed as a preliminary to the introduction of the Ottawa Bill. The resolutions will deal with the new duties, and the variations in existing duties, agreed upon at Ottawa.

The Chancellor is expected to announce the intentions of the Government regarding the application of preference to Irish Free State imports under the Import Duties Act. As matters stand at present, the exemption of Irish Free State goods from the general tariff of 10 per cent. under that Act will expire on November 15. All Dominion imports were given the right of free entry by the Act up to November 15. In all the agreements made at Ottawa the British Government undertook the continue the "free entry" preference after November 15, but, as no agreement was entered into with the Irish Free State, the British Government is not obliged to extend this concession to Free State goods.

There is at present a "special" Customs duty of 20 per cent. on Irish Free State imports for the purpose of making good to the British Exchequer the sum of about £5,000,000 a year which the Irish Free State Government is withholding. After November 15 next an additional duty of 10 per cent. will fall on all Free State imports of the class now dutiable under the Import Duties Act when imported from foreign countries, unless the Government asks Parliament to continue the existing preference.

During the next few weeks time will be found for Parliamentary debates on unemployment and disarmament.

The Labour Opposition intends to challenge the Government on both these issues by tabling votes of censure. The Prime Minister indicated in his speech yesterday that when opportunity offers he intends to make a statement on the disarmament question.

A Government statement is also promised on the means test in relation to transitional benefit, the Government already having entered upon the consideration of this problem without waiting any longer for the report of the Royal Commission on Unemployment Insurance.

"MAID OF THE MOUNTAINS."

REVIVAL AT GAIETY THEATRE.

There was so much of old times in the atmosphere of the Gaiety Theatre last night, when the house was filled with people sensitive in a peculiar measure to every move of the work on the stage that one might almost have thought that the hands of the clock had slipped back a decade. That was how many must have felt when the curtain rose on the musical comedy, "Maid of the Mountains," which, after the lapse of quite a number of years, has been revived and promises to have another long lease of life. Even after so long an interval, the play is splendid entertainment. Those jolly mountain robbers quite swept us away in a fellow-feeling with their jolly opening chorus, and with Beppo's merry song, "Live for to-day." One felt sad at the break-up of such a band of gay buccaneers. Then there was the affecting position in which Teresa, Maid of the Mountain, found herself—in love with the chief of the band, only to see him fall under the spell of the Governor's daughter. How the old story came back, reviving pleasant memories, and, of course, the inevitable comparisons. There was the critical sitting back to listen to Teresa's two big numbers, "Farewell" and "Love will find a way"; and it was delightful to find the two of them so very beautifully sung. There is plenty of power behind Miss Dorothy Langley's singing, but she very wisely depends for her biggest success on perfect control of her mezzo singing in the upper register. Her singing of "Love will find a way," with harp accompaniment, last night was a perfect piece of work. She gave a capital study of the part of Teresa

Robert Woollard was the Baldassare, and he filled the bill admirably, there being a fine, rich warmth in his speaking voice, which made one regret that he—like his predecessors in this part—had not been given something to sing. That was always one of the little touches about this musical comedy that made it different from others—the principal character in a musical show having nothing to sing. It was interesting to hear J. Fareligh Price, a tenor with rather a striking voice, in the part of Beppo, usually associated with a big baritone, but he carried the character quite well.

George Carney carried the greater portion of the comedy, and he made full use of his opportunities His duet with Teresa in the closing act, "When you're in love," was a great bit of fun-making. And then, to make up a capital band of principals, there are Edward D'Arcy and Helene Leal, as Tonio and Vittoria, the married pair, who have been separated for five years and find themselves in such a strange way.

As one expects from a production by MacDonald and Young, the staging and dressing are excellent, and the lighting effects are splendid—particularly the setting for the last act.

It is a production that should bring big crowds to the Gaiety Theatre during the week.

GOVERNOR-GENERAL OF FREE STATE

TO RELINQUISH OFFICE ON NOVEMBER 1.

Mr. McNeill, Governor-General of the Irish Free State, will formally relinquish his office on November 1 next.

It is probable that a few days before that date Mr. McNeill will vacate the Viceregal Lodge. His house in Dundrum has already been made ready for occupation.

INDIA AND BRITISH COTTON.

AGREEMENT OF BOMBAY BROKERS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BOMBAY, Monday.

The picketing by Congress volunteers of the cotton market here, which had seriously interrupted business for nearly a fortnight, is likely to be called off as the result of a settlement which was reached to-night between the British and Indian brokers.

The terms of settlement included, among other things, an expression of sympathy on the part of British brokers for Indian Nationalist aspirations.

The East India Cotton Association, which is representative of the Indian cotton trade, passed a resolution on October 6th last urging the raising of the boycott of European cotton, which, at the instigation of Congress, had been in force for the past nine months. An immediate resumption of free trading, however, was prevented by the action of Congress volunteers, who proceeded to picket the Exchange, and have succeeded in impeding business ever since.

A serious fire which broke out in the Grand Hotel at Cap Martin, a resort near Monte Carlo, destroyed the whole of the fifth storey of the hotel

LONDON LETTER.

UNEMPLOYMENT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

The latest unemployment returns reveal signs of improving trade in thirteen English and six Welsh counties. London remains supreme as the "prosperity area" with only 10.8 per cent. of unemployed. No fewer than nine of the London boroughs show that over 90 per cent. of workers on the registers are employed. Wandsworth, with 120,000 workers, had only 6.5 per cent. idle last month. London, with a population of about 2,350,000 insured persons, had 12.8 per cent. The unemployed counties showing improved conditions include Berkshire, Buckinghamshire, Cheshire, Cumberland, Durham, Hereford, Leicester, Northumberland, Oxford, Stafford and Worcester. In many districts all over the country there are slight decreases in the number of unemployed. The places where unemployment appears to be most rampant are Poplar and Bermondsey, each with 17 per cent. of its workers unemployed.

Canada and the Empire.

The Canadian Parliament this week will consider and ratify the inter-Empire pacts, which certainly will be passed within three weeks. The Government commands a majority that will ensure the passing of the resolution as introduced into Parliament without any amendments. Opposition criticisms are likely to be based on the advocacy of still lower tariffs. The prospective general effect of the trade changes resulting from the new tariff schedules is that Empire countries will gain Canadian import trade at the expense of the United States, which may lose something like 750,000,000 dollars—notably in iron and steel and textile and chemical products.

In spite of their important bearing on the future of Canadian trade with the Empire, the changes announced by Mr. Bennett, the Prime Minister, so far have had apparently little effect on the prices of the stocks of most of the industries concerned. General comment after a further detailed study of the agreements has been commendatory. On the whole, the consensus of opinion is that there will be an increase of trade with the Empire, and, owing to a general revival in business, with the rest of the world. There has been no particular complaint from any industry in Canada concerning the higher preferences granted to Great Britain.

Railwaymen's Wages.

Trouble in the railway world is not improbable before long. The workers show a decided disinclination to accept any further wage reductions, and in this stand they are getting the support of their leaders. The undisputed fact that railway traffic receipts continue to decline appears to have no effect on the minds of the railwaymen, and it is suggested on their behalf that, if economies on the lines are useless, the railway capital ought to be written down until it is low enough to secure dividends again. The whole question, however, must be submitted to the National Wages Board—a matter which will occupy some weeks.

Disarmament and the Churches.

The Prime Minister has consented to receive a deputation of leaders of the various Churches on the subject of disarmament. The deputation will be led by the Archbishops of Canterbury and York, and will include Dr. Scott Lidgett, President of the Methodist Church, and Dr. F. W. Norwood, of the City Temple. The deputation, which has been organised by the League of Nations Union, will go to Downing street on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. It is proposed to ask Mr. Macdonald if he will consider proposals to recognise the German demand for equality of status in the disarmament negotiations, thus ensuring the co-operation of Germany in any further conferences of a similar character.

The Cape Town Station.

British equipment will be used for the new South African wireless station, which will be of considerably higher power than the present installation at Cape Town, which it will replace. The transmitting equipment masts and aerials of the new station will be at Milnerton, about fifteen miles north of Cape Town, but the studios will be situated in the centre of the town, as they are at present. The apparatus for the new station will be built at the Marconi works at Chelmsford, in Essex, and it is expected to be in operation by the early summer of next year.

Over Everest.

The Marquess of Clydesdale's projected flight round Mount Everest is arousing general interest, since it is an undertaking of considerable danger. The flight has been financed by Lady Houston, and the organisers have secured the Vickers-Vespa machine used by Captain Uwins recently when he achieved the world's "record" altitude flight of 43,896ft. Mount Everest is just over 29,000ft. high, so that the machine's climbing power ought to meet all demands. Yet there is very considerable danger from the terrible updraughts of wind and other atmospheric troubles incidental to the nature of the mountain, with its glaciers and ravines. The base of the expedition will be at the Royal Air Force aerodrome at Purnea, some 160 miles distant from the mountain, and the permission of the Maharajah of Nepal must be sought before the aeroplane can cross his country. Thibet also will be crossed, but it would be useless to seek for permission in this case. A complete film of the flight will be made if possible.

Cruising in Australasia.

The remarkable change in holiday habits, indicated by the growing popularity of cruising, is not confined to Great Britain; for several other countries are taking up the idea with very promising results. According to news from Sydney, a few hours after it was announced that the liner Straithaird would make a six days' Christmas cruise to Norfolk Island, all the available accommodation had been booked. This cruise will be the first of its kind to take place in Australia, but, doubtless, it will be followed by others.

An "Elixir of Life."

An "elixir of life" which, as it is claimed, will reduce a man's or a woman's age by ten years, and is said to reduce weight permanently, has been found. It is the invention of an Italian doctor, and is composed of solutions of gold, platinum and palladium (a rare metal), brain extract, iodine, phosphorus, formic acid and other materials. The preparation took twenty years of research to complete, is said to have been supplied recently to some of the richest people in the world, and is described as "the nearest that modern science can approach to the elixir of life." This, and many other developments of modern chemical and medical research, were on show at the London Medical Exhibition at the new Horticultural Hall, Westminster, to-day. Only doctors are admitted to the exhibition. Among the exhibits is a portable "wireless set" for the deaf. It is a little black bag like a miniature attaché case, and contains a microphone, the sound from which can be regulated by a knob similar to those on most wireless sets. A receiver placed to the deaf person's ear enables sound a quarter of a mile distant to be heard plainly. It will pick up the slightest whisper, and will magnify it to a shout.

The cost of living in Great Britain rose 2 per cent. during September. On October 1 it was approximately 43 per cent. above the level of July, 1914, as compared with 41 per cent. a month earlier and 45 per cent. a year earlier.

PENSIONS FOR MEMBERS OF I.R.A.

OUTLINE OF MR. AIKEN'S PROPOSALS.

QUALIFICATIONS AS TO "MILITARY SERVICE."

EVADING CAPTURE BY FREE STATE FORCES.

WOUND pensions, allowances and gratuities for members of the I.R.A., Cumann na mBan and other organisations will be a feature of the new bill introduced in the Dail by Mr. Frank Aiken, Free State Minister for Defence.

The bill is intended to amend the Army Pensions Acts of 1923 and 1927, and to include organisations and persons not mentioned in those Acts.

It will include persons who have had "pre-truce" and "post-truce" military service. The definition of such "service" is wide. It includes persons wounded while endeavouring to elude capture by British, Free State or Northern Ireland forces, and also persons who were in prison, on internment ship or in internment camp.

The periods of services are divided into the pre-truce period, 1916 to 1921, and the post-truce period of 1921 to 1923, when the civil war ended.

SURPRISING PROVISIONS.

By Our Political Correspondent.

The new Army Pensions Bill which was introduced in the Dail before it rose for the recess will come up for second reading very early in the session which opens to-morrow.

It will include some unexpected provisions, and is certain to provoke lively discussion.

It is intended to apply the Pensions Acts of 1923 and 1927 to members of the Irish Republican Army,

Irish Volunteers,
Fianna Eireann,
Hibernian Rifles, and
Cumann na mBan.

Any member of these organisations will be deemed to have been on "military service" if he or she was on duty as a member of any of the named organisations, or was arrested as a result of activities of membership, or was evading capture or pursuit by armed forces of the British Government, the Government of the Free State, the Provisional Government, or the Government of Northern Ireland. Also, if such member were detained in any prison, ship or internment camp by order of any of the Governments mentioned he or she will be deemed to have been on "military service."

"Pre-truce" military service will date from 1st April, 1916, till July 11, 1921, and "post-truce service" from 12th July, 1921, till 30th September, 1923. The definition "killed" will include death from hunger strike in prison, and death by violence while a prisoner.

REGISTRATION BOARD.

The bill will provide for the setting up of a Registration Board consisting of three persons, to be appointed by the Minister for Defence. The Minister will designate the Chairman. Members of the Board will receive remuneration. They will be empowered to call witnesses and take evidence on oath.

It will be the duty of the Registration Board to ascertain and certify to the Minister in respect of applicants—

(a) whether such person was a member of any and, if so, which of the said organisations, and

(b) whether such person was engaged in military service and, if so, the prescribed particulars of such service, and

(c) whether such person received a wound while engaged in military service and, if so, the prescribed particulars of such wound and, if such person is dead, the date of his death, and

(d) whether such person contracted any disease during his military service and, if so, the prescribed particulars of such disease and, if such person is dead, the date of his death, and

(e) if such person is dead, whether he was killed while engaged in military service and, if so, the prescribed particulars of the circumstances of his death, and

(f) such other particulars in respect of such person as the Minister may request the Registration Board to ascertain and certify.

DISABILITY RATES.

In the event of the applicant being found to come within the requirements of the Act, pensions will be granted at the following rates:—

Degree of Disablement. Per cent.	Disablement Pension. Per annum.	Married Pension. Per week. s. d.
80	£120	9 0
60	£90	6 9
40	£60	4 6

ALLOWANCES FOR DEPENDENTS.

Section 12 empowers the Minister in the case of death to grant allowances and gratuities to dependents as follows:—

1. Widow—£67 10s. per annum during widowhood, and a gratuity of £90 on first re-marriage.

2. Each son under the age of 18 (a) while mother is living, £18 per annum; (b) after death of mother, £30 per annum.

3. Each unmarried daughter under the age of 21 (a) while mother is living, £18 per annum; (b) after death of mother, £30 per annum.

4. Each child of or over the age of 12 and under the age of 18—Repayment of amount proved to have been in fact necessarily and properly expended in educational fees, but not exceeding £26 in any one calendar year.

5. (a) Mother; (b) father over 60 years of age or incapacitated by ill-health; (c) permanently invalided brother or permanently invalided unmarried sister; (d) grandparents—One allowance at the rate of 15s. per week. If there are two more such dependants, only one allowance shall be payable to such one of the dependants as the Minister for Defence shall direct.

6. Each brother under the age of 18, and each unmarried sister under the age of 21—An allowance of 5s. per week, but the total allowances under this section shall not in the case of any deceased person exceed 15s. per week, and no allowance shall be payable under this section in any case in which any allowance is payable under any of the foregoing sections.

BAN ON APPLICANTS.

No person who applied for and was refused a pension under the Acts of 1923 and 1927 will be entitled to apply for a pension under the new bill.

Provision is made for the revision of awards made under the Act of 1923, and the Minister may reconsider such allowance, and, if he thinks fit, reduce or terminate it.

Sections 23 and 24 refer to the finality of awards under previous Acts and permit re-opening of certain cases for revision.

A number of amendments in the schedules of the Acts of 1923 and 1927 are proposed. These refer to the cases of women in receipt of allowances who have married or whose circumstances may have altered; also to the cases of children and other dependents.

With regard to the scope of the new bill, it is of interest to recall that the Act of 1923 was intended "to provide for the payment of wound pensions to wounded members of Oglaigh na hEireann, including the Army and the Irish Volunteers, and also of the Irish Citizen Army, 1916, and for the payment of allowances and gratuities to the widows, children and dependents of deceased members of Oglaigh na hEireann, including the Army and the Irish Volunteers, and also of the Irish Citizen Army, 1916, and for other purposes connected therewith."

FLIGHT TO BERLIN.

COLONEL RUSSELL'S VENTURE.

Colonel C. F. Russell appeared before the Dublin Rotary Club at its weekly meeting yesterday to ask the support of all Rotarians for his project of establishing an air link between Ireland and the Continent of Europe.

On a former occasion when he addressed this club Colonel Russell made out a good case for developing commercial aviation in Ireland. Since then, he said, good progress had been made.

He then intimated that he proposed to fly in a passenger aeroplane from Dublin to Berlin next Saturday morning, his intention being to return on the following day.

That flight, he said, had been made possible by subscriptions to the amount of £600 which he had received. Very little more was required for the project which he was bringing to their notice, and he hoped that the balance would be forthcoming so that the promoters might be able to demonstrate the possibility of operating such a service. He thought that the flight should do a lot of good. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. Jones suggested that the president should be taken as a passenger, whereas the president suggested, amid laughter, that Mr. Jones should go.

RUMANIAN CABINET RESIGNS.

CRISIS OVER PACT WITH SOVIET.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BUKHAREST, Monday.

Dr. Vaida Voevod, the Prime Minister, presented the resignation of his Government to King Carol at the Royal Palace at Sinaia this afternoon.

Coming out at five o'clock this evening from his audience with the King, Dr. Vaida Voevod stated that his resignation had been accepted, and that the King had charged him with the conduct of current affairs until the new Government was appointed.

King Carol began his consultations for the formation of the new Cabinet this evening. Sinaia itself is humming with activity among the numerous politicians, who are camped there like a besieging army.

M. Mihalake, a former Minister of the Interior, had an audience with the King, during which he recommended the constitution of a Cabinet under Dr. Iuliu Maniu, leader of the Peasants' Party, as the sole solution of the present crisis.

M. Maniu was subsequently invited to go to Sinaia to see the King, and it is expected that he will be received by His Majesty to-morrow morning.

The resignation of the Rumanian Government has been brought about by differences of opinion between Dr. Vaida Voevod and M. Titulescu, until recently Rumanian Minister in London, over the proposed pact of non-aggression with Russia. M. Titulescu had accepted the post of Foreign Minister, formerly held by the Premier, but it is understood that certain declarations made by M. Titulescu in Paris last week were so unacceptable to the Premier that collaboration was impossible.

BRITAIN PRESSES GERMANY.

VENUE OF FOUR-POWER CONFERENCE.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BERLIN, Monday.

The British Government is continuing its effort to bring about a Four-Power Conference on Germany's equality claim.

Mr. B. C. Newton, the Chargé d'Affaires, called at the German Foreign Office to-day, and stressed that it was Great Britain's desire that a conference should take place as speedily as possible, and urged that Germany should accept Geneva as the venue on which France insisted.

It is understood that Baron von Neurath, the Foreign Minister, replied that Germany must maintain her refusal to accept Geneva for the reasons already stated, but that she was very willing to participate in a conference held at any other centre.

FREE STATE'S WORKLESS.

PROPOSED DUBLIN MARCH.

KILKENNY MEN'S DEMANDS.

A MEETING of unemployed men was held yesterday at the Foresters' Hall, Parnell square, Dublin, to consult regarding to-morrow's projected march through Dublin.

According to the present plan the procession will be formed at Cathal Brugha street at 2.30, and will march through the streets to Merrion square. At Merrion Hall a halt will be made, and a messenger will be sent to Leinster House with a request that Mr. W. Norton, leader of the Labour Party, shall introduce a deputation from the workless men to a Minister, who may consent to hear their claims.

The demonstrators, it is stated, aim at getting work or increased scales of maintenance for all workless people.

THE LORD MAYOR'S EFFORTS.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin, since his return from the South of England, has been in daily conference with the City Manager and the heads of the various municipal departments, with a view to speeding up relief schemes, in order to provide reproductive and useful work for the able-bodied unemployed.

The Lord Mayor and the City Manager desire to open up every possible means of reducing unemployment, in order to mitigate the distress of the winter months.

It is hoped that some acceptable plans may be devised, for which the necessary finances will be forthcoming.

DEMONSTRATION AT KILKENNY.

LIVELY SCENES AT COUNCIL MEETING.

KILKENNY, Monday.

Civic Guards were on duty to-day at the entrance to Kilkenny Courthouse, where some hundreds of unemployed men assembled, and claimed the right to be admitted to a meeting of the County Council. Before assembling at the Courthouse the men marched through the city, carrying placards, inscribed "Work or Maintenance"; "Bankers Flourish, Workers Starve"; "We Want Work, Not Charity"; "Workers Starve in the Midst of Plenty."

In response to a request from the men it was proposed that the Council should hear a deputation, and that a limited number of men should be admitted to the public gallery.

Mr. Patrick Walsh, chairman of the Unemployed Able-Bodied Men's Association, inquired who was responsible for keeping the men from coming into the Courthouse.

Mr. Brophy, a member of the Council, said—You have no right to address the Council

Mr. Walsh—I asked permission from the Chairman to speak. You are not Chairman, and never will be.

Mr. Brophy—Who is this gentleman?

Mr. Walsh—What does it matter to you who I am?

Mr. Farrell, secretary of the men's organisation, stated that a deputation would not come in unless all the men were admitted.

Mr. Walsh—Has the Council anything to hide from the workers? Some of them have, such as Mr. Brophy.

Mr. Brophy—You lie, sir. I ask that this man be called on to apologise for insulting me.

Mr. Walsh—It would be impossible to insult you.

Mr. Brophy—It is in Hyde Park you ought to be, where you were before.

It was then decided that, in addition to the deputation, a limited number of the men should be admitted. The public gallery was rapidly filled up, and, while there was some noise during the proceedings, the men were comparatively quiet.

The deputation stated the men's case. One speaker alleged that the conditions governing relief grants were not being complied with, that employment did not rotate, but was confined to a certain section of men all the time. Another member of the deputation declared that there was unfair discrimination, and that men would not get employment unless they lived in a certain area, belonged to a certain religious organisation in the city, and went to a certain church on Sundays.

A Voice—It is work we want; body first, church after.

THREAT OF ACTION.

Another member of the deputation said that he had fought under three flags, and to-day he had to beg for his living. He added that they were not interested in politics, and that the workers were simply the tools of politicians in the past. If we don't get a living one way, he declared, we will get it another way.

The spokesman of the deputation alleged that there was swindling in the method of employing men.

Another speaker said: We get plenty of sympathy, but that won't feed our wives and children.

When Mr. Sean Gibbons, T.D., chairman of the Council, stated that the case put forward by the men would be considered, a member of the deputation said: It will have to be; if not, there will be something else doing.

Another member of the deputation exclaimed: We might as well die fighting. We will have to get food some place. It will cost them £2 a week to keep us in jail, any way.

The Council referred the statements put forward on behalf of the men to a committee for consideration.

CORK CONFERENCE.

MR. ANTHONY'S ADVICE.

Mr. T. J. O'Brien, President of the Cork Unemployed Able-bodied Men's Association, spoke at a conference last night between the association executive and the Cork Corporation and the local members of the Dail. He said that he was a good Catholic and did not want any Bolshevist methods in this country, but unless something was done to relieve the present desperate situation, he would not be responsible for what the unemployed might do.

Mr. R. S. Anthony, T.D., said that, while he recognised that hungry men, with hungry wives and children, might become desperate, he wished with all his heart to impress upon the unemployed that if there was any civil commotion they and their wives would suffer most in conflict with the armed forces, or police, of the country. There was no immediate remedy for the terrible situation, and any further taxation which would increase rates on employers would further harm, instead of helping, the unemployed. He advocated an extension of the insurance contributions as the only reasonable method of dealing with the situation at present.

Mr. V. Monahan, City Manager, Cork, said that the difficulty at present was to find works to spend money on, even if the money was available. His strong opinion was that home assistance should be increased, as the money went straight to the homes, whereas on public works a lot of the money went on material and actually left the country. An extension of the unemployment insurance could be given immediate legislative effect.

The meeting went into committee to devise ways and means of relieving the situation.

Emergency Duties Lifted.

CYCLE PARTS TO COME IN FREE OF DUTY.

THE Free State Ministry of Industry and Commerce yesterday intimated to the leading importers of bicycles in the Free State that arrangements had been made for the importation, free of the duties imposed by the Emergency Imposition of Duties (No. 1) Order, 1932, of all parts of bicycles and tricycles which at importation do not constitute a complete assembly.

The 20 per cent. duty imposed by this Order brought the assembly of cycles in the Free State to a complete stand-still, and the many assembly dépôts which had been established in the country were compelled to dismiss the staffs which they had recruited. Under the Budget of this year a duty of 37½ per cent. was imposed on bicycles, but parts that were not substantially assembled were admitted free of duty.

The new duty was admittedly not imposed for revenue purposes, but with the object of compelling the manufacturers of bicycles to assemble them in the Free State.

TRADE PLEASED.

The leading English manufacturers accepted the position, and, with men from the manufacturing centres to fill the key positions and with local labour, the work of erecting bicycles in the Free State was begun. By the middle of July most of the English manufacturers had their assembly plants in working order, and were able to offer machines to the retailers at prices that were little in advance of those ruling in the Free State before the Budget.

The 20 per cent. emergency duty on steel and iron resulted in wholesale dismissals from the assembly dépôts, and the manufacturers represented to the Government that they could not continue to assemble machines in Ireland as long as the duty remained in operation.

The news of the withdrawal of the duty has given great satisfaction to the trade, and arrangements for resuming work already have been made in many dépôts. While the bicycle has ceased to be an instrument for fair weather use, sales are more or less seasonal, and such work as may be done during the next few months will be in preparation for next season's sales.

It should be pointed out that completely assembled bicycles will continue to be liable to the 20 per cent. emergency duty and also to the import duty of 37½ per cent.

CHILDREN'S FOOTWEAR.

The Customs duty exemption in favour of imported shaped soles, heels and uppers for footwear of children of any size from 7 to 1 (inclusive) terminates on the 23rd inst. However, the exemption in favour of infants' boots and shoes of any size from 0 to 6 (inclusive) and shaped soles, heels and uppers intended for wear by children, and of any size from 0 to 6 (inclusive), will continue.

GERMAN CABINET SPLIT.

CIVIL WAR TO RESOLVE SITUATION?

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BERLIN, Monday.

While official circles are doing everything to maintain that the present Government of the Reich excels all its predecessors by its unanimity on all home and foreign political questions, it is becoming increasingly manifest that Herr von Papen's economic programme has carried dissension into the ranks of the Cabinet.

Herr von Braun, the Minister of Food and Agriculture, is fighting for his import restriction programme, which, despite all official denials, is bitterly opposed by Herr Warmbold, the Minister of Economics; and the latter has found a staunch supporter in the person of the Reichsbank President, Dr. Luther, who has recognised that Germany cannot afford to have the whole world against her for the sake of a handful of "Junkers."

Chancellor von Papen, determined to avert an open Cabinet crisis before the elections, is delaying a decision on the import restriction programme. All he has been willing to concede to his colleague, von Braun, has been his approval of sending out a commission of experts to sound foreign Governments and to come to terms with them.

This Commission has come to some understanding with Belgium, has met with a cold shoulder in Holland, and was obliged to alter its travelling route precipitately in order to patch over differences which arose with the Italian Government.

There is no doubt that the Government's import restriction programme, if ever carried into effect, will be done so only in a greatly "diluted" form, and will satisfy neither Herr von Braun nor his Junkers.

That Dr. Luther is no longer persona grata with the Junkers can be seen from their Press, which is clamouring for his head; but the Reichsbank President, who has the full support of trade and industry, is not yielding to pressure.

The weeks after the election will certainly be fraught with danger, not only for the Cabinet, but for Germany in general.

The opposition to the Cabinet and its home and foreign political stand is growing, especially in Radical circles, which have taken up the challenge of the Press. Some even declare that the inner political imbroglio can only be solved by a coup d'état and civil war.

LATE NEWS.

M.C.C. TEAM REACHES AUSTRALIA.

From the Press Association's Special Correspondent.

FREMANTLE, Tuesday.

The M.C.C. team arrived here at 8 a.m., and were welcomed by a large crowd on the wharfside.

The crew of H.M.A.S. Canberra lined the cruiser, and cheered lustily as the Orontes steamed into harbour. The western gateway to Australia, Fremantle is a busy port, twelve miles from Perth, where the M.C.C. open the tour with a three-day match against Western Australia on Friday.

AN ALL-NIGHT SITTING.

Mr. G. A. Hartland, Conservative M.P. for Norwich, arrived at the House of Commons last night at 8.30 in readiness for the re-assembly of the House to-day. At one o'clock six other members had arrived.

TWENTY-FOUR KILLED.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BUCHAREST, Monday.

Twenty-four people were killed and seven seriously injured in a train smash at Temishcara.

TO-MORROW IN THE DAIL.

THE LONDON FAILURE.

MR. DE VALERA TO SPEAK.

STATEMENT EAGERLY AWAITED.

By Our Political Correspondent.

THE Free State Executive Council met yesterday afternoon for several hours, when, it is understood, the President discussed with Ministers the negotiations in London.

Public interest is greatly aroused as to the statement which Mr. de Valera will make to the Dail to-morrow. Various rumours have been afloat as to the steps which may be taken following the failure to reach agreement on the financial dispute.

Speculation in this respect must necessarily be limited, especially as the situation may be materially affected by the statement to be made in the House of Commons to-day on behalf of the British Government.

A great many applications have been made for permits for the public gallery in the Dail to-morrow, but only a small proportion could be granted.

THE PRESIDENT'S RETURN.

INTERVIEW AT DUN LAOGHAIRE.

Mr. de Valera, President of the Free State Executive Council, and the Ministers who accompanied him to the abortive conference in London, returned to Dublin yesterday morning.

Mr. de Valera, when interviewed by an Irish Times reporter on board the steamer at Dun Laoghaire, said: "There is nothing that can usefully be said at the moment. I will make a statement probably in the Dail on Wednesday."

In reply to a question whether in his statement he would trace the course of the negotiations at any length, Mr. de Valera would not commit himself. Documents, he added, would be published later on; but he would not say whether these documents would be copies of the letters which are presumed to have passed between the two Governments before the negotiations were opened.

With regard to English newspaper reports that he was hurrying back to the Free State to declare a Republic, Mr. de Valera said that the election mandate which the Government Party got set out the extent to which the party would go, acting strictly within that mandate, and newspaper articles which ascribed to him any other intention might be discredited immediately and forthwith.

THE RECEPTION.

At Dun Laoghaire the President, accompanied by Mr. Sean MacEntee, Minister for Finance; Mr. James Geoghegan, Minister for Justice; Mr. Conor Maguire, Attorney-General, and officials of several departments, came on deck at about 7.30 a.m. He was met by Senator Seamus Ryan, Mr. Ralph Lynch, Mr. P. Morrisey, Mr. F. Hughes and Miss Hughes, all of whom are connected with the Fianna Fail organisations in Dublin.

Afterwards Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, the Vice-President; Mr. T. Derrig, Minister for Education, and Mr. F. Aiken, Minister for Defence, came on board and welcomed Mr. de Valera and other members of the party.

The members of the Cabinet remained in conversation on deck for over ten minutes, during which time it is probable that the President explained very briefly what had transpired in London and at what point the negotiations failed.

The sea journey from Holyhead was described as having been "very choppy." It had no ill-effects on Mr. de Valera, who was in a very amiable mood as he chatted with the group of Pressmen who awaited him.

FREE STATE CIVIL SERVICE "CUTS."

SURPRISES IN REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

It is understood that the report of the Committee on the "cuts" which may be made in the salaries of Free State civil servants has been sent to the Minister for Finance. A rumour current last night was to the effect that the report contains some surprises.

ARMISTICE DAY.

ARRANGEMENTS AS IN PREVIOUS YEARS.

The King has decided that the celebration of Armistice Day, November 11th, which this year falls on a Friday, shall follow the lines adopted in previous years.

At the Cenotaph in Whitehall shortly before 11 a.m. wreaths will be deposited by, or on behalf of, the King and other members of the Royal Family, and also by United Kingdom, Dominion and Colonial representatives.

The two minutes' silence will be observed throughout the Kingdom, and local authorities are asked to arrange for the suspension of all vehicular traffic between 11 a.m. and 11.2 a.m. Drivers of motor vehicles are specially requested to stop their engines during that period. Rail and water transport, however, will not be suspended.

The Press Association learns that the wording of the official statement is designed to cover the possibility of extremely bad weather conditions preventing the King from attending the Cenotaph ceremony in person. It is understood to be the King's intention to be present to lay his wreath if possible.

The Prince of Wales this year will attend the Armistice Day celebrations in Edinburgh.

SWING TOWARDS FASCISM.

AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT'S CHANGED POLICY.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

VIENNA, Monday.

The conflict between Nazis and the Social Democrats, which resulted yesterday in a clash in which four persons were killed and ten injured, appears likely to bring about an immediate swing to the Right in Austrian politics.

The first effects of this were seen to-day when Major Fey, the Heimwehr (Fascist) leader, was appointed to fill the vacant post of Minister of Security.

The presence of Dr. Dollfuss, the Chancellor, at the Heimwehr demonstration yesterday, and the fact that a uniformed Heimwehr procession was allowed to march through the centre of the city, in spite of the previous fighting in the factory district of Simmering, are interpreted here as confirmation of the Government's Rightward tendency.

PLIGHT OF THE RAILWAYS.

WORKERSAND ROAD HAULAGE.

PROPOSED MINISTRY OF TRANSPORT.

A DEPUTATION of the Railway Employés' Protection Association waited on the Lord Mayor of Dublin yesterday to solicit his support for the establishing of a Ministry of Transport for the control of rail and road services.

They put forward suggestions for the restriction, if not the complete abolition, of road haulage, and also the removal of many of the vexatious restrictions under which the railways have to carry on their work. The deputation further urged that the conditions of employment on road transport services should be examined and brought to a standard which will give employés and their families reasonable comfort.

The deputation was introduced by Mr. A. Davidson, and it included Messrs. Stafford, Newcombe and Mallon.

The Lord Mayor promised to give sympathetic consideration to the suggestions of the deputation.

It is understood that the railway employés intend to put their case before every member of the Dail and Senate.

DEPUTATION TO MR. KIERSEY.

In order to impress upon the public and the Government the urgency of immediate legislation to safeguard railways (says our Waterford Correspondent) the Railway Employés' Protection Association is interviewing senators and deputies throughout the country. The first of these interviews was held locally at Waterford, North, when a deputation from the Waterford branch, consisting of Messrs. Lee, Hartford, O'Leary and W. Lynch, waited on Mr. John Kiersey, T.D. A copy of a memorial presented to the Government by the Railway Employés' Protection Association last May was given to Mr. Kiersey for his consideration. The honorary secretary (Mr. Hartford) pointed out how much more pressing the problem had become since then, and the great need for immediate action on the part of the Government.

Mr. Kiersey said that, as a large shareholder and a farmer, he was deeply interested in the prosperity of the railways, and would do all in his power to convince the Government of the urgency of the problem.

Arrangements are being made to interview Messrs. Little and Goulding, the local T.D.'s, within the next few days.

FROM "THE TIMES."

"CERTAIN NEW FACTS."

In a leading article The Times observes:—When the House of Commons reassembles this afternoon it will be faced with certain new facts in politics and in policy which are the results of an eventful recess; but, as the Prime Minister declared yesterday, there is one fact which has not changed at all, and that is the fact of a national emergency serious enough to warrant the continuance of an "all-party national effort." All but a handful of members of Parliament will certainly resume their work in a spirit as firmly as ever resolved that the time has not yet come for a return to party politics. That spirit may be sorely tried by the debates on the Ottawa agreements which will conclude the present session. Ex-Ministers and their supporters might have been better advised to confine their criticism until Parliament met to their letter of resignation from the Government, and to such explanation of their action in their constituencies as the electors who voted for them as National candidates undoubtedly deserve.

Again, proceeds The Times, the recess has gone far to confirm the impression of Mr. de Valera's hopeless intransigence, and has seen some progress in the shaping of constitutional reform in India. On both of these points the House of Commons can expect further information. Lastly, to judge from a remark of Mr. Macdonald's, it appear to be the intention of the Government to challenge criticism and thus to obtain parliamentary approval of their policy in the matter of disarmament. A formidable programme, therefore, confronts the House of Commons, but yesterday's gathering in honour of the Prime Minister showed that both he and all his colleagues will confront it in good heart, and with a determination unimpaired by a few defections. They may well do so. There cannot be the slightest doubt that a huge majority of the House of Commons will endorse their continued co-operation. They believe, as Mr. Macdonald believes, that those who set their hands to the plough a year ago must see their work through to the end, and not "leave posterity to behold a derelict and unfinished furrow."

MR. DE VALERA'S CLAIMS.

The Parliamentary Correspondent of The Times writes:—A brief statement on the failure of the negotiations with the Irish Free State may be looked for within a few minutes of the re-assembly of the House of Commons. It is understood that Mr. Lansbury, the leader of the Opposition, will put a private notice question on the subject to Mr. Thomas. The reply of the Dominions Secretary is likely to be short, and although there may be one or two supplementary questions, it is impossible under the rules of the House for any debate to arise. The British Government have always made it clear that they very much deplore the present deadlock, and are willing and anxious to do all in their power to end it; but they consider that the proposals they have already put forward should be sufficient to provide the basis for a settlement. They realise that it is impossible to come to any terms with Mr. de Valera while he persists in impugning the validity of all agreements already reached with his predecessors. His counter-claims, it is believed, amount in all to something like £400,000,000, and are of such a character as not to warrant serious consideration. It is likely that as soon as possible a further White Paper will be issued, supplementing the detailed correspondence published earlier in the year, and bringing up to date the communications that have passed between Mr. de Valera and British Ministers. Lord Hailsham, the leader of the House of Lords, will make a similar statement when the Upper House meets at 4.15. Apart from this the proceedings there will be purely formal, and the House will adjourn for another week.

Shortly before one o'clock this morning a section of the Dublin Fire Brigade from Tara street was called to the printing premises of Messrs. J. Fowler, 3 Crowe street. The outbreak was small, having originated in a book store behind the offices on the ground floor, and was extinguished after twenty minutes' work.

BELFAST COUNCIL "SCENES."

STORMY RIOTS DEBATE.

"MORE CAN BE DONE FOR UNEMPLOYED."

MINISTER'S CALL TO LOOTERS.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BELFAST, Monday.

STORMY scenes, hard words and a scuffle marked the special meeting of the Belfast City Council to-day, requisitioned to deal with the unemployment question.

As the members were leaving the Chamber two Nationalists and a Unionist became involved in a heated altercation. Recriminatory words at last led to a loss of temper, and one of the disputants rushed towards an opponent.

Friends of the parties managed to intervene, however, preventing blows being exchanged and separating the men.

The meeting was summoned last week at the height of the riots, on the requisition of Alderman Nixon and seventeen other members, to consider a motion calling on the Northern Government to take steps to relieve distress and starvation among the unemployed of the city.

WITHDRAWAL OFFER.

When the meeting began, Alderman Nixon, in view of the settlement reached on Saturday with the relief workers, offered to withdraw the motion, but some of those who signed the requisition demurred.

Councillor McMahon said that there were many things the Government could do in addition to the settlement.

Alderman Nixon then moved the resolution. It was open to the Government, he said, to abolish the Guardians if it thought fit, as it had abolished the Donaghadee Urban Council. With the country full of food, there should be no starvation.

Alderman Pierce seconded, remarking that neither religion nor politics had entered into the question. It was a purely bread-and-butter question.

Councillor McMahon said that much remained to be done. The men should have a full week's work and their cards stamped, and he hoped that this would be done. In his opinion, they might embark on schemes which would be for the public good, and which would not only alleviate unemployment, but be a source of lasting benefit. In this connection he advocated a slum clearance scheme, which was so necessary in Belfast. The advantage of such an undertaking could not be measured in £ s. d. A subsidy should be given to help on building, which was most essential in the interest of the working classes, and, if they gave effect to the scheme already outlined for maternity and child welfare, it would be an immense advantage.

WHOSE RESPONSIBILITY?

Alderman Duff moved as an amendment that, as the conditions existing at the date on which the requisition was presented to the Lord Mayor have in the interim been materially changed to the great advantage of the persons then unemployed, such change being due to the co-operation and decisions of the Government and the local authorities concerned, the action called for by the motion now proposed is, in the opinion of this Council, not at present necessary or desirable.

He pointed out that Alderman Nixon was a member of Parliament, and would know perfectly well that the Government had virtually no powers in connection with that matter at all, and, further, that the Government had gone out of its way by both straining the law and straining finance to come to the assistance of the Corporation, with whom the responsibility solely rested. It seemed to him the height of ridiculousness to want to make a scapegoat of the Government. Those were hard words to speak about his colleagues and himself, but they were inevitable.

There was nothing more contemptible in the public life of Belfast than the tragic innuendos and accusations made against the Board of Guardians.

Instead of passing resolutions appealing to the Government to do their work for them they should get busy and help to organise such schemes as would enable the Lord Mayor to keep the word that he had given. That would be doing something sensible instead of "playing to the gallery."

Councillor McKinney seconded the amendment.

Councillor Malcolm paid a warm tribute to the Lord Mayor for his promptness in responding to the appeal made to him and for what he had done to effect a settlement of the dispute. He had done all that one man could do in this direction, and if the settlement was not altogether satisfactory it was the best that could be arranged in the circumstances. Even with all that was being done in the way of relief work, there was a tremendous number of skilled men idle and anxious for employment, and he hoped that something would be done for such as these. They did not want the dole; they wanted work.

"STIFLING DISCUSSION."

Councillor Henderson said that it would be a revelation that, according to Alderman Duff, the Corporation were responsible for the loss of two lives and for respectable citizens being batoned at their own doors. Why did not Alderman Duff, as chairman of the Finance Committee, tackle the problems which he now complains were not carried out?

Alderman Byrne said that the passing of the resolution would not do any harm. If action had been taken sooner, the city would not now be in the state in which it was, and lives would have been saved. He disagreed with Alderman Duff that the Government was not responsible. The Corporation could not spend money without the sanction of the Government, who, he thought, should have taken action long ago.

Alderman Nixon, speaking to the amendment, said that if there had been any common-sense and sympathy in high places the things that had occurred would not have occurred, because if it was right to grant terms and conditions now, it would have been right to do so three months ago.

There was a heated scene on the part of the Socialist members at this stage, when a motion to put the question was accepted and passed. They declared it was an effort to stifle discussion.

COST TO RATEPAYERS.

The Lord Mayor (Sir Crawford McCullagh) said that he was sorry the suggestion of Alderman Nixon to withdraw the motion was not accepted. The people did not realise what the Government had done in the matter of making work possible for these men. The Government had taken tremendous responsibilities, far more than any Government across the water had done.

He wanted to say that the Corporation had taken on a serious responsibility, one which the ratepayers would be called upon to pay for next year. He made that statement so that when the time arrived the ratepayers would know what had been done. The credit of the city had been pledged to carry out the works proposed to be done by the Corporation.

After the amendment had been carried by 26 votes to 13, Alderman Midgley protested against the contention that there was no longer any need to pass the resolution. All that had happened was that the Guardians had been compelled to adopt scales of relief which they should have adopted long ago. The basic question of unemployment remained, and had to be solved. One person out of every three insurable persons in Northern Ireland was unemployed, and one-fifth of the total population was affected directly or indirectly by the problem which could only be solved by Socialism by the rationalisation of labour.

STORMY FINALE.

There was another stormy scene when Councillor Cunningham declared that when he advocated the Guardians doing more than they were he got no support from the Labour members.

A wordy battle ensued, and Alderman Midgley declared that Councillor Cunningham had been repudiated by his own trade union.

Councillor Cunningham—Yes, but bear in mind that my trade union has been captured locally by the Socialists. The strike was rushed for the purpose of causing as much trouble as possible and to discredit the city.

With half-a-dozen members on their feet and the bell drowning their voices, the Lord Mayor, in stentorian tones, put the amendment as a substantive motion.

On a vote, 27 voted for the amendment and 12 against. The Lord Mayor thereupon declared the amendment carried, and Alderman Nixon's motion was accordingly lost.

RELIEF WORKERS RESUME.

The distress relief workers resumed work this morning, in accordance with the agreement reached with the Northern Government and the Guardians.

Altogether there are about 2,700 distress relief workers, and the present work schemes will give employment to 1,500 of these.

The City Surveyor's Department of the Corporation is preparing additional relief schemes, and the surplus workers will in the meantime get relief from the Board of Guardians. Those who are employed during the first three days of the present week will be paid on Saturday, while the men who are at work from Thursday till Saturday will receive food dockets at the end of the week and be paid on the following Wednesday.

LOOT A CURSE.

OFFER TO MEDIATE FOR RESTITUTION.

Outspoken condemnation of the looting during the rioting was uttered by the Rev. John M'Caffrey in the Shankill Road Methodist Church last night.

He said:—"Now that the heat of passion and of excitement has abated, it is time for us to reflect, and that belated reflection gives us all a grave uneasiness and deep sense of shame.

"We cannot but believe that the same end could have been gained in a more creditable way, and by a way less expensive to human life and property.

"I want to say here, and I wish it to be known around this district, for there are people not far from our own church doors who have some stolen goods, that those stolen goods and articles will be a curse instead of a blessing. There can be no real peace of mind and sense of God's forgiveness until there is restitution—either those things be given back or paid for.

"How can you imagine a man or woman could face death and pass into the presence of the judgment bar of God with that cloud upon his conscience? Time will not wipe out the sense of guiltiness, and the longer those goods are retained the harder it will be to come clean and confess. I say to all who have been tempted, give back what you have taken at the earliest moment, and should any guilty ones hear what I am saying here tonight, I will be quite willing to act as an intermediary in order to help them to get that sin off their conscience."

CAR STEALING.

SPECIAL WATCH BY DUBLIN GUARDS.

By a Special Correspondent.

Squads of police have been detailed for special duty in Dublin during the last few days to keep a look-out for stolen motor cars, and plain clothes detectives from the Castle are assisting in the watch.

Car park attendants in the city have also received instructions to exercise special vigilance over the cars which are left in their care, and to report suspicious incidents immediately to the Civic Guards.

This tightening-up of supervision is the direct result of the death of a man and injuries to a woman who were struck by a motor car which had been stolen a week ago, and in regard to which the authorities are still pursuing inquiries with a view to the arrest of the thieves.

Superintendent Hurley, the head of the traffic section of the Dublin Metropolitan Guards, informed me yesterday that there has been no increase in car-stealing in the city lately, and that it is never so prevalent here as in London and other English cities.

"Of course," he said, "we do get complaints periodically that thefts have occurred. As a rule, there is no actual criminal intent. Somebody wants to get home, and he takes a car which happens to be standing in the street, drives it part of the way, and then abandons it. We hardly ever have any difficulty in finding the car, though sometimes it is damaged, usually as the result of bad driving."

At the moment the Guards are making investigations with regard to cases of motor car larceny. One of these relates to the recent fatal accident at Howth road, in regard to which, I understand, there is no definite clue as yet.

A number of people have come forward and given descriptions of men who were said to have been in possession of a car which was believed to be the one concerned in the accident, but the descriptions did not tally, and consequently have been of little assistance.

CLEAN MILK SUPPLIES.

A deputation representing the Clean Milk Society waited on Dr. Ward, Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Local Government, yesterday with regard to the question of milk supplies. It is understood that an official report will be issued, probably to-day.

The sentence of the Norwich Consistory Court on the Rector of Stiffkey, the Rev. Harold Davidson, will be pronounced on Friday.

FARMERS BEING "STRANGLED."

From Our Correspondent.

KANTURK, Monday.

A BRANCH of the National Farmers' and Ratepayers' League was formed at a meeting held in the Strand Cinema yesterday. The meeting was largely attended. Arrangements were made for the organisation of North Cork with a view to establishing branches in all parishes.

Mr. J. D. O'Connor, who was voted to the chair, said that it was a good augury to see such a large and representative gathering of farmers and ratepayers. The present position caused grave anxiety in the minds of all. They were all aware that the London negotiations had broken down, and from what he could gather, and, in his humble judgment there was no expectation of an arrangement of the matter in dispute in the near future.

It was high time, he said, that the farmers and ratepayers banded themselves together, as they did in olden days, to protect their rights, their homes and their livings, which were at present being strangled by the Government at present in office. Mr. de Valera must think that the people of Ireland had short memories if they forgot the thirty millions of destruction which he and his policy had caused the country ten years ago. When the late Government were elected the Fianna Fail Party solemnly stated that they would never take the Oath, but they subsequently changed their minds and swallowed King George's Oath, bones and all. (Hear, hear, and laughter.) They were all aware of the economic ruin which was at present overshadowing the country; their fairs and markets were ample proof of that.

COSTLY "SOPS."

The Government were offering sops to the people in the way of subsidies, but for every pound given in this way the farmers were robbed of £50 by the injury and loss to their other important interests. The people were crippled through the oppressive tariffs imposed by both sides, with the result that the country to-day was faced with economic disaster.

Mr. W. J. Fahy, organiser, described the present position of the farming industry, and the injurious reactions on other industries in the country.

On the motion of Mr. J. M. O'Connor, M.C.C., seconded by Mr. Eugene Daly, it was resolved to establish branches of the National Farmers' and Ratepayers' League throughout North Cork for the protection of their interests and the promotion of peace in the country.

Mr. Daly said that it was an extraordinary and humiliating position that the vital interests of agriculture and commerce throughout the Free State should be in the hands and at the mercy of seven Labour members in the Dail.

Mr. D. Vaughan, T.D.; Mr. P. J. Halliden and Mr. James O'Reilly having addressed the meeting, the Chairman said that he had no doubt that the farmers of Ireland, who, during the days of Parnell, Davitt, Dillon and O'Brien had successfully fought for their lands, would not now be easily driven out of them by either de Valera or Norton.

It was then decided to visit the surrounding parishes of Dromtariffe, Kilbrin, Castlemagner, Banteer, Newmarket, Meeling, Rockchapel, Boherbee, Kingwilliamstown and Freemount, for the purpose of establishing branches of the League.

LAND ANNUITIES.

"THE TRUTH ABOUT THEM."

"The Truth about the Land Annuities" was the title of a lecture delivered by Mr. Diarmuid Crowley at the headquarters of Sinn Féin, 16 Parnell square, Dublin, last night.

The Rev. M. O'Flanagan presided.

In the course of his lecture Mr. Crowley said that in 1920 a Home Rule Act was passed, giving to the Six Counties in the North an exchequer in Belfast into which were to be paid the land annuities. Those annuities were to be part of the revenue of the Northern Government, and the British Government had not got a penny of them, and never claimed them. The Act also made provision for an exchequer in Southern Ireland, and enacted that the Government of Southern Ireland should have all their land annuities as part of their revenue, just as the Northern Government should have their land annuities as part of their revenue.

He held that the exchequer of Southern Ireland had a right to the annuities, similar to the right of the Northern Government to theirs, because it was the same section of the Act that provided for both, and in exactly the same words. The annuities were to be used for the public service, and for no other purpose. The "appointed day" was fixed, and it was quite clear that since August 2, 1921, the exchequer of Southern Ireland had a legal right to the annuities, and to compel whoever collected them to account for them.

When August 2, 1921, came there were negotiations going on between Dáil Eireann—the Republican Dáil—and the British Government: negotiations that ended in the document called the Treaty. Those negotiations did not prevent the Home Rule Act from getting into operation, and did not alter the position, because twelve men sitting down and putting their names to a document did not make a law for anybody. The Treaty was not enacted until March 31, 1922. In the meanwhile a Provisional Government was declared, and ten days after it was appointed a secret agreement was made to collect these annuities and send them every year to the British Exchequer. The British Government concealed that agreement for a year and a half after it was made.

The question of the land annuities, said Mr. Crowley, depended on the Act of 1920, and whether it was in operation in 1922. It was under that Act that they could claim the annuities, but the then Government never could say that the Act of 1920 was in operation in 1922, because they would then have to say that they were murderers.

RESCUER DROWNED.

FATAL ATTEMPT TO SAVE BOY.

George Newton (34), engineer, of Muir road, Maidstone, lost his life yesterday in attempting to save a boy from drowning in the River Medway. Newton was cycling near the river when he saw Edward Arnold (10), of Medway street, struggling in the water.

Jumping from his machine he dived in and succeeded in reaching the boy, but got into difficulties.

Alfred Lomas (20), of Warwick place, Maidstone, hearing cries for help, dived in, and, after reaching Newton and Arnold, held them up for some time, but was forced to let go of Newton.

Lomas succeeded in getting Arnold to the bank, where they were brought ashore exhausted.

Meanwhile Newton had disappeared, and when found was dead.

Arnold recovered in hospital.

OBITUARY.

PROFESSOR W. T. WAUGH.

The death was announced in Ottawa yesterday, says Reuter, of Professor William Templeton Waugh, chairman of the Department of History of the McGill University, Montreal. Professor Waugh was born at Fairfield, Manchester, in 1884, and was educated at Fulneck School, Yorks, and at Manchester University, where later he became Assistant Lecturer in History. He married Ada, the third daughter of the Rev. S. Kershaw, B.A., of Kilkeel, Co. Down, and had one daughter.

In 1915 he became Acting Professor of History at Queen's University, Belfast, and during the war joined the staff of the War Trade Intelligence Department.

He has been associated with the McGill University since 1922. Among his best known published works is his biography of James Wolfe, published in 1928.

The Admiralty announced last night that operations for the salvage of submarine M2 are to continue for the present and as weather conditions permit.

FALLING INTO LINE.

FARMERS JOIN NEW LEAGUE.

OPEN MARKET WANTED.

From Our Correspondent.

MONAGHAN, Monday.

A COMMITTEE of twenty-six members was appointed at a public meeting in the Town Hall this evening to arrange a scheme for the organisation of the farmers in the district.

The meeting was held under the auspices of the Irish Farmers' Union, but it was unanimously resolved to join the new National Farmers' and Ratepayers' League.

Mr. Alex. Haslett, ex-T.D., touching upon the recent Dublin convention, said that, as it met in the shadow of the proposed negotiations between the Free State and British Governments, it was felt undesirable to express very strong feeling. Arising out of the convention a deputation met the Minister for Agriculture and discussed the question of the cattle bounty. With regard to that bounty, it was like a dog eating his own tail. The farmer would eventually have to pay, and it would be no use to him; but it was the law, and, as law-abiding citizens, they had to accept it. The Minister, he said, promised to examine the question of a bounty on sheep.

Mr. George Gillespie said the farmers did not want the bounties, they wanted an open market.

A delegate proposed that they invite Mr. Blythe down to give Monaghan a helping hand.

Mr. T. Murphy, acting secretary, said there was nothing political about the League. They must keep politics out.

On the motion of Mr. J. Sherry, seconded by Mr. R. Auld, it was decided to join the new League.

Mr. J. Henry said they should appoint an organiser and get to work at once.

Power was given the Committee to appoint an organiser.

Members of the Committee were chosen from all parts of the county.

No public reference was made to the breakdown of the negotiations in London, but the situation was generally discussed privately, and disappointment was expressed. Speculation was also rife as to what would happen next.

Mr. Owen Hughes presided at the meeting.

BOUNTIFUL HARVEST.

NO STARVATION THIS WINTER.

From Our Correspondent.

KELLS, Monday.

Addressing a meeting under the auspices of the Fianna Fail Party at Clonmellon, Co. Westmeath, last night, Mr. M. J. Kennedy, T.D., said that, thanks to a bountiful harvest and a National Government, no man, woman, or child in the twenty-six counties would die of starvation this winter. The Cumann na nGaedheal Party were going about talking about the losses in the economic war, forgetting that when the clearances of the rich lands of County Meath and County Westmeath were made in the "forties" there was more misery and human suffering in one month than there would be in ten years of the economic war.

He believed that before that time twelve months they would all meet there and rejoice in the victory of President de Valera, the greatest leader Ireland ever had.

Mr. Sean Doyle, Athboy, said that the economic policy of Cromwell had been handed down by Mr. Cosgrave and his Government; but there was one thing certain, and that was, that the Fianna Fail Government would not hand it down to their successors, no matter who those successors might be. Referring to the Army Comrades' Association, Mr. Doyle said that it was a "White Mouse Army," and there was no room for "white mice," as there were too many black cats about. (Laughter.)

RIOT IN CANADIAN PRISON.

TROOPS CALLED TO QUELL MUTINY.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

KINGSTON (ONT.), Monday.

A serious riot broke out at the Portsmouth Penitentiary here.

Shots were heard this evening within the prison walls, and the smoke of several small fires was observed, but no explanation is available from the authorities, and the road is guarded by troops, making access to the prison impossible.

Late this afternoon all the units of the permanent force here were called out to assist in quelling the riot, as there seemed danger of the prisoners overpowering the guards, who were forced to use their fire-arms.

Approximately a thousand prisoners are confined in the penitentiary, and it is understood that the prison authorities have secured control of the prisoners.

The riot was due, it is understood, to the locking of the convicts in their cells after the attempted escape of a prisoner, who was immediately recaptured. The prisoners barricaded themselves behind their cell doors, and hurled defiance at the prison guards.

"THE MISTRESS OF THE SEAS."

PRO-BRITISH OVATION IN ATHENS.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

ATHENS, Monday.

Admiral Sir Ernle Chatfield (Commander-in-Chief in the Mediterranean) and British naval officers and bluejackets, with their squadron band, were the objects of a remarkable pro-British demonstration by the Greek public at the Stadium here yesterday.

All the newspapers publish accounts of the incidents. The ovation, says Eleftheron Vima, was as spontaneous as it was warm, and was an indication of our feeling of friendship and gratitude towards the great mistress of the seas. We feel bound to add that the ovation was also the expression of a feeling which, restrained with difficulty in all Greek breasts, only required an opportunity to burst out in manifestations of gratitude towards the English Fleet, which was so generous in its assistance to the victims at Chalkidiki."

HOSPITALS AFFECTED BY LIGHT FAILURE.

Two major operations were in progress at the Royal Northern Hospital, Islington, when the electricity supply failed last night.

The Secretary told a reporter: "Thanks to an automatic emergency lighting system, which comes into play immediately the ordinary supply fails, the operations were not interfered with."

The failure continued for forty-five minutes. Two cinemas were plunged into darkness. At the Blue Hall, Islington, both the lighting and electric supply which operates the sound films were interrupted. The audience sat in the faint light of the emergency lamps and listened to a pianist. There was no alarm.

Preparations for the British Dairy Farmers' Association Show at the Agricultural Hall were interrupted for over half an hour while the lights were out.

John Farrar-Hardwick (56) and his wife, Catherine (42), were found shot dead in the drying-room of the laundry in Portswood road, Southampton, late on Sunday night. Mrs. Farrar-Hardwick was manageress of the laundry, where the man was also employed.

CLONTARF NEW SEA WALL.

NO LOCAL MEN EMPLOYED.

PROTEST BY THE RATEPAYERS.

AT a largely attended meeting of Clontarf ratepayers, convened by the Clontarf Labour Association, last night a resolution was adopted protesting against the exclusion of Clontarf unemployed from employment on the building of the Clontarf sea wall, which has been undertaken at a cost of £90,000 by the Dublin Corporation, and calling on local deputies and members of the Corporation to see that justice was meted out to at least some of the unemployed men of Clontarf.

Mr. T. Murtagh, who presided, said that it was harsh treatment to Clontarf, which contributed between £20,000 and £21,000 annually towards the rates, that not one Clontarf man was employed on the new sea wall. Many of the unemployed living in the district occupied Corporation houses, and the Corporation would be badly hit when these men, as would eventually happen, were unable to pay their rents. He advocated the abolition of the Corporation Bureau, from which workers were recruited for the work.

Mr. Breen, Hon. Secretary, said that all they wanted was that as many Colntarf men as was possible should be employed on the work. They did not demand the abolition of the Corporation Bureau. Between 600 and 700 of the largest ratepayers in the area had signed a petition to the City Manager requesting that Clontarf men should be employed on the work.

A CORPORATION BY-LAW.

Mr. John Ryan, T.D., said that there was a Corporation by-law prohibiting the employment of any men who were not registered on the bureau, and this was the chief difficulty. The City Manager had no authority to go outside this by-law.

Suitable men were unemployed in Clontarf while unsuitable men were sent out to work on the wall; but two powerful trade unions—the Municipal Workers' Union and the Workers' Union—were standing strong for the bureau, which made the position difficult. When it was proposed at a meeting of the Corporation that the surveyor should have a free hand in the recruiting of labour for the Clontarf work the proposal was defeated by two votes.

Mr. P. Belton said that when he raised the matter in the Corporation he was told that the bureau was full, and that no additional names would be received for it; so that no unemployed Clontarf man could hope to get employment.

Senator Thomas Johnson said that the fact that the Workers' Union of Ireland was with the Municipal Workers' Union in the matter showed that there was something in the case. If the object of the bureau was to regularise employment and prevent municipal employment being swamped, it would be a retrograde step to abolish it.

Mr. J. J. Byrne, T.D., said that the City Manager told him that it was within his power to alter the by-law with reference to the bureau, but if he did so and put on Clontarf men it would mean the disemployment of men already engaged. He promised to have a question on the matter asked in the Dail on Thursday.

"MATTER FOR CORPORATION."

Apologising for non-attendance, the Secretary to Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly, Vice-President of the Executive Council, wrote that the Minister had brought the Association's representations to the notice of the City Manager and the Town Clerk, with a request that he should give them consideration. He pointed out that the employment of labour was entirely a matter for the Corporation, and that the Minister had no function that would enable him to intervene.

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY TERMINATES.

THE COST OF ECONOMY.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

GENEVA, Monday.

At a secret meeting this morning the League Council resolved to appoint M. Joseph Avenol (France), at present Deputy Secretary-General to the post of Secretary-General of the League, in succession to Sir Eric Drummond.

The nomination is to be submitted for approval to an extraordinary session of the Assembly in November, and the appointment will become effective from the date when Sir Eric Drummond relinquishes office.

The efforts of the delegates to the Assembly to cut down the League Budget have resulted in a greater actual expenditure than if no such efforts had been made.

The delegates were successful in achieving economies totalling 300,000 Swiss francs, but, on the other hand, the cost of their maintenance at Geneva for the five extra days necessary is in excess of this amount.

Although the session of the League Assembly had assumed the dull aspect of the statutory meetings of commercial companies, it has been occupied with questions of unequalled importance and interest compared with the past, declared the President, M. Politis (Greece), in his speech closing the session this morning.

Dealing with criticisms against the League, the Presdent declared that these were the outcome either of ignorance or of political passion. The League's only merit, he said, is that it creates a diplomatic atmosphere for negotiations. It has not lost a single atom of strength.

In conclusion, M. Politis quoted the recent statement made by the Archbishop of Canterbury—namely, that the League of Nations, in spite of everything, is the only bulwark of international peace and solidarity.

INTERNATIONAL AID FOR AGRICULTURE.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

ROME, Monday.

Sir Daniel Hall, the British delegate at the 11th general assembly of the International Institute of Agriculture, which was opened here to-day, spoke enthusiastically of the services rendered by the Institute, especially during the economic crisis.

He said that great interest was expressed in England with regard to the Institute's activities, and that they would co-operate to the best of their ability.

Delegates from fifty different nations were present at the meeting, which was inaugurated by the speech of Senator de Michelis, President of the Institute. Signor Acerbo, Minister of Agriculture, spoke on behalf of the Italian Government.

MANCHESTER FIRE.

EXTENSIVE DAMAGE AT RUBBER WORKS.

An outbreak of fire last night caused extensive damage to the works of the Rubber Novelties Co., Ltd., in Commercial street, Manchester.

When the brigade arrived flames were shooting from every window. As one side of the works adjoins a canal, the firemen had to make use of sluice gates in attacking the outbreak.

There were no personal injuries.

James Higgins, one of two men who escaped from a prison van at Glasgow on Friday when being conveyed to a pleading diet, surrendered to the Glasgow police yesterday. William Porter, the other man who escaped, is still at large.

ARMED MAN PUT TO FLIGHT.

STORY OF STREET CHASE.

THE story of a "hold-up" in a tobacconist's shop, a girl assistant's plucky resistance, and the courage of a newsvendor in tackling an armed man was related in the Dublin District Court yesterday, when William Gleeson (46), an ex-soldier, with an address in Waterford street, was charged with attempting to murder Frances Murphy, an assistant in the tobacconist's shop 20a Talbot street, by knocking her down and then striking her with a large Webley revolver on the head and face, inflicting injuries for which she had to be treated in Jervis street Hospital. Gleeson was further charged with illegal possession of a six-chambered revolver with intent to endanger life, and also with assaulting George O'Brien, of Summerhill, by striking him on the head with the revolver.

Guard Brosnan (134 C) said that his attention was attracted to a crowd surrounding a man in a doorway in Talbot street. Two men, one of whom was O'Brien, were holding the man. He took a statement from O'Brien, who said that he had given a revolver which he had taken from the accused man to a Dr. Ryan. Gleeson, when taken into custody, denied all the statements made by O'Brien. He said that he was walking along the street from Nelson's Pillar, when a crowd shouted, "That's the man," and caught hold of him.

Station Sergeant Butler said that Dr. Ryan handed him a revolver, which was defective. The trigger was not working, and there were four pieces of wood in the chamber cut to resemble cartridges. The accused man was brought into the station, followed by Miss Murphy. On seeing Gleeson Miss Murphy said, "That's the man that did it." Gleeson said that he "knew nothing about it, only it was nice to listen to."

STRUGGLE WITH FUGITIVE.

George O'Brien, Summerhill, a newsvendor, said that he was selling papers in Talbot street, when he saw people running after a man, shouting, "Stop him," "Hold him." He joined in the chase, and followed the man through Frenchman's lane and Moran's lane. When he was three or four yards from the man the fugitive turned round with a revolver in his hand and shouted, "Hands up!" The witness said, "Right," dropped his papers, "ducked" and grappled with the man, and, despite several blows from the revolver on the head, succeeded in taking the weapon. He then backed away about ten yards, thinking that the man might have another revolver. The man then went back towards the shop in Talbot street, and the witness followed and shouted to the crowd, "Hold him." Mr. Powderly caught the man, and he was handed over to the police.

Miss Frances Murphy, who appeared in court with heavy plaster bandages over her forehead and nose, said that on Saturday evening the accused man came into the shop at about 5.45 o'clock and asked for a packet of cigarettes. When she turned to the cash register the man came inside the counter and pushed a revolver against her chest, ordering her to put up her hands. She asked him why she should put up her hands, and then he pushed her, knocking her down. While she was on the ground he hit her three times on the head with the revolver. She screamed, and the man ran away. She followed him to the door and shouted for assistance.

When asked whether she saw in court the man who struck her, the witness, pointing to the dock, said: "Yes; there he is there. I would know him anywhere."

A LIFE PRESERVER.

Mr. Louis Powderley, Lower Gardiner street, said that when he heard screams in Talbot street he went towards the tobacco shop, where there was a crowd. Miss Murphy pointed out the defendant in the crowd, and he caught him and handed him over to the police.

Detective Sullivan deposed to finding the life preserver (produced) in a lane. He also testified to the finding of broken pieces of metal, which might have formed the stock of a revolver.

Station Sergeant Butler said that he did not propose to proceed any further at that hearing, and he asked for a remand.

Mr. A. Lynn, B.L., appeared for the accused man, who was remanded in custody till Thursday next.

BANKERS' CALL TO ECONOMISE.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Monday.

The ultimatum of the New York bankers who are financing the city, that they would not grant any more loans to New York City until drastic economies were adopted, has had immediate results.

To-day the Comptroller of the City of New York, Mr. Berry, who recently caused the defeat of the proposals of Mr. McKee, the Acting Mayor, to effect substantial economies in the civic budget, himself submitted a plan to economise from 67 to 110 million dollars (approximately £13,000,000 to £22,000,000).

RELIGIOUS TENSION IN MEXICO.

POLICE RAID FRUSTRATES PROJECTED REVOLT.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

MEXICO CITY, Monday.

The police are of opinion that they have nipped in the bud a religious revolt in the State of Jalisco as a result of a raid on a house at Guadeljara, in which they seized a quantity of arms, munitions and literature.

Two inmates of the house were shot dead by the police, but the other escaped.

Religious tension in Mexico has been running very high since the issue of the recent Papal Encyclical, in which the Pope condemned the "outrages and wicked laws oppressing the liberty of the Church" in Mexico.

The Government's reaction to this denunciation was the arrest and expulsion of the aged Papal Nuncio, and a threat to close all churches and convert them into factories.

BOLIVIAN REGIMENT ANNIHILATED.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BUENOS AIRES, Monday.

The annihilation of a Bolivian regiment at Padilla, in the Gran Chaco district, is reported from Asuncion by the Paraguayan Minister of War.

The commander of the Bolivian regiment (Lieutenant-Colonel Cardenas) was taken prisoner, and a number of machine-guns, together with ammunition, captured.

The Minister also reports that subsequently the Paraguayan forces advanced, capturing a strong enemy position.

HERRIOT GOVERNMENT STRENGTHENED.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

PARIS, Monday.

The French Senate will not be greatly altered in its structure as a result of the election of 111 Senators, which took place yesterday. A slight move to the Left was the only noticeable feature of the poll, and as the party which gained was the Radical Socialist group, the main element in M. Herriot's majority, the Government is likely to be strengthened in its position.

PARLEYS GO ON.

COTTON SPINNERS' WAGES.

FURTHER JOINT CONFERENCE.

FURTHER meetings with a view to reaching a settlement of the wages dispute in the spinning section of the Lancashire cotton industry were held at Manchester yesterday.

The executives of the operative spinners and the cardroom amalgamations met in the morning, and the Wages Committee of the Master Spinners' Federation in the afternoon.

Mr. F. W. Leggett, head of the Industrial Relations Department of the Ministry of Labour, again presided at the meetings and acted as mediator. He was assisted by Mr. T. K. Liddell and Mr. G. Ryder, the chief conciliation officers of the Ministry for the North-Western and Midland areas respectively.

The employers' representatives on the Negotiating Committee reported to the Wages Committee of the Master Spinners' Federation this afternoon.

Later the operatives' and employers' representatives on the Negotiating Committee met in joint conference, and afterwards sat in separate sessions.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

When the conferences were concluded last night the following official statement was issued:—

"The Negotiating Committee have met to-day, together and separately, under Mr. Leggett's chairmanship. Discussions have been continued on the question of wages and hours. Considerable difficulties were encountered in the discussion on the incidence of wagers alterations, but ultimately it was agreed, and confirmed by the executives of both sides, that on a settlement of the wages claim being reached a joint conference between the Federation and the unions shall take place without delay to consider such claims to exceptional wage rates as may be submitted by either side, and the review of anomalies in regard to working conditions, with a view to the settlement by the usual procedure supplemented by the additional conciliation machinery.

"The discussion on the main wages question has not gone beyond the preliminary stages. Serious difficulties which have been reached have yet to be overcome. The conferences are to be resumed to-morrow."

MOTOR RESTRICTIONS.

SIR HERBERT AUSTIN ON PROSPECTS AHEAD.

Sir Herbert Austin, speaking last night at the Austin annual dinner in London, said there were difficulties in the industry which called for the closer co-operation of all who had its interests at heart.

"If the growth which has been enjoyed during the past ten years is to continue in face of the severe international competition, then there must be closer unity in the matter of research and organised effort," he said.

"Many problems could be settled satisfactorily if we manufacturers got together in formulating a scheme which we were prepared to support. A combined effort would be effective in resisting further legislative restrictions, and it is high time we made a united stand in this direction.

"If things are going on as at present it would not be too great a stretch of the imagination to suggest that in the near future the motorist might have to apply to the Traffic Commissioner for a pass to allow him to take his wife and children by road to the seaside, or to any other destination served by a railway system."

At last there were signs of returning confidence in most directions. The upward tendency was not confined to Britain, but was extending in other parts of the world, especially within the Empire.

"Our export business has shown a decided increase," he said. "If we are to continue to expand we must be able to go forward on a settled policy, and for this reason I say it is imperative that the present McKenna duties be maintained.

"It can never be said that we have taken an unfair advantage of this protection, or that it has been anything but a boon to the British public.

"It was gratifying to hear the Minister of Transport say that the Government was prepared to make changes in the incidence of motor taxation.

"I presume he refers to a capacity tax, which, failing a tax on fuel, is the most logical and equitable method to employ. This change should have been made years ago."

A full-size portrait of himself in oils, by Mr. George Harcourt, R.A., was presented to Sir Herbert Austin by Major R. S. Grigg on behalf of the Austin distributors and dealers.

MRS. PAWLEY'S CAPTORS.

WAY OPEN FOR DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

NEWCHWANG, Monday.

Every hope of the speedy release of Mrs. Pawley and Mr. Charles Corkran is entertained by the Japanese authorities here as a result of the negotiations which have been proceeding for some days past.

The last messenger to the kidnappers sent by General Wang Tien-Chung, the commander of the Manchurian garrison, who has been in charge of all the operations to secure the release of the captives, returned here yesterday, and the field is now left open for direct negotiations between the Japanese authorities and the bandits.

Meanwhile a northerly gale, accompanied by rain and cold, is causing discomfort to the captives, and is again delaying messengers who have been sent to them with parcels, containing woollen gloves and underclothing. The bandits are also feeling the cold, and they have sent a demand to Mrs. Pawley's relatives that each parcel sent to her must be wrapped in a thirteen-feet length of cloth for their personal use.

MORE BRITISH EXPORTS TO DENMARK.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

COPENHAGEN, Monday.

The value of goods sold by England to Denmark was nearly eighteen million kroner (£1,000,000 at par) more for the first nine months this year than last. Figures for the first nine months of the year were 178 million kroner, as against 160 million kroner for the same period last year.

Germany, on the other hand, sold 226 million kroner worth of goods to Denmark, as against 365 million kroner last year, which is a drop of 139 million kroner.

A HARD YEAR'S WORK.

REPLY TO HIS CRITICS.

THE British Prime Minister, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, was entertained at luncheon in London yesterday by the National Labour Committee. All members of the British Cabinet, with the exception of Mr. Runciman, who was out of town, were included in the 300 guests.

Lord De La Warr, who presided, in proposing Mr. Macdonald's health, recalled that at the general election the National Labour Party had a picture of him as the captain who stuck to the ship.

"We are here to assure you," said Lord De La Warr, amid cheers, "that no matter how dirty the weather may be, the crew is going to stick to the captain."

The Prime Minister, replying, said that the national effort was as necessary to-day as twelve months ago, and, so far as he was concerned, so far as his influence was going to be exerted, it would be exerted for the maintenance of that all-party national effort until the country was able to bear a return to the old scrambling conditions of politics.

They had a hard year. What could they have done under conditions such as those they inherited and did not create? "Go and stand in the market place like cheapjacks trying to get applause from great crowds, or stand there sometimes with sad hearts, but never with failing hearts, and tell the truth!"

HISTORY'S VERDICT.

He was sorry beyond words that Viscount Snowden was not present. After a reference to the Labour Party Conference at Leicester, he said that when the year of the National Government was reviewed history's verdict would be: "Well done, you good and faithful servants."

There was one thing that history would not record, and that was tremendous, continued rows between the Foreign Secretary and himself, or hectic Cabinet meetings in which Mr. Neville Chamberlain and he were the protagonists.

Replying to criticisms on the unemployment problem, the Prime Minister appealed for accuracy, and, referring to Ottawa, he said that the House of Commons would meet to-morrow especially for Ottawa business. "That is going to be its first affair. When that business is started the very earliest opportunities will be taken to allow our opponents to challenge us face to face."

The man who was running a policy of trade expansion was the person who alone was going to solve the unemployment problem. The means test had been under consideration before there was any agitation about it, and there would be no further loss of time in the matter.

UNEMPLOYED'S FRIEND.

The very earliest opportunities would be taken to allow their opponents to challenge them face to face on those two big questions of unemployment and disarmament. Whatever unfairness and hardship might have been inflicted, they had kept the economic foundation of the country intact and sound. If they were honest to their country and the unemployed, they must not allow them to live in a fool's paradise. The man who was the friend of the unemployed was the man who told them the state of the national resources and was himself prepared to share in that diminution of income.

DISARMAMENT.

"I want disarmament which will be a real contribution to the present problem of establishing peace," said Mr. Macdonald. "The keynote of our policy is not rearmament—but disarmament.

"Germany knows perfectly well that Great Britain does not oppose her claim to be regarded as an equal at Disarmament Conferences. I profoundly regret that she refuses to come to Geneva for reasons the substance of which is difficult for me to detect. The Government is continuing to pursue its purpose, and hopes to make a further announcement in a few days."

The Prime Minister said that those of the National Labour group had put their hands to the plough, and, if posterity had to behold a derelict and unfinished furrow, it would not be their fault.

Mr. Macdonald referred to the secession from the Government of Sir Herbert Samuel and his colleagues as most deplorable.

WOMAN'S DEATH IN ROAD SMASH.

CAR DRIVER SENTENCED.

Francis William Nelson (28), described as a fitter, and Albert Brown (30), described as a stand-fitter, were charged together at the Cambridge Assizes yesterday with the manslaughter of Miss Phyllis Winfield on July 18, and with entering a garage on or about the same day and stealing a motor car.

It was alleged that the accused when driving the car came into collision with a motor cycle driven by a Mr. Robert Knox, with Miss Winfield as pillion passenger.

The accident occurred late at night on the Great North road, in Huntingdonshire.

The Judge, summing up, said that he thought the evidence against Brown was not sufficient to make it safe to convict him on either of the charges, and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Brown.

Nelson was found guilty. He denied any knowledge of the offence with which he was charged. His record showed six previous convictions against him.

Passing sentence of three years' penal servitude against Nelson, the judge said that Nelson's record showed that he bade fair to become absolutely incorrigible.

It was stated in evidence that the driver of a London-Newcastle motor coach, on the Great North Road, Mr. Stilton, at one o'clock in the morning, saw two bodies in the road. Miss Winfield was dying, and Mr. Knox was seriously injured and unconscious.

The stolen motor car was on the side of the road, with the motor cycle wedged underneath it. The body of the young woman was forty-two feet away, and the man was lying 114 feet away.

Brown gave an address at Islington and Nelson was described as of London.

EUROPEAN MARKETS FOR SOUTH AFRICA.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

CAPE TOWN, Monday.

Europe, apart from Great Britain, offers an excellent market for South African base metals and other commodities, Mr. A. P. Fourie, South African Minister for Mines and Industries, told Reuter's correspondent on his arrival here from Europe.

After attending the Ottawa Conference Mr. Fourie made a tour of European capitals, and conducted business talks with business leaders.

Mr. Fourie states that the friendliest relations exist between the Continent and South Africa, and, while he appreciates the protected market in the United Kingdom, he considers that it is necessary to look to other countries to take a portion of the South African products.

NEW CHARGE AGAINST THE INSULLS.

From Reuter's Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Monday.

Mr. J. A. Swanson, the State Attorney, has announced that he will ask the Grand Jury to indict Mr. Samuel Insull and his brother, Mr. Martin Insull, on the charge of selling stocks while the Insull companies were insolvent.

The Grand Jury has already indicted the Insull brothers on charges of larceny and embezzlement, which are the bases of the present attempts at extradition.

PATENTS AND DESIGNS.

NEW BRITISH ACT

SOME IMPORTANT CHANGES.

THE Patents and Designs Act, 1932, which comes into force on November 1, makes important changes in the law relating to inventions and industrial designs of special interest to business men and manufacturers whose work brings them into contact with novel developments in commerce and industry.

The period of provisional protection under the new Act is extended by three months, so that the complete specification may now be left at any time within 12 months from the date of the application.

This period is the same as that allowed in which to file applications abroad under the international and intercolonial arrangements, so that if the complete specification is not left until the end of the period allowed, and if foreign patents are contemplated, then the foreign applications will have to be despatched before the complete specification is on the file in this country. Further, unless the complete specification, following the provisional application, is left well before the expiration of the 12 months, the search on novelty made by the Patent Office, the result of which very often influences the applicant's decision with regard to foreign patents, will not be available.

An applicant may now request the Comptroller to treat a complete specification filed with the application as though it were a provisional one, or may ask that an application for a patent shall be post-dated, any time before acceptance, for a period not exceeding six months. The latter is a risky procedure, but may sometimes be desirable.

NOVELTY.

A very important change concerns the search made by the Patent Office officials to determine to some degree whether an invention sought to be patented is novel. Formerly the official search was directed to the investigation of previous British patent specifications filed on applications for patents during the past fifty years. Under the new Act the search may be extended to foreign specifications and other documents. The widening of the search brings the English practice more into line with that prevailing in Germany and the United States of America, but the fact that a patent is granted is still no guarantee of its validity.

It is anticipated that greater work will be involved in carrying out the more extensive search directed by the new Act, and the time for obtaining acceptance of the complete specification has been extended to eighteen months from the application date. The Government fees on filing a complete specification have also been increased.

The time in which a patent must be sealed has been extended from eighteen months to twenty-one months, so that under the new Act the maximum time within which the patent must be sealed, including extensions of time, which are obtainable (as under the principal Act), is twenty-eight months. This period may be extended by such an amount as appears to the Comptroller to be necessary, if it is proved that hardship would be caused to an applicant outside the United Kingdom. This applies particularly to an application for a patent in the United States of America filed after twelve months from the application date in this country, as the American patent must issue, that is, be granted, before any patent for the same invention in any country.

VALID AND INVALID CLAIMS.

Many new grounds upon which application may be made by petition to the Court for revocation of a patent have been added. Formerly, if in an action for infringement of a patent it was found that some claims of the specification were valid, and that others were invalid, the Court was directed to grant relief in respect of the valid claims without regard to the invalid ones. Now the patentee will have to furnish proof that invalid claims were framed in good faith and with reasonable skill and knowledge, if he wishes the Court to grant relief in respect of valid claims without regard to invalid ones. If the patentee does not furnish such proof, the Court will not grant any relief by way of damages or costs, but may grant other relief, such as an injunction in respect of any valid claim which is infringed. The above provisions make it more than ever necessary to exercise care and to obtain professional assistance in preparing a complete specification for Letters Patent.

In the past patents have been granted for so-called perpetual motion machines and suchlike contrivances which obviously would not work. The new Act deals with this matter, and empowers the Comptroller to refuse to grant a patent upon what he regards as a frivolous application. This is a wise alteration, because ill-informed inventors and purchasers have sometimes wasted money on patents of this kind.

Among other changes made the following may be mentioned:—Tightening up the law in cases of groundless threats of legal proceedings; provision for the granting of a patent to the assignee of the applicant; the hearing of appeals from the Comptroller's decision by an Appeal Tribunal, and amendments to the law dealing with British applications which are based on applications filed in other countries. In general the new Act applies to applications filed before as well as after the passing of the Act.

DUBLIN INQUEST ADJOURNED.

The inquest on Thomas Ennis (55), of North Cumberland street,, Dublin, who died following a motor accident, was adjourned on a police application.

Four members of the crew of the Lowestoft steam drifter, Herring Ho, were drowned when their vessel sank after a collision with another Lowestoft drifter, Golden Chance, yesterday. The five survivors of the Herring Ho were brought in by the Golden Chance.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE.

GELA STRUGGLES HOME.

THE VETERAN PROMPTITUDE IN WINNING FORM AGAIN.

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

WOLVERHAMPTON, Monday.

A DELIGHTFUL autumn afternoon here did much to make pleasant a day when the racing was not of great account. Fields were big, as we expect at meetings such as this, where the moderate horse is catered for and the season is quickly waning. The going was a little dead, as a great deal of rain has fallen in the Midland area.

One of the good performances of the day was that of Mr. R. F. Watson's filly, Celestial City, by Solario, who won the Dunstall Plate, her third victory in succession. She won it all the way, too, beating Hesperis, whom H. Wragg pulled back in the early stages, by two lengths. Hesperis only beat Dorinda by a short head for second place.

GELA'S VICTORY.

After the victory of a daughter of Solario came one for a daughter of Phalaris. This was Gela, who had the distinction of being rated as the best of the fillies in the Free Handicap at the end of last season. She has completely failed to stay in her second season, and she was winning her first race of the year when she beat Vain Bachelor by half a length in the Thorneycroft Handicap. She made all the running, but was tiring at the finish, and her jockey must have felt relieved when he passed the post first. Radio, always prominent, was a good third.

Another horse who was winning his first race of the season was the eight-year-old Promptitude, who, in the Wyfold Handicap, beat Sunbather and Negro by half a length and two lengths. Servus made the running until they were a quarter of a mile from home, when Sunbather took it up, but was run out of it by Promptitude.

It is a few years now since Promptitude won a Manchester November Handicap, and used to win or lose Liverpool Cups by short heads. Weston eased Servus, or he might have been third.

AN OBJECTION SAVED.

Out of the enormous entry of fifty-eight for the Kingswinford Selling Handicap, twenty-four were saddled, and one in the lower half of the handicap, Black Jake, owned by a Midland bookmaker, who started at 100 to 8, beat the favourite, Fearnan, by three lengths.

There was a close finish to the selling nursery. Pottage, who had been bored half across the course by Silver Garter, beat his aggressor by a neck, which saved his jockey lodging an objection. Pottage is a gelding by Birthright, whom H. Smyth trains at Epsom. A moderate animal, Croisade, owned by Mr. Geoffrey Gilbey, was made favourite for the last race, the Stanton Plate, and though he was running on from the turn he stopped inside the distance, and Gordon Richards came up on Mythical Pride to beat Bright Spark half a length.

Barring accident, Richards is certain to have ridden more winners at the end of this season than in any other year of his dazzling career.

SELECTIONS.

The racing here to-morrow promises to be much the same as it was to-day. The Newport Nursery may be won by POLLY STEPHENS; the Staffordshire Handicap by ROEBUCK, and the Corinthian Welter by MASSAI.

At Newcastle ARGUS may win the Newcastle Autumn Handicap. The Gosforth Nursery should go to GLOSS, and the Meldon Handicap to FUZZY WUZZY.

GALTEE MORE.

NEWMARKET NOTES.

NEWMARKET, Monday.

IT was bright during the early hours, but it later turned dull and blustery, and very few of our trainers were busy.

Day gave Blandearna, with Trinidad (Rawles), a good five furlong spin on the racecourse side. Blandearna ran very well in the Cesarewitch Stakes, and may play a prominent part in the Newbury Autumn Handicap on Saturday.

Frank Butters gave his representatives pretty good work, Sans Espoir having Gallic, Zarette and Felicitation to accompany him in a good mile spin, while Witch Doctor II., who just failed to win the Norwich Handicap here, had a good six furlongs spin with Udaipur. Knight of the Vale, who finished behind him in the above race, won the Heath Handicap very comfortably here last Thursday, which shows that Witch Doctor II., who was giving him 10lb., will, with only 6st. 13lb. to carry, be well in the picture. Slipper moved well in a good pace gallop over one mile.

Although Loaningdale finished last in the Champion Stakes here, he ran better than his position would suggest. Boyd-Rochfort sent him one mile this morning at a good pace with Marine Law and Pahokee, and he should run well in the Ormonde Plate at Newbury.

J. Jarvis sent his Cambridgeshire candidate, Wyvern, a good five furlongs with Damerham, and, although I expect him to run well, I prefer the chances of others.

I noticed how well Bloater went with Sea Treasure in a similar gallop. This son of Salmon Trout has done well this season, winning three of his six races, and he is a colt that should be followed for the remainder of the season.

The Hon. George Lambton sent Pricket (Stanton) and Dorigen (W. Wells) a good pace gallop over one mile on Long Hill. Both are looking a picture of health. Yellowstone, who has accepted for the Free Handicap at our next fixture, had Guiscard, Zane Grey and St. Andrews for companions in a similar gallop, while Leisure Hour covered the same ground, and it is obvious that she will give the best of them a hard task to beat her for the Atalanta Stakes at Sandown Park.

It was a good mile spin that C. Waugh gave to Chelmarsh and Trustee, Blue Rock making the pace a good one for the first five furlongs. Chelmarsh and Fireaway can renew their Cesarewitch battle in the Manton Handicap at Newbury. Chelmarsh appreciates a track like ours, but Fireaway prefers turns, and particularly left-handed ones, and it will come as no surprise to me to see her reverse positions with him on Friday.

The majority of our runners to-morrow are not a very bright lot. At Newcastle being in grand trim, should run very prominently in the Hazelrigg Selling Plate. R. W. Colling has got at her very best, and she will be difficult to beat for the Park Plate. I consider that who is nicely weighted in the Kenton Selling Handicap, holds a good winning chance.

One that has been doing well in his gallops of late is

and he will run forward for the Newcastle Autumn Handicap.

Baden's Lady has been showing up well in her gallops over the distance of the Gosforth Nursery, and will give a good account of herself, but I have a slight preference for the chance of

GLOSS.

The Meldon Handicap should fall to GARONNE (next best).

At Wolverhampton my fancies are:—1.45, Break of Day; 2.15, Cornstack; 2.45, Counterpane (nap); 3.15, Taj Ud Din; 3.45, Frivole.

TAJ UD DIN MAY SCORE.

ARGUS CHOSEN FOR CHIEF EVENT AT NEWCASTLE.

BIG entries are a feature of the second stage of the Wolverhampton Meeting, and as every race will be well contested backers may not have an easy time. The Staffordshire Handicap has attracted a number of moderate middle-distance performers, among which I note Taj Ud Din, who, when a sound favourite at the recent Pontefract Meeting, failed to concede weight to Conway and Argus. He had previously done better when finishing second to Air Pocket at Leicester, and on that form has a big chance here.

Boy Painter has risen in the handicap, but one I like better is Stephenson, who showed she was on the up-grade when finishing third to Ocean Wave at Thirsk. I have not given up all hope of seeing Hand of Glory win a race, for D. Waugh's colt has done fairly well on one or two occasions this season. He appears to hold a nice each-way chance here. Golden Earl is useful over a mile, but I prefer to support who may not have an easy task if Stephenson faces the barrier.

There will be a good number of runners for the Shrewsbury Selling Plate, and here the two best might be Break of Day and Arctic Light. Both have run in far better company and both have done well this season. The better claims, however, appear to be held by who gave a first-class display when beating Virgo and Lord Marcus at Alexandra Park earlier on in the month.

Carrier Pigeon comes from a stable in form and is well fancied for the Madeley Maiden Handicap. Choice, however, falls on whom I noted favourably last week at Newmarket.

The programme down for decision at Newcastle is not of the strong order, and there will not be many runners in any race. The Newcastle Autumn Handicap, for instance, which is worth £300, attracted only twelve entries, five of which were taken out at the acceptance. The winner may be M. D. Peacock's who made a convincing display when second to Conway at Pontefract.

Arran Beg will take a lot of beating for the Hazelrigg Selling Plate, but I am more attracted by the chance of who, if reproducing his Newmarket form, should win.

The Gosforth Nursery appears a reasonably good thing for who has made the long journey from Newmarket.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

BECTIVE ON TOUR.

WELL BEATEN BY STRONG LEICESTER XV.

LEICESTER .... 26 BECTIVE RANGERS 0

Bective Rangers were a little unfortunate in meeting yesterday a stronger Leicester team than is generally available for their regular games, S. C. Meikle turning out on the wing and D. A. Kendrew among the forwards. The Rangers were beaten by 5 goals (1 from a mark) and 1 try to nil. It was evident that it was not one of their best days.

Except that their tackling was generally thorough, there was no other department in which the Dublin team could compare with their opponents. Their forwards, of whom a good deal had been expected, were beaten in the scrum and in the loose. Their halves were not so good as Leicester's, and there was no comparison between the three-quarters. To do them justice, the Irish threes so seldom got the ball in the first half that there was little opportunity for them to show what they could do.

In the second half, when they had more openings, their finishing was poor, and twice, when tries seemed almost certain, a muffed pass spoiled the movement. The only man who played up to form was Morris at back. He served his side well by his tackling and judicious touch-finding, but he was over-worked, and could not be expected to do more. O'Connor brought off one or two smart things in the second half, and Delany stuck to his work well until he was injured ten minutes from the end. The visiting forwards were a fairly level lot, Farrell and Power doing a good deal of work.

The Rangers had a very poor first half, hardly ever getting out of their own quarters except by touch kirks. It was during this time that the Leicester three-quarters showed their highest form. Meikle scored two of the best tries seen on the ground this season. Crowe, the Irish international, who has an appointment at Leicester Infirmary, kicked a goal from a mark, and Vallance, one of Leicester's best forwards, scored a try. Coote converted two and Kendrew one, so that Leicester led by 18 points at the interval.

The second half was not so one-sided, although Leicester were still the better. Vallance and Hardwicke scored other tries, and Coote converted one. Teams:—

Bective Rangers—D. P. Morris; D. G. Magee, P. Bailey, D. J. O'Connor, H. Lightfoot; J. A. Delany J. J. Fitzsimons; J. Farrell, P. J. Lalor, T. J. Little, J. C. McGrath, J. C. McMorrough, G. C. Higginbotham, K. M. Power, J. J. Robinson.

Leicester—R. J. Barr; S. C. C. Meikle, M. P. Crowe, P. B. Coote, J. T. Hardwicke; D. Howson, E. Bates; A. P. Hughes, D. A. Kendrew, A. H. Greenwood, G. P. C. Vallance, G. Greaves, J. T. W. Berry, G. R. Beamish, C. H. Pearse.

W. F. BROWNE MEMORIAL MATCH.

CAPTAINS OF THREE COUNTRIES ON ONE SIDE.

The W. F. Browne Memorial Pavilion will be handed over to the Governors of his old school, Campbell College, Belfast, this afternoon. "Horsey" Browne, who was one of the best forwards who ever played for Ireland, died at an early age, and caused a big gap in Irish football.

To-day, a fifteen of past and present internationals will play Campbell College at the latter's ground. It includes three former Scottish captains —Major Usher, H. Waddell and J. M. Bannerman —Lieutenant-Commander Davies, a former English captain, and the Irish captain, Eugene Davy. The international team is:—

Dr. J. R. Wheeler (Queen's University and Ireland); R. M. Byers (Oxford University and Ireland), E. O'D. Davy (Lansdowne and Ireland), H. Waddell (Glasgow Academicals and Scotland), J. M. Atkinson (N.I.F.C. and Ireland); Lieutenant-Commander W. J. A. Davies (United Services and England), T. Mayne (N.I.F.C. and Ireland); J. M. Bannerman (Glasgow High School and Scotland), J. C. H. Ireland (Glasgow High School and Scotland), J. M. McVicker (Collegians, Queen's University and Ireland), J. McF. Neill (Instonians and Ireland), W. McC. Ross (Instonians, Queen's University and Ireland), J. A. Siggins (Collegians and Ireland); Major C. M. Usher (London-Scottish and Scotland), H. Wilkinson (Halifax and England).

SCHOOLS' MATCHES.

Senior and junior teams from St. Joseph's College, Ballinasloe, visited Roscrea on Sunday. Results:—

Senior—Ballinasloe College, 2 goals (10 points); Roscrea College, nil.

CARLOW BEAT KILDARE.

Kildare, playing at home, were defeated by Carlow by 4 tries to nil. As a result of heavy showers, play was mostly confined to the forwards, who were evenly matched. Fenlon, a promising centre three-quarter, scored twice for Carlow. The Kildare backs could not cope with his speed. However, the home three-quarters played well. It was a hard-working Kildare pack.

MINOR LEAGUE.

The match played on Saturday last between Malahide and Suttonians was won by Malahide by a try to nil.

TRANSFER OF KEMPTON PARK FIXTURES.

Arrangements were completed yesterday for the transfer of the next Kempton Park fixture to Sandown Park. There is no more flat racing at Kempton Park this year, and the fixture which has been transferred is the two-day jumping meeting, scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday, November 30th and December 1st.

No arrangements have yet been made regarding the Kempton Park Meeting on Boxing Day, and December 27th, but it is unofficially stated that the fixture will be held on the Hurst Park Racecourse.

These arrangements have been necessitated by the recent fire at Kempton Park, which destroyed the members' stand and other buildings.

IRISH CAMBRIDGESHIRE RUNNERS.

In connection with the Irish Cambridgeshire, to be run at the Curragh on Wednesday, 25th October, the question of jockeyship is entering largely into the calculations of Irish trainers.

It is probable that F. Armstrong, the Middleham trainer, will saddle Sir Troopo, and Prince Aly Khan's Khorassan, it is expected, will represent the Maddenstown Lodge stable.

Mr. R. S. Croker's Chieftain is said to be a certain starter.

Mr. J. T. Rogers, the Curragh trainer, can choose from four, [illegible] likely to be Clicquot.

Mr. R. St. Beale's Lass of Rheims is also a certain runner, and of Colonel Blake's pair, Dolly Daly and Haughtiest, the latter is likely to be the stable's selected.

WOMEN'S HOCKEY.

HEAVY DEFEAT OF TRINITY.

THE WEEK-END MATCHES REVIEWED.

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

THERE was quite a long list of club matches for Saturday last and some good games. The surprise of the day was the defeat of Dublin University by Old College by 4 to 1. The Trinity forward line was weakened by the absence of Miss French from inside left. Her place was taken by Miss Wallace, who, however, was too slow for the rest of the line. The wing players, Misses Radcliffe and Boyle, showed much improved form on the previous week's match, and played a really good game, but the inside players were disorganised. Miss Bonner (centre) was the best of the half-back line, but Miss Griffin, at left, did well in her first match. The back division did not combine effectively, a circumstance that had as much to do with losing the match as the weakness forward.

Old College played good hockey and made use of every scoring opportunity. Miss Meares was a distinct success in goal, especially in the second half, when she cleared at least half a dozen hard shots. The backs and halves worked in unison, Miss Payne allowing Miss M. McKay but little latitude. Misses Smith and Cullen were the pick of a hard-working forward line, and shared the scoring honours.

MUCKROSS UNLUCKY.

Maids of the Mountain and Muckross had a close game at Rathmines, which resulted in a 5-3 win for Maids. On the run of play Muckross were unlucky to be beaten, and with a little more strength in the front line would have made it a draw. Maids' forwards, although without their international centre, Miss Reece, played up to the club standard of previous seasons. Miss S. Moore, sister of the Irish right wing, made a successful senior début at inside left, while another sister played a fine game at right half. Mrs. O'Reilly was an absentee from the back division, her place being taken by Miss Dempsey. Maids favoured the three backs' game, instead of having a goalkeeper. As usual, the Muckross defence was sound, and the forwards showed up much better than in the previous week. They were unfortunate with a number of fine shots that hit the cross-bar or uprights.

WANDERERS AND OPTIMISTS DRAW.

Pembroke Wanderers and Optimists played a drawn game (2-all) at Serpentine avenue. Wanderers had Miss M. Brady as a reserve in goal, and both sides experimented in a few positions. Wanderers have put Miss Barry on the left wing, Miss Warner (Connaught) coming on at inside-left. Miss D. Whiteside was on trial at centre-forward, but was not a success. Miss P. Daly played a fine game at left half. Optimists' half-back line was seen to much advantage, Misses Hassard and Fullwood being most noticeable. Miss Rose was too well marked by Miss N. Whiteside to be effective.

Loreto Past scored a 3-2 win over Monkstown, who were a forward short. For the winners, Misses Cosgrave, Veale (forwards), Flynn (half), and Hart (goal) were prominent, while for Monkstown Misses Flavelle (forward), Cummins (half), Downing and Mrs. Mainguy (backs) were the pick.

Newcomes had a good win by 5-2 over Optimists II. at Terenure. The winners played a nicely-combined game, and were too strong all round for Optimists' second string. The latter lost numerous opportunities through lack of cohesion.

LONDON BETTING.

SHORT PRICE ABOUT DORIGEN.

YESTERDAY'S CALL-OVER ON CAMBRIDGESHIRE.

There was a fair amount of betting at the call-over on the Cambridgeshire at the Victoria Club, London, yesterday. Dorigen again closed favourite at 21 to 4. Wagers noticed included 550 to 100 (three times), 525 to 100, and 1,050 to 200. Most of these bets were laid by those having backed Dorigen in doubles with Nitsichin, and it was noticeable that one or two of the principal layers made no offer at all against the favourite.

Totaig closed firm at 10 to 1, 1,000 to 90, 500 to 45, and 500 to 50 being laid. Andrea advanced from 1,000 to 50 (three times) to 1,800 to 100 and 1,000 to 55 (twice), leaving 17 to 1 the best offer. Pricket had friends at 1,000 to 45 (twice). Double Arch, Beneficial and Diolite were in most request of the others. Prices:—

PROBABLE RUNNERS AND JOCKEYS.

The final acceptors for the Cambridgeshire will be made to-day, but it is expected that those mentioned will remain in. Link Boy has not accepted, and Inglesant is a very doubtful runner. Autumn Tints will not run.

B. Rosen rides Totaig and S. Wragg Beneficial, but a jockey has not yet been secured for Venturer, who will take his chance in the race. R. J. Colling will probably run Royal Athlone, Duodecagon, and Leicester Lane.

Gordon Richards may ride Pricket, the stable companion of the favourite, Dorigen, but this has not, so far, been confirmed.

The list of probable starters is:—

SLIPPER, 6, 9-0	R. Perryman.
ST. OSWALD, 4, 8-13	C. Ray.
ABBOTS WORTHY, 4, 8-12	J. Canty.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL.

BRILLIANT IRISH BACKS.

A SOFT GOAL GIVES ENGLAND A 1—0 VICTORY.

ENGLAND won the match with Ireland at Blackpool yesterday, but only by the bare goal. The team did not show the form expected of them, never finding satisfactory combination, and the deciding score was the direct outcome of a blunder by Scott. Neither Scott nor Hibbs, in the England goal, had very much to do, but the Englishmen had to thank Hibbs for two good saves when, early on, Ireland enjoyed a brief period of supremacy.

True to tradition, the Irishmen never ceased to persevere, and, all things considered, they could be regarded as unfortunate to suffer defeat. They did not attempt elaborated passing, but their straight-ahead style of attack harassed the England backs in a manner somewhat disquieting to the home side.

DUNNE'S DAY OFF.

Enough chances of scoring cropped up for Ireland at least to have drawn, but Dunne, when he threw off the close attentions of O'Dowd, shot badly.

Kelly and Duggan also blundered in this latter detail, and the line never became a sound combination. Jones, the centre-half, deserves full credit for checking Dean, and Mitchell was prominent by his unwearying defence at right-half. The best part of the team was the full-backs. Cook gave a high-class display, and his amateur partner, Fulton, shared the honours in a splendid defence.

Goodall and Blenkinsop were sound without being brilliant, and the halves were of the utmost value in defence, Strange, on the right, standing out as the most consistently skilful player on the field. He worked in harmony with his forwards, and, like Weaver, seldom allowed the opposing wings to bring off a dangerous raid.

With regard to O'Dowd, however, there is bound to be strongly divided opinion as to the correctness of his tactics at centre-half. He usually acted as a third back, and often there was too much space between the middle line and the forwards; but he played a big part in reducing the shooting opportunities of the Irish forwards.

ENGLISH FORWARDS FAIL TO PLEASE.

In a display that did not bring out the best features of Association football, criticism of the individual must be regarded as of less importance than regret that the English eleven did not create a more favourable impression. The forwards disappointed greatly by their failure to make themselves a real combined force. Crooks and Cunliffe on the wings would have been far more valuable had they used the short return pass when on the run.

Barclay and Johnson got in more shots than anyone else, but both failed to control their passes near goal, the consequence being that Dean hardly ever received the help necessary to force a favourable opening. The whole line lacked variety of method, and caused chief disappointment in a side that failed to do themselves justice.

With the weather ideal and the turf fast, the lack of exciting incidents was remarkable. A crowd of some 25,000 saw Johnson try a shot with the left foot soon after the start, but the ball went wide, and another effort from the same player was too high. The centres of Crooks often placed the Irish defenders in difficulties, and one of his carefully placed passes led to Barclay putting in a header. Scott, however, fielded surely.

Due to O'Dowd's careful defence, the Irish forwards rarely received a pass, but once Moore beat Blenkinsop in a struggle for possession, and Hibbs had to go down full length to turn the ball round an upright. Ireland had their full share of attack, and Dunne broke through in the centre. Hampered by Blenkinsop, he shot wide when Hibbs had left his goal, and later on Moore put in a hard drive, Hibbs clearing an awkwardly bouncing ball effectively.

England found combined movements hard to develop against half-backs very quick on the ball, and when the forwards gained good shooting position their efforts lacked certainty. However, at the end of about half an hour Scott made his first mistake and paid the penalty. The goal, which, as it happened, decided the issue, came after the goalkeeper, instead of picking up and clearing, tried to kick away. No Irishman was near enough to Barclay to prevent the Sheffield United forward putting in a quick shot that sent the ball low into the net.

Further openings came to the English forwards, who did better when O'Dowd played further up the field and in closer co-operation with them, but the Irish backs performed some splendid feats of headwork in clearing awkward centres. For all that, Barclay twice got in awkward shots, which Scott dealt with.

IRISH FORWARDS PLAYED OUT.

McCleery turned defence into attack by clearing a corner kick by Crooks and sending out a pass to Kelly, but immediately Cunliffe secured possession and Ireland were forced into a hard struggle. One neat round of passing between Strange, Crooks and Barclay almost produced another goal, and probably would have had Barclay given Dean an opportunity. As it was, Barclay, after running hard, preferred to try a shot himself, and the attempt proved very weak.

Ireland's forwards towards the end faded right out, and Cook, their right back, on one occasion went far up the field to make an effort to equalise. After this Ireland gave the opposition a troublesome few minutes, and Duggan centred low, only to see Dunne drive well over the bar. Just before the end Dean swung the ball hard at goal from long range, but without troubling Scott, who, after his one error, showed capable form.

In this series England now claim thirty-six victories to Ireland's four.

England—Hibbs (Birmingham); Goodall (Huddersfield), Blenkinsop (Sheffield Wednesday); Strange (Sheffield Wednesday), O'Dowd (Chelsea), Weaver (Newcastle United); Crooks (Derby County), Barclay (Sheffield United), Dean (Everton), Johnson (Everton), and Cunliffe (Blackburn Rovers).

Ireland—Scott (Liverpool); Cook (Glasgow Celtic), R. P. Fulton (Belfast Celtic); Mitchell (Distillery), Jones (Linfield), McCleery (Linfield); Duggan (Leeds United), Moore (Aberdeen), Dunne (Sheffield United), J. Doherty (Cliftonville), and Kelly (Derry City).

Referee—Mr. H. Watson (Scotland).

CHANGES IN SCOTTISH LEAGUE TEAM.

It was announced yesterday that there would be two changes in the Scottish League team which meets the Irish League at Glasgow to-morrow. Two Glasgow Rangers men, Gray and McPhail, who were chosen, are suffering from injuries, and their places at right back and inside left will be filled by Crapnell (Airdrieonians) and Stevenson (Motherwell).

COURSING.

TO-DAY'S MEETINGS.

FIRST OF THE CUPS : DERBY AT TRALEE : NEWBRIDGE CARD.

FOR the three meetings to be held to-day there is an aggregate of 250 entries. The first of the cups for 32 all ages, the Connaught trophy, will be competed for at Loughrea. It received the stipulated number of entries, but the subscriptions for the supporting five stakes reveal a considerable falling off, the grand total for the meeting, which will extend over to-morrow, being 86, which, however, all things considered, is not bad.

One hundred and twenty-five dogs will be slipped at Ballybeggan Park, Tralee, where the attraction will be the Kingdom Derby (32). There are only eight in the Oaks, but the three other 32-dog stakes are but half a score short.

The clubs affiliated to the Leinster Union of open country clubs, which was formed at the close of last season, will make a start to-day. At Newbridge the card will consist of four stakes, and here we have a novelty, the committee having decided to experiment with 8-dog stakes. With one exception they filled, and a good day's sport in the open is assured.

BOXING.

DOYLE'S GREAT RIGHT.

PETTIFER KNOCKED OUT IN THE SECOND ROUND.

TWO undefeated men, and two of the biggest heavy-weights in England, in Jack Doyle, the Irish ex-Guardsman, and Jack Pettifer, of London, met at the Crystal Palace, London, yesterday. The fight between two men merely on the threshold of their careers had captured public imagination, and it was one of the biggest crowds at a boxing tournament in recent years that saw the contest.

FIERCE FIRST ROUND.

Doyle won in the second round, when he knocked out Pettifer with a right to the jaw, but he had by no means matters all his own way. In the first round Pettifer gave as good as he received, and when he retired to his dresingroom after the fight Doyle's nose was bleeding, and he displayed signs of having been through a rough time.

There was no question, however, of his superiority, and the way the Irishman tore into his man in the second round showed the natural fighter. Pettifer was forced to cover up, but he was not clever enough or quick enough to get out of the whirlwind attack of Doyle, who added greatly to his reputation by the way he completely outclassed an undoubtedly good young heavy-weight.

THE FIGHT DESCRIBED.

Doyle led with a left. Pettifer backed away and then lashed out with rights and lefts to the head, and when he hit the Irishman with a right to the body, Doyle tried to hang on. Doyle came back with that famous right poised. He clouted Pettifer with it, but the Londoner got away when the Irishman bored in two-handed for the body.

Pettifer was boxing coolly, but he took a right to the head that straightened him. Pettifer was extraordinarily cool, and he lashed out with right and left to Doyle's face. Doyle missed with a smashing right that would have ended the fight, and when he ran in again Pettifer steadied him with a left to the jaw.

Still the big Irish boy came back. Nothing seemed to be able to stop him. He tore in with no guard at all, and took blows that covered him with blood. He just stood up while Pettifer peppered him, waiting for the chance to get in that terrible right.

HOW THE END CAME.

These two huge young men had put up in the first round an amazing battle. Never before in the history of heavy-weight boxing in England had such heavy punishment been taken so unflinchingly.

At the beginning of the second round Doyle leapt in, lashing out furiously with his right hand. Pettifer raised his left arm to cover his face, and staggered back under the onslaught. The Irish boy, however, swept forward like a tornado. He crashed home three successive rights to Pettifer's jaw, the last blow sending the 17-stone London "hope" half-way through the ropes flat on his back.

At "eight" Pettifer raised his head and looked round, but it was plain that his senses had not come back to him, and he was counted out.

ENTHUSIASTIC SPECTATORS.

Wild scenes of enthusiasm broke out at the end of the fight. People threw their hats in the air, stamped and yelled their delight. Officials fought fiercely to restrain the enthusiasm of hundreds of spectators, who clambered over the shoulders of the ringside seat-holders in an attempt to invade the ring and chair the winner. There was not a single person of all that sporting crowd who was not showing some signs of excitement. All the way to his dressingroom, although he was surrounded by his seconds, Doyle was subjected to congratulations. Hearty smacks on the back, on the head, and even his ears were pulled by onlookers, who did not know how to restrain their enthusiasm.

The management of the crowd—a record one at the Crystal Palace—was beyond reproach. Only one untoward incident occurred. That took place during the interval between the first and second rounds of the big fight, when there was a scuffle between some members of the audience. They were speedily ejected.

The scene outside the ground had never been rivalled at any boxing contest in England.

LARRY GAINS BEATEN IN PARIS.

PARIS, Monday.

Attracted by the prospects of a merciless combat between Larry Gains and Walter Neusel, a crowd of some 6,000 turned up at the Palais des Sport to-night.

Gains started a strong favourite for the fight, but he failed signally against his younger opponent. Gains was doing splendidly in the early part of the contest, but he tired towards the end, and was beaten on points.

ROUND ONE.

Gains attacked quickly, but was repelled. Neusel attacked to the body and got in several blows which seemed to have no effect. Neusel again attached to the body, but Gains recovered and countered coolly. Neusel, evidently thinking Gains's vulnerable point was the stomach, continued his onslaught to that quarter. Neusel's round.

ROUND TWO.

Gains began fighting, and landed at once a left and right in quick succession. He forced his man to the ropes and repeated the dose. Gains throughout this round was much cooler than the German, got his measure, and stopped Neusel's wicked blows. Gains's round.

ROUND THREE.

Neusel at the beginning looked tired, but, judging his blows better, got home several lefts to the head and rights to the body. Although Neusel was putting up a good fight it was obvious that he lacked Gains's experience. In-fighting ensued, in which Gains got Neusel into difficulties, driving him into his corner. Gains's round.

ROUND FOUR.

Neusel opened well with well-placed body blows, but Gains was always much fresher and kept harassing Neusel. At this stage people at the ringside confidently prophesied that Gains would win on a knock-out.

ROUND FIVE.

The fight took on a new complexion in this round, and the prophets began furiously to think. Gains was still boxing calmly, but Neusel got a left to Gains's jaw which shook him up badly. A few seconds later Neusel landed his right to the head, and Gains began to cover up for the first time. Neusel, considerably encouraged, went all out, and followed Gains round the ring. Neusel's round.

ROUND SIX.

Both men were now fighting furiously, and Gains succeeded in getting Neusel twice on the ropes, where he punished him severely, but Neusel recovered quickly and hammered Gains's body. Gains kept him off for the rest of the round. Neusel's round.

ROUND SEVEN.

Neusel began by chasing Gains round the ring, but Gains proved much too clever, and dodged his opponent's blows. Gains now reassumed the upper hand, and landed several direct right's to Neusel's head. Gains's round.

ROUND EIGHT.

The fight was now beginning to slow down, but a sudden attack by Gains drew loud cheers from the crowd. Neusel missed several swings badly, and Gains kept close up to him, getting in a series of body blows. Round about even.

ROUND NINE.

Neusel came out of his corner and looked as if he wanted to force the pace, but he was quickly blocked by Gains, who was opposing ringcraft to the dogged fighting of the younger man. Things, however, looked dangerous for Gains at one moment, but, though tired, he finished the round boxing well. Round even.

ROUND TEN.

Both men showed signs of having received severe punishment. Neusel got home a fine right to the head, and followed it up with a series of body blows. Suddenly the crowd roared as Gains actually went down from a direct right to the jaw. Neusel also had the better of the rest of the round. It was Neusel's round, and he won the fight on points.

IRELAND V. ENGLAND.

So far no change has been announced in either team for the contest between Ireland and England in the Ulster Hall, Belfast, on Wednesday, 26th October, and it is most likely they will enter the ring as selected. The English team, which is a thoroughly representative one at each weight, will come on to Dublin for a second contest in the Queen's Theatre on the following Friday.

FROM THE GREYHOUND TRACKS.

SHELBOURNE PARK RACE RE-RUN.

DOGS REFUSE TO FOLLOW THE "HARE."

ROYAL ESCORT, the winner of the Scurrys Cup, followed up recent successes by winning the Shelbourne Stake last night at Shelbourne Park. The strongly fancied Semi-Lunar, proved too fast for his opponents in the Sandymount Sprint, but Gyp's Peggy, the winner of the Clounanna Bitch Stakes, was fully extended to beat Red Label, a head only separating the pair.

Swift White Lady won the Shelbourne Hurdle and Clear Luck the Celtic Hurdle. The latter event had to be re-run on account of the dogs refusing to follow the "hare." Details:—

BILLIARDS

DAVIS STARTS WELL.

Lindrum had slightly the worse of the first session of his fortnight's match against Davis, who receives 3,000, at Thurston's, London, yesterday, Davis averaging 57 and Lindrum 43. There was a complaint from Lindrum early in the session about the red ball, the colouring of which, it was alleged, was faulty. The referee allowed the game to be continued with the original set, but towards the interval a new set of balls was brought into use. Davis had breaks of 359, 104 and 108, while Lindrum had 100 and 245.

At night Davis totalled 809 against Lindrum's 725, the former having breaks of 298, 211 and 171 (unfinished), Lindrum's best being 129 (full), 100 and 429. Closing scores:—Davis (rec. 3,000) (in play), 4,556; Lindrum, 1,246.

NEWMAN OUTPOINTS MCCONACHY.

Newman and McConachy began a nine days' match at Hanley yesterday, and in the opening session Newman outpointed McConachy by more than 300. In his total of 684 he had innings of 229, 209, 115 and 101, and he averaged 62. McConachy failed to make a three-figure break. Maintaining his form, Newman increased his lead to over 400 in the evening session, when he made breaks of 186 (full), 241 and 240 unfinished, his total being 646, and his average 108. McConachy, averaging 86 for 514, compiled breaks of 186 and 112 (twice). Closing scores:—Newman (in play), 1,330; McConachy, 887.

TEAMS MAY NOT TRAVEL BY AIR.

The application of Plymouth Argyle for permission to use an air liner for the transport of their players on long journeys to away matches was refused by the English League Management Committee at their meeting at Blackpool yesterday.

The Committee, in banning the scheme, took the view (it is understood) that the time was not yet opportune to sanction such a form of travel for football teams.

ENGLISH LEAGUE AND UNEMPLOYED.

The Committee of the English League yesterday decided that no action could be taken with regard to unemployed persons being admitted to League matches at reduced prices.

The decision was based on Regulation 32, which rules that the minimum charge for admission to any League match shall be one shilling, including entertainment tax, except to ladies, soldiers and sailors in uniform, and boys under 14.

Mr. T. Charnley, Secretary of the League, explained to a Press representative that people could be admitted at half-time at half-price. The question of reduced prices for the unemployed was a matter that would have to be discussed by the clubs themselves at the annual meeting.

OPIUM SMUGGLER HEAVILY FINED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SINGAPORE, Monday.

A fine of 15,000 dollars (nearly £1,700), or two years' rigorous imprisonment, was imposed by the court this morning upon Mrs. Dora Strezeszak, the young Polish woman, who was remanded in custody on Wednesday last on the charge of importing illicit opium valued at £1,200.

The drug, it was alleged, was brought from China in the P. and O. liner, Carthage. It is thought that the accused woman is a member of a large gang engaged in illicit dru trafficking.

Upon hearing the sentence Mrs. Strezeszak burst into tears. The fine has not yet been paid.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS.

TRADING AT LOW EBB: STOCKS CLOSE HEAVY.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Monday.

The Stock market to-day was dull and uninteresting. The approaching political developments occupy a large part of Wall street's horizon, and trading was very small. The list finished unchanged to 2 points down.

There was little in the news to influence the market this morning, and soon after an easy opening quotations drifted 1 to 3 points lower. A better undertone developed towards mid-day, however, and many stocks recovered a point or more, but dealings were very sluggish.

Business turned almost lifeless in the afternoon. Those transactions which took place were to a large extent of a professional nature, and prices again drifted moderately lower.

The imminence of the earnings reports for the third quarter, many of which will certainly be disappointing, tends to create the exercise of caution in the Stock market. The report of United States Steel, which is due shortly, is at present the subject of considerable discussion on Wall street, the recent low rate of operations clearly foreshadowing a large deficit. The market closed heavy.

The prevalent cheapness of money remains one of the bullish talking points. Banking quarters stress the fact that cheap credit conditions are likely to be effective in bolstering prices and stimulating business only when other conditions are favourable, and that its effect will, probably, be gradual.

According to the publication, Steel, the up-turn in steel activity now appears to be flattening out. The day's sales totalled approximately 800,000 shares.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Monday.

The Grain market to-day displayed no particular trend, prices backing and filling within narrow limits. Business news was without noteworthy feature, while a slow export demand, coupled with a poor outside buying interest, had a somewhat depressing effect. A mixed commission house trade was in evidence. Scattered liquidation caused recessions in wheat, while the easier tone of the Stock market constituted another depressing factor. Dealings were mainly in small lots, with some professional buying helping to steady prices. Maize values improved on a fair export inquiry, coupled with an absence of country pressure. The market was influenced by the fluctuations in wheat. Rye and oats moved in unison with other cereals.

WHEAT opened steady, ¼c. lower to unchanged. The close was steady, with futures unchanged on the day.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

BLACK CURRANTS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Probably for preserving purposes, and for their medicinal value, the black currant is chief of the tribe, as it is wholly distinct in its habit of growth. With it we promote, instead of checking, the making of suckers, and by their aid replace the older fruiting wood which we eliminate. Then, too, the young shoots, which in the case of red and white kinds must be spurred back for fruit production; for the Black Currant must be left intact, pruning being confined to removing the weaker wood to avoid congestion. We still have a great regard for the big berried Boskoop Giant, although it has not as predicted proved immune to the big bud pest. That, however, is overcome by close attention to hand-picking and periodical spraying with the lime sulphur solution. We like to do any necessary pruning so soon as all fruit is gathered, and this with all Currants.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

CLEARING OUT SURPLUS BIRDS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

How difficult it seems to get rid of all the birds that must go. There are many still who have birds they ought to be rid of, but are in no hurry to do so. Now that the weather is much cooler, the demand for table poultry will be improving, and this should be taken advantage of at the first opportunity, as the season is getting late. Surplus cockerels must be sold so that the pullets may have all the room possible. The same applies to old hens, which should have been cleared off before this. Don't wait any longer with the idea that prices will improve. The food bill will increase, and overcrowding will injure the young stock. Old birds should certainly not be kept a day longer even though they may be laying, except they are valuable for breeding purposes.

A FEW Pure Bred Hens (1½ years), of exceptional laying strain, over moult, make ideal breeding birds; White Wyandottes, Rhodes and Light Sussex; price 3/6 each. Apply Barnhill, Dalkey. Telephone, 78. T
